Let McReynolds Submit It to Senate Committee for What It Was Worth.

NOT TO BE A TRUST WEAPON

Tax Only Meant as an Emergency Measure to Protect Tobacco Independents.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Whatever uncertainty may have existed as to President Wilson's attitude toward Attorney General McReynolds's plan to curtail the production of the big tobacco companies by means of cumulative taxation, ended to-day through authoritative information obtained at the White House. This information made it clear that it was at the President's suggestion that Mr. McReynolds brought his plan to the attention of Chairman Simmons of the Senate Finance Committee with a view to its consideration as part of the pending tariff legislation. In all respects the statements contained in a Washington dispatch printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES on Wednesday, were confirmed in the same authoritative way, and the efforts to make it appear that President Wilson disapproved the McReynolds idea were shown to be unfounded.

The frankness that characterized the imparting of this information through sources close to the President was apparently the outcome of a decision that the secrecy maintained by Administration officials concerning the McReynolds plan had done more harm than good. Since its publication in THE TIMES, officials have shown a reticence in discussing the matter that gave rise to speculations which increased the uncertainty as to what the Attorney General proposed, and apparently tended to have a bad effect on business conditions in the country.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent was informed that the subject of curtailing the activities of the dissolved tobacco companies was brought before the Cabinet on Tuesday by Attorney General McReynolds. Mr. McReynolds then maintained, as he had consistently, that the plan of dissolution sanctioned by the United States Circuit Court of New York was a subterfuge and, therefore, ineffective. Mr. McReynolds, it was related, argued that conditions in the tobacco world were practically unchanged since the dissolution plan went into effect. The small independent companies were being forced to the wall, he held, and he proposed his scheme of progressive taxation as a means to curtail the product of the big tobacco companies and thus enable the smaller concerns to compete with them.

Wilson Showed Sympathy.

President Wilson showed sympathy with Mr. McReynolds's suggestion to the extent of authorizing him to bring it to the attention of the Senate Finance Committee with a view to having that committee consider whether it should be included in the pending tariff legislation. The authoritative information obtained to-day appears to make it plain, however, that the McReynolds idea was not accepted by the President as the foundation of a general plan of legislation intended to restrict the production of other great business concerns to enable their smaller competitors to compete with them successfully. In other words, the Administration has not authorized Mr. McReynolds to attempt to apply his plan to the production of steel, oil, and other commodities, with regard to which monopolistic conditions are said to prevail.

The authoritative explanation of the McReynolds idea and the Administration's attitude toward it was not made through any prepared statement, but it nevertheless represents what the White House and the Department of Justice are willing that the country shall understand is the position that they occupy in the matter. Solely for the purpose of preventing this explanation from being confused with what follows it in this dispatch it is given herewith within quotation marks:

"Years ago, when the Payne-Aldrich Tariff bill was under discussion in Congress, Attorney General McReynolds, then connected with work coming under the Attorney General's office, thought that the way to reach the tobacco monopoly was by imposing what he called a progressive excise tax. About a year or more ago Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska introduced a bill in the Senate that was in substance the same as the amendment presented yesterday. The amendment of yesterday simply embodied the old idea of Mr. Hitchcock. The Attorney General says that recently prominent independent tobacco manufacturers came to see him, and represented and proved to him that their condition was steadily growing more and more hopeless because the decree for the dissolution of the Tobacco Trust had not brought genuine competition. These independent manufacturers told Mr. McReynolds that unless some remedy could be devised their business would be destroyed.

"At the time of the final decree of the dissolution of the Tobacco Trust, entered in the United States Circuit Court at New York, Mr. McReynolds gave out a brief statement in New York that in his opinion the dissolution plan was a subterfuge, and that it would not accomplish the purposes of the Sherman anti-trust law.

"At the Cabinet meeting on Tuesday the Attorney General suggested the possibility of remedying the wrong occasioned by the entry of the decree in the Circuit Court by the imposition of a progressive excise tax on tobacco. There was no thought in the mind of the Attorney General that this should embody any general policy. The whole thing was intended to meet a particular emergency under the particular circumstances now existing, and with the hope of preserving the business of worthy independent tobacco manufacturers.

An Extraordinary Measure Only.

"It was his view that this was an extraordinary measure intended for an extraordinary occasion brought about by what he regarded as the failure of the Government to secure a proper dissolution of the tobacco companies so as to preserve the possibility of real, genuine competition. The suggestion was discussed by various members of the Cabinet and was regarded as one at least worthy of consideration. The President suggested that the Attorney General talk it over with Senator Simmons in order that it might be considered by his committee (Senator Simmons is Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Senate) for what it was worth.

"In pursuance of this suggestion the Attorney General saw Senator Simmons and laid the subject matter before him. Senator Simmons said he would take it up with his committee and give it the consideration which the importance of the subject indicated."

The immediate outcome of the conference between the Attorney General and the Chairman of the Finance Committee was the presentation by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska of his amendment for a progressive excise tax on tobacco and BLAME MRS. WOODFORD.

BRIDGEPORT, June 6.—Six witnesses appeared before Coroner Phelan to-day in his investigation of the death of William Steinhauser in Fairfield on Tuesday, and the gist of their testimony was that Mrs. Stewart L. Woodford, widow of Gen. Woodford, once Minister to Spain, was responsible for the accident.

Mrs. Woodford, who had been suffering nervousness since the accident, did not appear before the Coroner, but will testify in private in a few days.

Conrad Olsen, who saw the accident, told the Coroner that Mrs. Woodford's automobile was traveling at a rate of fifteen or twenty miles an hour and was on the wrong side of the road. John and George Schuman testified that the chauffeur in the car reached over and took hold of the steering wheel, which Mrs. Woodford was operating. William J. Brown, the chauffeur, testified that he sprang up and assisted Mrs. Woodford in pushing against the emergency brake when he saw that a collision was unavoidable. The rest of the testimony was similar to that given by Olsen.

The investigation will be renewed next week.

RETURNS STOLEN MILLION.

Shourds Then Appears in Philadelphia Court and Is Released.

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—An indictment charging Walter S. Shourds, former Superintendent of the safe deposit vaults of the Merchants Union Trust Company, with the theft of nearly $1,500,000 in cash and securities from the vaults of the company, was ordered submitted to a jury in the Court of Quarter Sessions here to-day for a verdict of not guilty. Counsel for the company explained to the court that full restitution had been made by Shourds several months ago.

Shourds was indicted in September, 1911, when officials of the trust company reported that he was missing, and that a shortage of between $25,000 and $30,000 had been uncovered. Subsequently it was discovered that in addition to the cash, $1,400,000 in securities was missing from the strongbox of George W. Burnham, Jr., a Director of the company.

Detectives scoured Europe and this country in a vain attempt to apprehend Shourds, who was reported to have been in constant communication with friends in this city. When assured that the prosecution would be dropped if he returned the money and securities Shourds returned to this country.

SUPT. HEETER IS DISMISSED

PITTSBURGH, June 6.—After many weeks of investigation, the Board of Public Education to-night discharged S. L. Heeter, Superintendent of Public Schools, having found him guilty of improper conduct. Only one member, Miss Beulah Kennard, who defended the Superintendent at a previous meeting, voted against discharging Heeter. The accused man was not present.

It was after 4 o'clock when the board met to vote publicly as to the guilt or innocence of Heeter. For several days secret meetings had been held to study the evidence, consisting of more than 1,000 pages of typewritten testimony, which had been taken by a special committee of six prominent citizens appointed by the board to make the investigation.

A maid employed by Heeter made two charges against him early last March, when she was ill in a hospital. He was arrested, indicted, and acquitted by a jury in the Criminal Court. He had obtained a leave of absence for the trial. When he resumed his duties demonstrations, or "strikes," participated in by thousands of schoolchildren, occurred all over the city.

Charges that Supt. Heeter had acted indiscreetly with others resulted in the board appointing the citizens' committee. The committee made its report to the board last Monday, finding Heeter guilty.

DICKENSHEETS LET GO.

PHILADELHIA, June 6.—George W. Dickensheets, President of the First National Bank of Woodbury, N. J., and Henry Stille of Clayton, N. J., who together with Joseph J. Summerill, Public Prosecutor of Gloucester County, N. J., and Joseph B. Best of Woodbury, N. J., were arrested in a hotel here last Saturday on charges of attempted extortion, were discharged from custody by Magistrate Gorman to-day. Summerill and Best were paroled in the custody of their attorney for a further hearing on next Friday.

David Wilson Moore, Jr., told in detail of an alleged conspiracy to extort $5,000 and the guarantee of a $200,000 bond from him to save his brother, Charles Moore, from prosecution for defalcation at the Moore Brothers Glass Company. Dickensheets, Best, and Stille constituted a bondholders' committee of the company, which went into the hands of a receiver more than a year ago. He said Best first came to him with a story that on examining the books of the company it had been discovered that Charles Moore, the Secretary, "had taken some $8,000 for his own use without authority." Threats were then made, he said, that unless $5,000 was paid in cash and the bonds of the company, estimated as worth only $50,000, were guaranteed for their full amount of $200,000, there would be a prosecution. Public Prosecutor Summerill was mentioned as having full knowledge of the conditions.

Moore told of having engaged detectives who arrested the four defendants last Saturday after the demands had been put in writing. Evidence obtained by the use of a dictaphone was ruled out by the court.

DROWNED IN NEWARK PARK.

While reaching for a lost oar in Park Lake, Newark, last night, Mrs. Bridget Clark of 10 North Thirteenth Street, was drowned. In the boat with her was Patrick Dunn, who was rescued by two park policemen after the boat was capsized.

The woman sank beneath the surface of the water and was not seen again. Dunn clung to the side of the overturned boat. There was a crowd of people on both shores of the lake, and a shout went up when the accident occurred. Park Policemen James Clarken and William Carrolton jumped into the water, and while one took Dunn the other dove under the water and brought Mrs. Clark up. While waiting for a City Hospital ambulance the policemen worked over her, but she did not respond.

The dead woman's husband told the police Dunn was a close friend, and that both families were friends of long standing. Dunn was held pending an investigation.

BUSINESS MEN PUSH THE WHITMAN BOOM

HAPGOOD IS NOT DISTURBED

District Attorney Charles S. Whitman last night received the indorsement of the West Side Business Men's Association for the Mayoralty nomination. It was this organization that gave the District Attorney a complimentary dinner at the Hotel Astor on May 24. The dinner was intended to be the beginning of a Whitman Mayoralty boom. The meeting last night, which was held at the Hotel Astor also, was a direct outcome of the Whitman banquet.

The meeting last night was held to effect a permanent organization to conduct a vigorous ante-primary campaign in the interest of Mr. Whitman's candidacy. This was done by electing A. E. Stilger, President of the Chelsea Exchange Bank, President; George A. Mahler, Vice President; Thomas J. Buckley, a builder of Queens, Secretary, and E. A. Arnold, a real estate dealer, Treasurer. A committee made up of these officers and the following members was named to put the candidacy of Mr. Whitman properly before the people: Frank Williams, Lawrence Emerich, Edward Carpenter, Perley Morse, Herman D. Nessler, Michael A. Blake, Charles H. Darmstadt, John Mulcahy, Joseph F. Murphy, and Joseph F. Feist. Of the fourteen members of the committee six are Republicans, six Democrats, and two Progressives.

The meeting was held in the College Room at the Hotel Astor. About fifty members of the West Side Business Men's Association attended. There was unanimity on every question that came before the meeting.

At the very outset resolutions were adopted praising the record Mr. Whitman has made in the District Attorney's office and pledging the support of the West Side business men to his candidacy. Here is the resolution:

> Whereas, The trend of events in the City of New York during the past year requires as the Chief Executive of our city an honest, capable, efficient, and courageous official and a man of ability and experience, and
>
> Whereas, The excellent work performed by the Hon. Charles S. Whitman as District Attorney of New York County commends him to the favorable consideration and hearty support of his fellow-citizens, therefore be it
>
> Resolved, That we, the members of the West Side Business Men's Association in meeting assembled do hereby pledge our support to use our utmost endeavors to secure his nomination and election as Mayor of the City of New York.

The meeting also passed a resolution presented by Capt. Michael A. Burnes, providing for the appointment of a subcommittee of seven to make arrangements for opening the Whitman ante-primary campaign. The tentative plan provides for an unofficial convention to be held either at Carnegie Hall or Cooper Union, soon after the close of the extraordinary session of the Legislature, at which Mr. Whitman is to be named as the Mayoralty candidate of the anti-Tammany forces. The members of this committee are: Capt. Michael A. Burnes, Chairman; Lawrence Emerich, Perley Morse, John P. Windolf, Frank Williams, John A. Quinn, and Thomas F. Devine. Mr. Devine, who was Charity Commissioner under Mayor Low, is a Progressive, and was his party's candidate for State Senator from the Eighteenth District last Fall.

It is the intention of the West Side Business Men's Association to begin the circulation of petitions to get Mr. Whitman's name on the primary ballot at once. Four thousand signatures are required. It is not believed that there will be any great difficulty in getting these or two or three times that number. But it is admitted that the present law, which makes invalid any petitions for independent candidates on which the names of any men enlisted as members of a regular party appear, is likely to be troublesome.

While there was a studied effort to give last night's meeting a non-partisan aspect, it is no secret in political circles that it enters the field with heavy Republican backing. At the recent dinner most of those in attendance were Republicans, and many of the diners were leaders in the Republican county organization. Its action is in direct line with that of the Citizens' Democracy in offering the nomination to Mr. Whitman on Thursday.

Norman Hapgood, Chairman of the Committee of One Hundred and Seven, in a formal statement, said yesterday that the action of the Citizens' Democracy or like action by any similar body would make no difference with the plans of the committee.

"As far as the Committee of One Hundred and Seven is concerned, its position is unchanged," said Mr. Hapgood. "Our duty is to study the fitness of candidates, and also their availability up to the very last moment, and then to put out a slate which we believe will appeal to the independents in all parties as a perfectly impartial solution of the problem before us, as this may present itself when the time comes."

Mr. Hapgood said that he did not see how any harm could come from indorsement of candidates from other quarters. On the contrary, Mr. Hapgood said, the Committee of One Hundred and Seven would welcome every expression of sentiment with regard to candidates and would give due consideration to such expressions in selecting its candidates.

District Attorney Whitman yesterday determined to qualify his statement of the day before—that he would accept the nomination for Mayor if it were tendered to him by "any properly constituted organization," by making Tammany's nomination an exception.

"I could not under any circumstances accept the nomination from any organization whose political tenets are so different from my own," said the District Attorney. "I should have said yesterday, 'any properly constituted organization opposed to Tammany Hall.'"

WOODRUFF ALARMS MOOSERS.

His Forgetfulness Makes Them Fear That He Has Deserted Cause.

There was a near panic in the ranks of the Kings County Bull Moose organization yesterday when it was announced that Timothy L. Woodruff, erstwhile Republican County leader, now with the Progressive Party, had sent in a blank enrollment slip to the Bureau of Elections in Brooklyn. The blank was signed, but there was no cross to indicate under which party Mr. Woodruff wished to enroll.

The blank was among 1,485 enrollment slips filed last Wednesday by Mark Reardon, Jr., Secretary of the Brooklyn organization. The Bull Moose people for four days before that time had been hustling to get their followers to enroll under the standard of Col. Roosevelt. Notwithstanding the 67,000 votes they rolled up in Kings County for their candidate for Governor last Fall, the appeals of the leaders for a strong enrollment for the coming primaries have

SOCIALIST EDITOR GETS BIG SENTENCE

Scott, Convicted in Paterson Strike, to Serve from 1 to 15 Years and Pay $250 Fine.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., June 6.—Alexander Scott, editor of The Weekly Issue, a Socialist periodical, who was convicted of defaming the Government, was sentenced to a term of from one to fifteen years in State Prison at Trenton, and to pay a fine of $250, by Judge Klenert in the Court of Quarter Sessions in this city to-day. Notice of an appeal was filed at once by his counsel, and Scott was released in $3,000 bail, which was furnished by Samuel Ginsberg of Passaic. Scott said the case would be carried to the United States Supreme Court if necessary, as the right of free speech was involved. He was convicted of defaming the police in connection with the silk mill strike.

Judge Klenert announced that he would not sentence the thirty-eight strikers who were found guilty of unlawful assembly yesterday until next Friday morning.

Hannah Silberman, the woman strike leader, arrested four times and convicted twice of unlawful assembly, who was sentenced to serve twenty days in the county jail by Recorder Carroll yesterday morning for creating a disturbance in his court while a strike case was on trial, was released to-night under a writ of certiorari which was obtained by her counsel from Supreme Court Justice Minturn in Hoboken this afternoon. She announced upon her release that she would head the delegation which will depart from Paterson at 10:30 o'clock to-morrow morning over the Lackawanna Railroad to participate in the strike pageant at Madison Square Garden in Manhattan.

Benjamin Cohen of 81 Lane Street, who was arrested yesterday afternoon charged with having attacked Miss Mary Hall of 124 Jersey Street, Paterson, while she and her sister were returning from work in a silk mill on Wednesday night, was committed to jail in default of $500 bail by Recorder Carroll to-day.

The Manufacturers' Association issued a statement to-day in answer to the one sent out by the Central Strike Committee last night in which it was proposed to have a committee of fifteen strikers meet a similar committee of manufacturers to discuss the settlement of the strike. The Manufacturers' Association asserted that its members would not treat with the strikers until they returned to work.

REBUKES VICE HUNTERS.

Chicago Merchant Tells Them They Are Sensation Seekers.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Charges reflecting on the sincerity, honesty, and dignity of the Illinois Senatorial Vice Commission, which is investigating the wages paid to men employed in Chicago, with a view to establishing a minimum wage law, were made before that body to-day.

Julius Rosenwald, President of Sears, Roebuck & Co., described the investigating body as "sensation seeking, insincere, and incompetent," and refused to answer questions because Lieut. Gov. O'Hara would not allow him to read a statement that he had prepared.

Mr. Rosenwald's criticism came after Senator Beall had attempted to get from him a comparison of the worth of the services of men and women in the commercial field.

"I shall have to refuse to answer such a question," said Mr. Rosenwald. "I have no faith in the good intention of this committee. I am willing to give it facts, but I don't care to submit opinions."

T. W. Robinson, Vice President of the Illinois Steel Company, testified that 22,000 men were employed by his company and that the average wage was $2.74 a day. The highest wage is $300 to $400 a month for skilled men, who superintend the heating and rolling of steel. At Gary 7,800 men are employed. The lowest wage is $1.95 for a ten-hour day.

"What do you regard as a fair living wage for a man with a wife and daughter," asked Mr. O'Hara.

"I believe the wage we pay is adequate," said Mr. Robinson. "Our policy has not been to see how little we could pay our employes, but to see how much we could afford to pay them for any given class of work. We do not attempt to regulate the wages on increased or decreased profits."

SEIZE RIFLES IN DUBLIN.

DUBLIN, June 6.—A sensation was caused by the seizure to-day by the customs authorities of a consignment of 500 rifles and bayonets on board a steamer from Liverpool. The arms were addressed to Lord Farnham, an Irish peer, at his country seat, Farnham, County Cavan.

Lord Farnham, who is only 33 years old, is one of the leading Unionists of the Province of Ulster and has taken a prominent part in the campaign against Home Rule.

The cases of rifles and bayonets came from a London firm, and it is reported that the authorities have discovered an elaborate organization in London for supplying the Unionist centres in Ulster with arms.

AUBURN CONVICTS STRIKE.

Object to Food and Try to Test New Warden's Mettle.

AUBURN, June 6.—Protesting against a noon menu consisting of codfish, potatoes, pickled beets, brown bread, white bread and tea, convicts in the cabinet and cane shops of the Auburn Prison went on a strike to-day. C. F. Rattigan, the Warden, locked the strikers in cells and later all except twenty-seven of them decided to return to work.

Old-time officers of the institution say the prisoners were trying to test the mettle of the new Warden.

WOOD JURY OUT; BRIBE OFFER MADE

Member Tells the Court So as the Dynamite Planting Trial Ends.

BOSTON, June 6.—The jury in the dynamite conspiracy case which grew out of the Lawrence textile strike, has been deliberating nine hours on the question of the guilt of the three alleged conspirators—William M. Wood, President of the American Woolen Company; Freedrick E. Atteaux, and Dennis J. Collins. At midnight Judge Crosby sent word to the jury that he would not receive a verdict until 6 o'clock to-morrow.

Just before court opened to-day, one of the jurors, Morris Shuman, told Judge Crosby that a man had approached him last night with an offer of $200 and a life job if he would agree to vote as the would-be briber might direct. Shuman said he did not know the man's name, or which side he represented, but thought he could identify him. The Grand Jury will investigate the incident to-morrow.

After a conference with Judge Crosby, District Attorney Pelletier and counsel for the defense, during which the opening of court was delayed more than an hour, Shuman expressed the opinion that he could reach a decision on the evidence without being influenced by the alleged offer. Accordingly, he was allowed to enter the jury box.

Judge Crosby instructed the jurors to return a verdict on each of the six counts of the indictments, but to find the defendants not guilty on the sixth count, which charged conspiracy to injure certain buildings and other property in Lawrence. No evidence to support this charge had been presented, the court said.

The first count charges conspiracy to injure the textile strikers; the second, conspiracy to injure unknown persons; the third and fourth, conspiracy to injure Joseph Assaf and Urbano De Prato by imputing to them the illegal storing of dynamite in premises occupied by them; the fifth, conspiracy to falsely charge unknown persons with illegal storing and keeping of dynamite. Any agreement to injure any person constituted a criminal conspiracy, the court said.

"If the jury should find that no conspiracy existed," said Judge Crosby, "that ends the case, but if the existence of a conspiracy is established, then all of the acts and declarations of each of the defendants may be considered as evidence against the other defendants."

The court said the evidence of one conspirator was not competent against another conspirator after the object of the illegal agreement had been accomplished.

LITTLE GIRL HAD GEMS.

Lillian Wheeler, 13 years old, of 41 Bay Thirty-eighth Street, Brooklyn, was held by Magistrate Mayo in the Children's Court yesterday for further examination to-day on the complaint of Mrs. Louise Frackman, of 8,630 Twenty-fourth Avenue, wife of a Maiden Lane jeweler. The girl is charged with juvenile delinquency, but unless she can explain satisfactorily how she came to have in her possession jewelry of Mrs. Frackman worth $1,200 a more serious charge will be made against her.

Lillian Wheeler and twenty of her friends held a lawn party last Thursday in the rear of the Frackman home. Yesterday morning Mrs. Frackman went out to do an errand, leaving her six-year-old son, Edward, in the house. The Wheeler girl, according to the boy, called at the house soon after Mrs. Frackman departed, saying that she had come for her basket, which she had left there after the lawn party. Edward said he admitted her, and that she quit the house after she had searched unsuccessfully for her basket. When Mrs. Frackman returned she discovered that her jewels, which she had wrapped in tissue paper, were missing. The boy told her of the girl's visit. She notified the police of the Bath Street Station of her loss, and Detective Meggismith went to the public school which Lillian Wheeler attends and persuaded her to return to her home with him. At her home the girl admitted to the detective that she had the jewels, but she said she had found them in the street, and denied having taken them. The jewels, which were found to be intact, were returned to Mrs. Frackman.

NEW HEAD OF MATTEAWAN.

Dr. Kieb Appointed to Take Place of Dr. Russell.

ALBANY, June 6.—John B. Riley, State Superintendent of Prisons, has appointed Dr. Raymond F. C. Kieb, Superintendent of Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at a salary of $3,500. Dr. Kieb succeeds Dr. Roy L. Leak, who has been Acting Sperintendent since Dr. John Russell resigned when the Sulzer Committee of Inquiry took up the alleged bribe attempt of Harry K. Thaw to obtain his freedom. Dr. Kieb has for the past three years been first assistant physician at the Dannemora State Hospital. Dr. Leak will resume his duties as first assistant physician at Matteawan.

Dr. Kieb stood first on the civil service list of a year ago, from which Dr. Russell was appointed Matteawan Superintendent. Dr. Leak stood second on this list and Dr. Russell third.

MISS DAVISON DYING; FAMILY SUMMONED

FRENCHWOMAN'S CENSURE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 6.—Miss Davison was in a critical state late to-night, and there is not much hope of her recovery. A severe operation was performed this afternoon, and the patient's condition subsequently became so grave that her relatives were sent for.

Jones, the King's jockey, is making good progress toward recovery.

LONDON, June 6.—Militant suffragettes to-day almost succeeded in interrupting the deliberations of the peace conference between the delegates of the Balkan Allies and Turkey by organizing a demonstration outside St. James's Palace during the session.

The Women's Freedom League called a meeting to protest against the Government's supposition that it was able to secure peace abroad while unable to maintain peace at home. The police warned the organizers that the meeting was illegal.

A large crowd of hostile persons pulled the speakers from the wagon they were using as a platform, and finally the police arrested three of the speakers, Mrs. Marianne Hyde and Miss Constance Andrews, both of whom have suffered terms of imprisonment for "the cause," and Miss Ogilvie.

PARIS, June 6.—Mme. Jules Siegfried, wife of the former French Cabinet Minister and President of the French National Association of Women, is strongly opposed to the tactics adopted by the militant suffragettes. In an interview published by the Paris Midi to-day she referred to the Derby incident, when Miss Emily Wilding Davison threw herself in front of the King's horse "in the name of freedom for women." Mme. Siegfried said that many of the delegates to the International Congress of Women, now in session in Paris, looked upon such manifestations with intense disapproval. She continued:

"The militant suffragettes are behaving as though they were insensate. Their impudent and dangerous demonstrations hurt the cause of womankind. There are in England, as well as in France, great numbers of feminists who pursue their aims without employing boisterous expedients to attract attention. Such practices as those adopted by the militant suffragettes savor of charlatanism, and they turn our cause into ridicule. They are our enemies."

Lady Aberdeen, President of the International Council of Women, said:

"We condemn without mercy these senseless acts. The aim of our efforts is that men and women should be equal. The realization of the ideas of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst would provoke a revolution of which women would be the sole victims."

The congress this afternoon passed a resolution declariing that the suffrage should be given to women, but beginning gradually with the municipal vote, in the exercise of which women could prove their capacity to receive the wider franchise.

POLICE MAN ELEVATORS.

Fifty young women who were at work in a twelve-story loft building at 143 West Twentieth Street were thrown into a panic when fire was discovered on the top floor of the building last night. Many of the girls ran to the windows and screamed for help. Others fled to the fire escapes, and two or three ran down the stairs to the street. Most of the workers, though, were saved by four policemen from the West Seventeenth Street Station, who ran two elevators to the eleventh floor, which was as far as they could go, owing to the smoke.

On the tenth floor they found five girls and Mr. Stein, one of the partners of the firm of Stein, Moss & Co. On the ninth, eighth, and seventh floors they found the rest of the girls, and in two trips got them all to the street.

The top floor of the building was occupied by Rubin & McElroy, manufacturers of women's apparel, and the fire started in their stock room. All the other lofts were occupied by firms in similar lines of business. The cause of the fire was not ascertained, and it was put out with a loss of some $3,000.

INNOCENT, SERVED 12 YEARS

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 6.—George Ury, who had served twelve years' imprisonment on the charge of slaying William Johnson, "celery king" of Wyandotte County, was freed to-day by Gov. Cox, it having been asserted that investigation showed that Ury and four others convicted with him were innocent. According to the State Board of Pardons, the five men, three of whom died in the penitentiary, were the victims of a plot to railroad them to prison to satisfy public feeling, which had been aroused by a series of crimes in the county for which no one had been punished.

The Pardon Board in the last two years twice had recommended a pardon for Ury, but each time the County Prosecutor had objected. Gov. Cox took a hand in the investigation. He said he found that Ury, at the time of his trial, had established a complete alibi. An alleged identification by the widow of Johnson was the only evidence against him and the four others.

The case of Lock Foster, who still is in prison, also will be investigated by the Governor.

MISSOURI BANK CLOSES.

Caruthersville Institution Said to be Short $200,000.

ST. LOUIS, June 6.—The Pemiscot County Bank at Caruthersville, Mo., has closed its doors and is in the hands of the State Bank Commissioner as the result of the discovery of a shortage which John H. Cunningham, President of the bank, says will amount to $200,000 or $250,000.

The majority of the alleged shortage was in county funds, and to make good the loss the bank turned over to the Bank Commissioner $12,000 worth of property belonging to A. C. Tindle, the cashier, who left here last Saturday. It is reported that he is in Memphis, and will return to Caruthersville in a few days.

The discovery of the shortage resulted from an audit of the bank's books. A trust company has been organized to liquidate the affairs of the bank and to pay off depositors.

A mercantile establishment in which the cashier was interested closed to-day, and is in the hands of an assignee.

COL. OROZCO PUT TO DEATH

Zapata Ignores $20,000 Ransom Offered for Mexican Soldier.

MEXICO CITY, June 6.—Disdaining a ransom of $20,000 offered by the friends of Col. Pascual Orozco, Sr., father of the former rebel chief, Emiliano Zapata has caused the old man to be put to death, according to a special dispatch from Cuernavaca to El Imparcial. The dispatch says Orozco's body was found by the Federals at Tlachichilpa, near Jojutla, in Central Mexico. It was hanging from a tree and riddled with bullets.

A commission of Orozco's friends recently went to Zapata and sought his freedom. Zapata said he would not sell justice—that if Orozco were found by a council of war to be innocent of spying, he would be freed, but thatotherwise he would be condemned.

DETACH CANAL ARMY MEN.

Orders from Washington May Portend Filling Places with Civilians.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PANAMA, June 6.—Lieut. Col. Eugene T. Wilson, Capts. Frank O. Whitlock, Courtland Nixon, Robert E. Wood, Charles L. Baker, and Lieut. Frederick Mears received orders to-day from the War Department, removing their names from detached service.

The general belief here is that this means a big clearing out of good places held by army officers and that others are to be put in their places. The officers themselves say that such a conclusion is not necessarily true, and further assert that they will probably remain here.

KAISERIN'S HEALTH IS POOR.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, June 6.—It is an open secret that the health of the German Empress again gives rise to some concern. She is extremely tired from the exertions and excitement incidental to the late royal wedding, and will have to spare herself as much as possible during the forthcoming silver jubilee festivities.

It is already arranged that her Majesty shall take a protracted cure at Bad Homburg, where she was for several weeks early in the Spring, while the Kaiser is absent on his annual cruise to the North Cape.

HYLAND HAS WON $50,000.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, June 6.—American racehorse training methods are coming in for high praise in Germany again this season owing to the excellent results accomplished by the stable of Baron Oppenheim, the Cologne banker and millionaire, under the direction of J. Hyland, formerly of Sheepshead Bay, New York.

Although the season has just begun, Hyland's mounts have already won more than $50,000 in prize money, an unparalleled record. All the winnings have been in big races. His friends say he has the best chance of capturing Sunday's Vienna Derby and the German Derby at Hamburg later in the month, each of which is a $25,000 event.

LADY CHURSTON MISSING.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Saturday, June 7.—The Daily Citizen says that one of the latest West End society sensations is connected with the mysterious disappearance of Lady Churston, better known to the world as Miss Denise Orme, a popular vocalist and actress, who married the third Baron Churston.

It is reported that Lady Churston left her home recently, and has not since been heard of. She has been posted as missing at Scotland Yard, and exhaustive efforts have been made to find her, without success.

Denise Ore married the Hon. John Yarde-Buller in April, 1907. At that time he was a Captain in the Scots Guards and heir to the second Baron Churston. He had served in South Africa with distinction, winning a medal. Shortly after the marriage Mrs. Mabel Louise Atherton sued Capt. Yarde-Buller for breach of promise. Letters of a most effectionate character were readat the trial, and Mrs. Atherton obtained judgment with cost, but without damages. The following year Mrs. Yarde-Buller made her reappearance on the stage and report had it that the marriage had not turned out happily.

KILLED RUNNING TO FATHER

Mother Sees Car Mangle Little Boy Who Fell on the Tracks.

In his eagerness to greet his father, who was coming home from work, Jeremiah Duggan, 4 years old, fell on the car tracks in front of his home, at 44 Sands Street, Brooklyn, at 5 o'clock last evening and was killed by an eastbound Graham Avenue trolley car, which ran over him. Mrs. Margaret Duggan, the boy's mother, who was standing on the front steps of her home waiting for her husband, saw the accident. She was prostrated by grief, and neighbors cared for her.

The father, Jeremiah Duggan, saw the crowd which had gathered around his son's body, but he did not know his son had been killed until he had forced his way to the front rank and recognized the lad's clothing.

Harry Sallut, the motorman of the car, said he did not see the boy until it was too late to prevent his death.

TOWNSEND MAKES CHARGE

Only Lobbying He Said He Found Was Wilson's Patronage Club and Caucus Dictation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The investigation of the lobby denounced by President Wilson was turned against the President himself this afternoon. Under the sting of taunts from Republican Senators, the Senate Investigating Committee adopted a resolution to recall Senators to show what pressure the President had brought to bear on recalcitrant Democrats to induce them to support the free trade items of the Tariff bill. So far the committee has scrupulously refrained from questioning Senators as to their conferences with the President.

Members of the committee, when the investigation was first undertaken, laughingly predicted that the "President's lobby" for his own bill was included in the dragnet resolution directing the inquiry. But it was afterward decided to leave the President out of the examination as much as possible. Only occasionally was the suggestion dropped by a Republican Senator that the activities of the friends of the bill were not far different from those of the bill's opponents.

To-day, however, when the examination of Senators was almost ended, Senator Townsend of Michigan said that the nearest approach to a tariff lobby that had come to his attention was the "withholding of patronage" and the "coercion of Senators" by the Executive and the party caucus. Senators had told him, he said, that they were opposed to free sugar, but that on account of the wishes of the President, and the fact that the bill was an Administration measure, they would vote for the item rather than antagonize the Administration. He expressed regret that the committee had not questioned Senators along that line, and said he thought they would have made some interesting discoveries.

What Mr. Townsend said was largely supported by Senator Weeks of Massachusetts, who intimated that the President, by taking such a stand in regard to the alleged lobby, exercised a greater influence than any lobby could.

Upon cross-examination Mr. Townsend admitted that he knew of no particular instances in which the President had withheld patronage from a Senator in order to compel his vote, and added that he knew of no cases of coercion except those to which he had referred. He refused to give names, but it was at once understood that he referred to those Democrats now on the Finance Committee who signed a statement a year ago against the House Free Sugar bill. As to the President's conversations with Senators, he said also that he knew nothing except what was common report, and insisted that he was making no charges against the President.

For Calling Coerced Senators.

These negative statements seemed for a moment almost to satisfy Senator Reed of Missouri, who was acting as Chairman in the temporary absence of Senator Overman. But Mr. Walsh of Montana, who is personally opposed to both free wool and free sugar, and whose constituents are deeply interested in both items, was stung by Mr. Townsend's intimation that a Senator's yielding to the wishes of the President or to the wishes of a party caucus was tantamount to yielding to a lobby. It was Mr. Walsh who in the end forced the investigation into the new direction, while Senator Cummins of Iowa, the Republican author of the resolution that started the inquiry, and Senator Nelson of Minnesota, the other Republican of the committee, chuckled openly at the turn of affairs.

"In view of the serious statements of the Senator from Michigan, Mr. Townsend," said Mr. Walsh, "I move you, Sir, that, upon request of any member of the committee, any Senator may be recalled to inquire if he has been in any way coerced or influenced against his convictions."

The resolution was unanimously adopted. The Democratic Senators who were on the Finance Committee when the Sugar bill was rejected are F. M. Simmons of North Carolina, now Chairman; William J. Stone of Missouri; John Sharp Williams of Mississippi; John W. Kern of Indiana, and Charles F. Johnson of Maine.

Senator Walsh's annoyance at Mr. Townsend's intimations was particularly interesting in that it indicated that Mr. Walsh has at last decided to support the House bill. For a long time he has been mentioned with the two Senators from Louisiana as a possible deserter, and his defection would have defeated free sugar, if not free wool. His position as indicated to-day is believed to make it certain that, at the worst, the President's favorite items will remain in the bill by the deciding vote of the Vice President.

"Wasn't the President up here talking to Senators about the bill?" asked Senator Nelson, with a grin, referring to the President's private conference in the Senate wing of the Capitol with the Democratic members of the Finance Committee at the time the measure passed the House.

"Yes," said Mr. Townsend. "And the President's statement has held Senators in line for the Tariff bill who otherwise would have opposed it."

Defines a Lobbyist.

Before he explained himself so definitely Mr. Townsend had given the committee a definition of the word "lobbyist" that seemed to be intended to include the President. This is his definition:

"In a broad sense, a lobbyist is a person whose business it is to promote or prevent legislation on some particular subject. In the narrower sense used by the President in his recent statement, and as understood generally by the public, a lobbyist is a person whose business it is to secure or prevent some particular legislation by the use of means which by intelligent, right-minded men are considered improper, such as the offer or payment of money or other things of value, extending favors or entertainment to legislators, by insidious threats of political opposition, by holding out prospects of political rewards, and by withholding patronage or by using any other device calculated or intended to induce the lawmaker to do what he knows he ought not to do and what is contrary to his ideas of what it is proper for him to do as a representative of his constituents."

The course of the inquiries this morning suggested that Senator Reed had decided in some cases to urge that Senators should not vote on items of the Tariff bill in which they are personally interested. A Washington dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES several days ago stated that it was planned to reduce the Republican vote in this way on several closely contested items.

The subject came up when Senator du Pont of Delaware explained that, though he had given up his holdings in the du Pont de Nemours Powder Company, he always refrained from voting on measures relating to gunpowder, because of his family connections. He added that he owned 1,000 shares each in Pennsylvania Steel, Cambria Steel, and National Biscuit Companies. Mr. Reed then asked if he would not feel compelled to refrain from voting on the steel and biscuit items of the Tariff bill. Mr. du Pont replied that he would not vote on the particular items, but that he would vote on the bill itself.

Senator Oliver's Holdings.

Senator Oliver, owner of 1,000 shares of preferred stock in the United States Steel Corporation, told the committee that he did not expect the tariff in any way to affect the value of his Steel holdings.

"I have always held that so far as the iron and steel schedule of the tariff is concerned, the United States Steel Corporation is very much less subject to menace than would small manufacturers be to a change in rates," he said.

Senator Oliver said he also had an investment of $1,500,000 in two Pittsburgh newspapers, and 7,700 preferred, and about 50 common shares in the Pittsburgh Coal Company, whose product might be affected by the tariff.

"I never sought to influence any Senator in regard to the tariff on any of the articles in which I am concerned," said he, "nor has any one sought to influence me improperly."

Persons who had called on him included W. L. Claus, W. S. Strassberger, A. F. Gaffney, John Pitcairn, Edward E. Marshall, Arthur B. Davis, John H. Penny, Colin Livingstone, and W. L. Kann.

The Senator declined to give his investments in copper or in other lines which, he said, were not affected by the tariff or other legislation before Congress.

"I am perfectly willing to give the public an inventory of everything I own," he said, "but I do not think the purpose of this investigation is to secure an inventory of every Senator's property."

Senator Walsh insisted that it was pertinent to ask how much Senator Oliver had invested in copper properties.

"I cannot concede your right to ask that," returned Senator Oliver.

"You're dead right!" interjected Senator Nelson, a Republican member of the committee.

Senator Reed agreed with Senator Walsh, and Senator Cummins with Senator Nelson. Chairman Overman was absent. It was a tie.

Senator Oliver said he knew of no steel lobby and no representatives of the steel interests maintained in Washington on tariff or other questions.

Senator Thomas of Colorado said the only remark to him that might be considered "improper" came from Henry T. Oxnard, who represented beet sugar interests opposed to free sugar. When he told Oxnard that he would probably vote with his party in support of the Underwood bill he said Oxnard replied that if the free sugar provision were retained Congress would "be here until the snow flies" before the bill could be passed.

There had been a persistent effort to influence his action on sugar, wool, and lead, Senator Thomas said, through a great number of letters and telegrams from Colorado and the Rocky Mountain States.

"This correspondence has been so general, so almost universal in my State," said he, "that I am satisfied it is the result of organized efforts inspired and the expense paid for by interests directly concerned in the rates of the tariff bill."

Senator Weeks testified he severed connection with all his banking and commercial concerns when he was elected to the Senate. He said three or four men had called upon him who might be called lobbyists. Among these were Thomas O. Marvin, Secretary of the Home Market Club, and his brother, Winthrop L. Marvin, Secretary of the National Wool Manufacturers' Association. They were not promoting or opposing legislation, so he understood, but gathering information for members of the associations who desired to receive it.

"The public believes a lobbyist is a bad man, and no Senator likes to oppose a measure if the President says the lobbyists are seeking to change it," said Senator Shively, a Democratic member of the Finance Committee, who added that he knew of no lobbying influences at work on the Tariff bill.

Senator Page of Vermont said his chief interest was in hide and calfskin trade and in fertilizer manufacturing. He had small lumber holdings.

Chairman Overman induced the Senate to-day to extend until June 28 the time within which the committee must make its report. This extension was granted before the President's name was brought into the investigation. Senators said later that the new direction taken by the investigation might extend the inquiry indefinitely.

PLAN DUTY ON PRINT PAPER.

Committee Considering Retaliatory Tariff—Publishers Object.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—For several hours to-day the Senate Finance Subcommittee, of which Senator Johnson of Maine is Chairman, discussed the paper schedule of the Underwood Tariff bill, and it is reported to-night that an amendment to put a retaliatory duty against Canada on print paper valued at not more than 2½ cents a pound is being seriously considered.

Because the majority of the sub-committee was inclined to this view, they summoned from New York John Morris, Chairman of the Paper Committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, who reiterated its opposition to the imposition of any countervailing duty.

In the Underwood bill retaliatory duties are imposed on higher grade papers valued at more than two and one half cents a pound. The import tax is fixed at 12 per cent. ad valorem, and the countervailing duty is directed against Canada because of restrictions on pulp wood and pulp. American paper manufacturers want the added tax extended to print paper.

Print paper in the Underwood bill is on the free list, and the amendment under consideration would provide "that if any country, dependency, province, or other sub-division of government shall impose any export duty, export license fee, or any other charge of any kind whatsoever, whether in the form of additional charge or license fee or otherwise, upon printing paper, wood pulp, or wood for use in the manufacture of wood pulp, there shall be imposed upon printing paper, when imported either directly or indirectly from such country, dependency, province, or other sub-division of government, a duty equal to the amount of such export duty or other export charge imposed by such country, &c., upon printing paper, wood pulp, or wood for use in the manufacture of wood pulp."

Manufacturers urge that a retaliatory duty against Canada would force that country to yield on some of its restrictions against American manufacturers on wood and pulp exports.

Mr. Norris contended for the publishers that every measure the United States had directed against the Canadian provinces had reacted against the American papermaker and consumer, and that "instead of composing the situation they provoked an ugly complication, which will require years of intelligent and delicate handling to adjust."

"Nothing can be done," he argued, "by compulsion or tariff threats to provide wood for the American paper industry. That day has passed. Canada controls the pulp wood supply. Its authorities insist that they be dealt with upon a reasonable basis."

NEWELL REPLIES TO HILL.

Milk River Irrigation Project a Difficult One, He Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Louis W. Hill's criticism of the Reclamation Service has not yet come to the knowledge of Secretary Lane of the Interior Department or F. H. Newell, Director of the service. Mr. Hill's charges are believed to be a re-statement of those made by his father, James J. Hill, several weeks ago.

The Secretary gave a hearing on delayed reclamation work and Mr. Hill appeared and made a general charge of extravagance and incompetency on the part of Mr. Newell. Secretary Lane, in summing up the statements advanced at the hearing, took the position that the charges were not sustained.

The Hills are anxious for the Milk River project to be expedited and finished. Mr. Newell said to-night that all possible progress was being made on this difficult project. Much delay was caused, he said, by the necessity of arranging treaties with Great Britain for the right to use water coming from the Canadian side of the international boundary. Mr. Newell said that progress was being made, and the Government would complete the irrigation project without undue or extravagant use of public funds.

10,000 BOYS AT PLAY TAKE ALL BY STORM

PLAN AN EXPOSITION TEAM

Ten thousand schoolboys, in white shirtwaists and dark knickerbockers, took possession of the great Green in Central Park, between the Mall and the West Drive, yesterday afternoon, and there encamped in orderly but expectant array behind some 200 tall white team standards ranged on the east and on the west, like a gathering of the Twelve Tribes before battle. There were, however, many times twelve tribes gathered there. All the little New Yorkers of the five great boroughs were represented in that bright white-shirtwaisted army, from Manhattan and the Bronx to restful Brooklyn, and from Staten Island to Queens.

The gay young Ten Thousand were Exhibits A, B, C, and all the rest of the alphabet many times over, in the largest demonstration for school children ever held in the world. It was arranged under the auspices of the Public Schools Athletic League, with the co-operation of the Department of Education, the Department of Parks, and the Board of Aldermen, to show the civic results of physical and hygienic training in the public schools. Acording to those who direct the aims and activities of the league, it seeks to give city boys a normal boyhood, to make health a habit, to replace gang by team, and to capitalize natural instincts into loyalty for school and city and make the boy's need for play a force for law and order in the community.

The best thing about the whole show was that not one of the young Ten Thousand knew he was following any definite curriculum or plan of moral development; but with utter freedom from all taint of a task and in full enjoyment of the fine day, all of them were there simply because they wanted to be there.

Long before the hour set for the beginning of the great field day the boys of the various schools, in teams of forty-five, came trooping three abreast into Central Park at the Sixty-sixth and Sixty-fourth Street entrances, each team with a teacher from the particular school at its head. Behind the teams trudged a less military and often a more ragged company of "non-combatants," boys and girls of the school who had come to watch the heroes from the side lines.

The great Green, covering some 242,000 square feet in area, was roped off in a square. Behind this rope the young watchers on the side lines sat in the grass. Many of them had their parents with them, standing back of the young folks; and quite a number of gray and wrinkled grannies squatted in Oriental fashion on the green, while bright-eyed, dark-haired little granddaughters from Public School No. 62, at Essex and Hester Streets, described to them the events of the day.

At the south end of the great roped-off inclosure was the big reviewing stand, covered with American flags. In the back of this, and outlined against the sky at the top, were three small platforms. On the central one were Dr. C. Ward Crampton, Director of Physical Training, who megaphoned instructions to the officials in various parts of the field; Dr. A. K. Aldinger, Assistant Director of Physical Training, who was to wig-wag with a red-and-white flag as a signal for the beginning of motions in drill; and Emanuel Haug, of the De Witt Clinton High School, who was to wig-wag with a blue flag, a signal for stopping movements in the drill. On the little platforms limned against the sky on either side, stood Harry Cohn, District Supervisor of Physical Training for the Bronx, and Martin Rodgers, District Supervisor for Brooklyn, who went through the various movements of the drill as demonstrators for the 10,000 pairs of intent young eyes on the green below.

Among those on the reviewing stand who helped cheer on the boys were Borough Presidents George Cromwell and Maurice E. Connolly; Djelal Bey, Ottoman Consul General; Judge Warren W. Foster, Chief Justice Edward F. O'Dwyer, Alderman Henry H. Curran, Otto T. Bannard, Job E. Hedges, Robert Adamson, Park Commissioner C. B. Stover, A. L. Kline, Vice President of the Board of Aldermen; Sheriff Julius Harburger, Felix M. Warburg, William H. Allen, Police Commissioner Rhinelander Waldo, H. J. Wright, Herbert L. Bridgman, City Supt. William H. Maxwell, Sereno S. Platt of the Chamber of Commerce, Elisha Sniffen of the Real Estate Board of Brokers, Dr. Abraham Korn, President of the United Real Estate Owners; Charles E. Reed of the North Side Board of Trade, Assemblymen McCue, Sufrin, Cuvillier, and Ulrich, and many of the Aldermen. The Russell Sage Foundation, the Playground Association of America, the Parks and Playgrounds Association, and many taxpayers' organizations from all parts of the city were represented. Gov. Sulzer was to have attended the field day, but wrote that a speaking engagement in Catskill kept him away. Mayor Gaynor was also unable to be present.

The great area on the green was chalked off into ninety long lanes six feet wide, running from east to west. At either end of these, between the chalked lines and behind the tall standard posts bearing the number of each team, the various teams lined up. Some of the schools were represented by several teams in the field. In the very centre of the green space between the two young armies thus presented to view waved a great American flag from a tall flagpole, and at either side of it two smaller ones, marking the central alley that was to be left clear some twelve feet wide, forming a free vista from the centre of the reviewing stand.

10,000 Come in Double Time.

A little after 2:30 o'clock the appearance of Dr. Crampton with the megaphone and his wigwagging aids in the central signal tower hushed the shrill chorus of school yells that had come from the seated armies at either side of the green field and brought the Young Ten Thousand proudly and simultaneously to their feet. Then began the great two-minute drill, which is done three times a day by 700,000 school children in New York City.

At 2:45 o'clock a pistol shot fired by Dr. Crampton set the two opposing hosts trooping at double time toward each other in fairly symmetrical order considering the exuberance of the Young Ten Thousand, and when those in the foremost rank reached the central alley they, and every row behind them, stopped their onward charge, but continued marking time in stationary jog-trot until the entire green seemed to be covered by a great bobbing field of white.

There came a sudden bugle blast and every boy among the Young Ten Thousand turned with a sudden right-face toward the reviewing stand, still, however, bobbing up and down. A second bugle call rang out and the blue flag waved. The field of bobbing white came to an instantaneous calm, a sudden stop. Then to the tune of a threefold bugle-note the drill itself began, following the two demonstrators on high—first deep-breathing exercises with arms extended high as could be and then lowered with rigid knees till the finger-tips of the Young Ten Thousand touched the tips of twice ten thousand toes. A few may have faltered in the small of the back, but of the Ten Thousand few failed.

Then up again went the 20,000 hands, reaching as if to grab bits out of the sky, and down they came, in 10,000 well-timed and simultaneous raps upon 20,000 thighs. This movement was repeated four times, and then came a movement of bended knees and arms thrown outward, also four times repeated.

Hosts Race Back to Camps.

Then the blue flag waved, and 10,000 youngsters came to a dead halt. The bugle called and the little fellows divided again, half wheeling toward the east, half toward the west. Another note and the forefront fell in crouching position. A pistol shot, and the two hosts were off, racing back to their camps at either end of the field.

Then it was noticed that the great green presented a very queer appearance. Many of the Young Ten Thousand had failed to keep their caps, even though they kept their heads through the drill. The field was strewn with black caps. After a while a few of the youngsters ventured out from the camp lines to regain their head coverings. Presently came more of them, but all soon slunk back, very sheepish and shamefaced under the contemptuous gaze of the two orderly hosts, amid rude laughter from the side lines.

The shuttle race was the second great event of the day, participated in, however, by only that half of the Ten Thousand that stood along the eastern half of the field, 100 teams of forty-five boys each. At a pistol shot, half of these boys, led by 100 stalwart bearers of team standards, were off on the run toward the western camp, stopping some 100 feet away from the western boys, and facing right about. The tramp of the charging army seemed to shake the green. At a second pistol shot the first of each line in the remaining half team raced madly toward the half team now facing it from the west. Almost immediately the line of runners changed from one of unbroken front to a long, jagged line the length of the field, as speed began to tell. Each boy runner held in his hand a small staff. To transfer this to the foremost boy in the half team facing

As No. 1 of the Eastern half gave the staff to No. 1 of the Western half of the team, the latter shot east with the staff, and did not pause until he had carried it safely to the hands of No. 2 of the Eastern half; and the procedure continued until every man in the team had had his run. It was the lines of runners back and forth in the 100 yards between the Eastern and Western half-teams that gave the race the appearance of a multitude of shuttles shot back and forth over the green carpet of the playground.

How they raced, with arms swinging, and little legs flashing over the green. Some of them had hard, knobby faces, and the clenched teeth and anxious looks of the racers didn't improve their appearance, but there wasn't one face among the 4,500 that wasn't handsome in some mother's sight. Some raced with fine athletic stride; some galloped, some pegged along with heavy pace; a few even tumbled and righted themselves half way across the field. But all of them, their mothers thought, raced like the wind.

Team 100 of Public School 42 of the Bronx, whose ties of blue and gold ribbon had streamed brightly in the wind, finished the race first, and Team No. 157 of Public School 27 finished second. The victors marched proudly in front of the reviewing stand, saluted the judges, were saluted in return, and then dropped back into place in their lane.

The standing broad jump, participated in by the 100 teams of forty-five boys each, who had remained as spectators on the west end of the field while the shuttle race was in progress, came next. As the first boy in each team finished his jump toward the east, the next in line started from where his heels had hit the sod, and advanced the line by his jump. Some tumbled back, thus compelling the next boy to start where the unfortunate had landed. Close tab on the jumps was kept by 150 boys from the De Witt Clinton High School, who acted as markers for the competing teams. Team 62 of Public School 95, Manhattan, won the contest.

Col. Roosevelt a Spectator.

The broad jump race was just getting interesting when at 3:15 o'clock Col. Theodore Roosevelt, amid great applause, came upon the field. Thereafter the broad jump was relegated to the background. Col. Roosevelt was greeted by the Committee on Demonstration, consisting of Gustavus T. Kirby, Chairman; Vincent Astor, Luther Halsey Gulick, Edward W. Stitt, Gen. George W. Wingate, President of the Public Schools Athletic League; S. R. Guggenheim, and Dr. Crampton. Immediately a crowd of schoolboys from the side-lines rushed over and surrounded Col. Roosevelt. The batteries of the photographers went into action. The Colonel grinned broadly.

"By George! Bully! Fine!" he said, looking out at the young jumpers.

The committee led him toward the east end of the field, while the jump continued disconsolately in the west. There Mr. Kirby introduced to the Colonel the winners in the shuttle race, headed by Nathan Blumberg of Public School 42, Bronx.

"I'm glad to meet you, Mr. Blumberg," said the Colonel, shaking hands with the boy. Then, as he turned to the next, that young gentleman introduced himself before Mr. Kirby could do so.

"Mr. Beugen," he announced proudly. Col. Roosvelt grinned as he shook hands and said he was glad to meet Mr. Beugen. Then there followed self-introductions by Mr. Rosenberg, Mr. Meltzner, Mr. Baylerian, and Mr. Schneider, and each "mister" brought a bigger grin to the Colonel's face.

While Col. Roosevelt and the committee repaired to the middle of the field, preparations were made for the special event of the day, the Interborough All-Around Combination Relay Race, in which a team of twenty-five boys from each of the five boroughs contested, each of the boys in turn running 100 yards, jumping a hurdle, and chinning a horizontal bar five times. The team representing Manhattan won in 9:58 1-5. Bronx was second in 10:36 1-5, then came Queens in 10:44 3-5, Brooklyn in 11:11 3-5, and Richmond in 12:01 3-5.

Col. Roosevelt came back toward the reviewing stand just as the race ended and made a speech to the winning team as it marched toward him.

"I congratulate you," he said. "You are a dead game set. Moreover, you are playing the game fairly. I have seen no tendency to snatch an unfair chance. I congratulate you on the type of good citizen you're turning out in this league."

Then Col. Roosevelt started away to catch a train on the Pennsylvania Road. Before he left, however, he commented with pleasure on the physical development of the different boys, and particularly on the squad which appeared in their running clothes, short sleeved shirts and knee trousers.

What the League Has Done.

At Col. Roosevelt's request Gen. Wingate brought some of the boys up. He shook their hands and asked for their names and nationality. Then he said: "Now, this is the kind of work that is making these boys good young Americans. You ought to be proud of it, and you are doing a great work."

Gen. Wingate called attention to the fact that when the Athletic League was first started, it was said that it was impossible to make athletes of the east side boys, that they were very poor and eager to get an education, that they were making tremendous sacrifices to stay in school, and that they did not care anything about athletics. For three years in succession, Gen. Wingate then told Col. Roosevelt, the championship of the league for schools of Greater New York, covering every branch of athletics on track and field has been won by Public School 62, Manhattan, which school is situated in the heart of the east side, down at the Manhattan end of the Williamsburg Bridge. Of the pupils, Gen. Wingate said, 90 per cent. were Russian-Jewish boys.

"I feel that the work of the league is the greatest force for good, not only in the city but in the Nation," said Col. Roosevelt. "I do not limit this merely to physical well being, but also apply it to the mental and moral uplift of the people. Nothing could do more to show the loyalty, enthusiasm, and democracy of the American people than those 10,000 boys of all races and creeds. It is indicative of the leveling force of athletics, where rich and poor are absolutely on an equality. No matter what dangers the Nation may have to face, boys of this kind becoming men will see to it that the Nation will live forever."

The Final Review.

After ten-minute exhibitions, in which championship teams from schools of the various boroughs engaged in four baseball games, four basket ball games, and one game of soccer football, the field day wound up with an impressive review in final assembly of the 10,000 boys. The exercises closed with a salute to the flag by the entire company. The bugle blew "colors," and 10,000 hands came to a salute position simultaneously. The band played the opening bars of the "Star-Spangled Banner," and then, led by Dr. Frank Rix, Director of Music, the 10,000 took up the words of the song. The guests of honor arose and remained uncovered, as did the vast lines of spectators until the final words were sung.

Great satisfaction was expressed by all the officials of the league over the afternoon's exercises. Gustavus T. Kirby, President of the A. A. U., and Chairman of the Demonstration Committee, had an informal conference with S. R. Guggenheim, Treasurer of the league, and Vincent Astor of the committee, at which Messrs. Guggenheim and Astor said that they would head a popular subscription list to send 200 New York schoolboys to the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915 to repeat the programme. The only thing they insisted on was that the subscription must be popular.

Some Republicans were as much interested in Mr. Woodruff's enrollment blank as were the members of the Brooklyn Bull Moose organization. The former jumped to the conclusion that the county leader of the Progressives would not be with his organization this Fall. The Progressives were disturbed. Wires were kept busy for a time. The hopes of one party and the fears of the other disappeared when Mr. Woodruff explained that it was all a mistake.

"Mr. Reardon handed me the slip with other papers on Wednesday afternoon while I was presiding at an Executive Committee meeting," said Mr. Woodruff in his Manhattan office yesterday afternoon. "I signed it, but forgot about the cross. You see, I am used to signing my name, but not to making my cross. Perhaps that accounts for my forgetfulness."

Jacob A. Livingston, an Elections Commissioner, said yesterday that Mr. Woodruff had until July 1 to file a duplicate enrollment slip if he wished to correct his oversight. A new law which went into effect last Tuesday provides that enrollment slips be sent to every unenrolled voter, to be filed by him with the Bureau of Elections before July 1.

TICKET AGAINST TAMMANY.

Empire Democracy to Put Up Candidates for All Offices.

A complete city ticket will be nominated by the Empire State Democracy at the Fall election. Following a meeting of the organization yesterday afternoon, it was announced at headquarters, 505 Fifth Avenue, that Tammany did not represent true Democracy, and that an independent ticket was necessary to fully represent the majority of Democratic citizens. Nominations by the Committee of 107 may be indorsed, but the State Democracy, it was said, would have candidates for every office to be voted for and under its own emblem. In connection with a resolution adopted, providing for a municipal campaign, this statement was made:

> The Empire State Democracy, believing that the organization which purports to be the regular Democratic organization in the City of New York does not in any way represent the spirit of true Democracy, nor the majority of the Democratic citizens in the City of New York, has adopted the following resolution:
> "Resolved, That there be nominated and placed upon the ballot at the coming municipal election a complete municipal, borough, and county ticket under the emblem of the Empire State Democracy."

The work of organizing the new party in the city has been in progress for several weeks, it was said, Chairmen and committees having been elected in more than two-thirds of the Assembly Districts. On the question of considering candidates suggested by the Committee of 107, this announcement was issued:

> The General Committee will decide whether the candidates of the Committee of 107 shall be indorsed and nominated by the Empire State Democracy or whether other candidates shall be nominated.

The organization committee for the city will be made up with Frederic W. Hinrichs, J. Aspinwall Hodge, Lawrence B. Denham, J. Hampden Dougherty, and Julius Henry Cohen, the State Chairman; Bert Hanson, Chairman City General Committee, and Robert A. Widermann, Secretary. Headquarters for New York County will remain at 505 Fifth Avenue; the Bronx headquarters at Third Avenue and 149th Street. Otohers will be opened in Kings, Queens, and Richmond. The plan of the city organization adopted is to consist of a general committee composed of the Chairmen of Assembly Districts. County Committees will be made up of the Chairmen of Election District Committees.

Senator Thomas C. Whitlock will be the Committeeman from Kings, Joel Fowler from Queens, and Roger W. Bligh from the Bronx.

TAFT TO VISIT WHITE HOUSE

Ex-President Lunches with Wilson To-day—Here on Tuesday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Prof. William Howard Taft of Yale University came to Washington this evening from New Haven to attend the meeting of the Lincoln Memorial Commission to be held on Monday morning. He will leave Washington on Tuesday morning for New York, and, meantime, will be the guest of William J. Boardman.

"I am as happy as I have ever been in my life," said Mr. Taft, as he related the manner in which he has occupied himself since he left Washington on March 4 last.

Asked if he were taking interest in the political situation, he replied:

"The interest of a man up a tree."

The aspect from that viewpoint, he said, was "very interesting," but he declined to comment on the present Administration or on the issues with which it was occupied.

"I believe that every Administration should be permitted to work out its own problems," he said.

The former President was equally reticent on the subject of the Republican Party's future.

"I would not care to discuss Republican politics unless I had lots of time to think over the matter, and then might put my views in writing," he said.

The ex-President mopped his brow.

"You know," he said, "that it's a strange thing that Washington is unusually hot when Congress has to stay here into the Summer months. Up in New Haven it's cool and pleasant."

Mr. Taft is to take luncheon at the White House to-morrow. When he was told that President Wilson was said to be a golf player President Taft's eyes lighted up with interest.

"I may play some golf here if I can find a foeman worthy of my steel," he said, with a smile.

Mr. Taft is looking forward to going to Murray Bay, Canada, for the Summer.

snuff. The text of this amendment was printed in THE TIMES to-day.

The Senate Finance Committee lost no time in following the suggestion of President Wilson and Attorney General McReynolds. Chairman Simmons of the committee said this evening that the committee had considered the Hitchcock amendment long enough to refer it to a sub-committee consisting of Senators Stone of Missouri, Thomas of Colorado, and James of Kentucky, all Democrats. Senator Thomas was directed particularly to investigate the subject. Senator Simmons explained that the report of the Tariff bill to the Senate would not be delayed on account of the Hitchcock amendment, but he did not say if this meant that the bill would be reported to the Senate without the amendment, and that the amendment will be proposed later on the floor.

Faces Senate Opposition.

That there will be great opposition to the McReynolds idea if it is presented to the Senate in the form of an amendment to the Tariff bill is already apparent. Many Senators regard it as Socialistic, and there is strong belief that such a law would be unconstitutional.

It has been established that the Federal Government has a right to provide for a graduated progressive tax on national bank emergency currency so as to force its retirement after the emergency has passed. But great doubt is expressed here as to the power of the Government to impose such a tax as is embodied in the McReynolds idea. The McReynolds tax, it is contended, amounts to nothing more or less than a limitation of the amount of production of a given article, and is contrary to public policy.

One of the most interesting features of the whole situation, is a story which came to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent to-day from a man who bears intimate relations with the Administration. The story goes that, prior to Mr. McReynold's selection for the post of Attorney General, Mr. Wilson, then President-elect, had ascertained that Mr. McReynolds was in thorough disagreement with ex-Attorney General Wickersham in the latter's acceptance of the plan for the dissolution of the Tobacco Trust. Mr. McReynolds, the President-elect learned, had endeavored to have Mr. Wickersham appeal to the United States Supreme Court from the action of the United States Circuit Court at New York in approving the dissolution plan, but was unsuccessful.

The President ascertained also that Mr. McReynolds had been insistent that the dissolution plan adopted was utterly futile, and that he would have withdrawn from the case, in which he was associated with Mr. Wickersham, if he had not believed that such a course would have been attributed solely to [illegible] because his advice had not been followed.

FIGHT JAPAN TREATY ON CALIFORNIA LAW

HOSTILE TO BRITISH TREATY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The Senate took under consideration in secret session to-day the whole subject of renewing the twenty-five general arbitrations now in effect. The debate, which lasted two hours, made it plain that all steps in the direction of extending treaties that have lapsed or will soon expire by limitation, will be accompanied by bitter opposition. Some Senators expressed the view that the treaties were all doomed together, while the general opinion seemed to be that the extension of the general arbitration treaty with Great Britain would not be ratified until the Panama Canal toll controversy was specifically exempted from its operation. In the same way the Japanese treaty will not be extended, say some Senators, until the California controversy is protected from possible arbitration.

The subject came up tentatively yesterday when the favorable report of the Committee on Foreign Relations on extending the treaties with Italy, Spain, and Great Britain was considered. The Italian and Spanish conventions were ratified without division, but Senator Chamberlain of Oregon sharply objected to the extension of the British treaty. Then to prevent the appearance of discrimination, action on the Spanish and Italian conventions was rescinded.

Mr. Chamberlain is an ardent advocate of free passage for American ships through the canal. He has offered a resolution abrogating the Hay-Pauncefote and Clayton-Bulwer treaties, and has openly opposed any attempt to arbitrate the British contention.

Mr. Chamberlain was so overwhelmed with pleas from Senators of both parties that he withdrew his objections to the British treaty renewal, but by this afternoon he had won many converts. He cited the note of Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Minister, to show that under the arbitration treaty Great Britain expected to demand a reference of the dispute to The Hague, a remark that brought to his side most of the advocates of the no-toll policy. In fact, it was said to-night that Mr. Chamberlain's proposal to amend the treaties before extending them is stronger even than the no-toll proposal.

The injection of the California controversy into the discussion this afternoon took the Senate by surprise, as the Japanese treaty does not expire until September. Senator Works of California first referred to the treaty by saying that he hoped no convention would be ratified that would give Japan a right to demand adjudication at The Hague of the powers of a sovereign State over its own land laws. The inference was at once drawn that for the sake of holding up the Japanese treaty he would join the Chamberlain forces against the British convention.

Senator O'Gorman of New York, who proved a valuable ally to Mr. Chamberlain, pointed out that the British cause of complaint existed solely under the arbitration treaty. While he denied the applicability of the treaty to the Panama controversy, he said the British seemed to think the subject arbitrable. He argued that if the treaty should be allowed to lapse or should be extended, with the Panama controversy specifically exempt, the British protest would have no leg to stand on. The United States, he said, would simply insist that the canal was a domestic problem and refuse to discuss the dispute further.

Senator Bristow of Kansas, a no-toll advocate, moved that the British treaty be amended along the lines suggested by Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. O'Gorman. Senator Bacon of Georgia, however, who is Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, said it would be unwise to have one of the treaties worded differently from the others, and the proposition was temporarily abandoned. A motion to recommit the treaties to the committee with instructions to amend yielded to a similar argument from Mr. Bacon.

Senator Newlands, a Democrat from Nevada, opposed what he called the "compulsory arbitration" of disputes in favor of "persuasive arbitration." Mr. Newlands seemed to concur in Mr. Chamberlain's contention that The Hague provides an adequate way for voluntary arbitration without binding nations to arbitrate disputes against their will.

CHINDA TALKS PEACE AT GUTHRIE DINNER

BRYAN GETS AN OVATION

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, June 6.—If there is any cloud that threatens the serenity in the relations between this country and Japan it cast no shadow on the dinner held to-night in honor of George W. Guthrie, the new Ambassador to the Mikado's realm, the Japanese Ambassador, Viscount Chinda, William J. Bryan, Secretary of State; William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor; Representative A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, and James I. Blakeslee, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, were present, and all made speeches.

It was 10 o'clock before Secretary Bryan arrived. The 1,500 men and women applauded him vigorously, and the health of the Emperor of Japan and the President of the United States was pledged in mineral water.

Mr. Bryan was the last speaker, and after keeping faith, as he called it, with the newspaper men by reading the speech he had given out in advance, he broke into flights of eloquence that startled his admirers. He is opposed to increasing the salaries of Ambassadors, but he advocates the building of homes for them.

"I am not inclined to favor the increase in the salaries of Ambassadors which seems to be agitated in some quarers," said he. "I do advocate the building of houses for the Ambassadors. I have two reasons—democratic reasons. One is to make it impossible for it to be said that none but wealthy men can become Ambassadors. The other is to fix a standard of living that will make it accessible for all and every American to become an Ambassador. It must be made plain that those who are Ambassadors appreciate that it is the bounty of those back home who pay their salaries."

A letter from President Wilson in which he predicted that Ambassador Guthrie would cement relations between Japan and the United States was read by County Chairman Joseph F. Guffey.

"It is very pleasing to me," the President wrote, "to know that Baron Chinda, the distinguished representative of Japan, is to be present at the banquet. Our relations with him here have been so delightful and our respect for him has been so sincere that I am glad to feel that we are sending a man of like quality to be our spokesman at Tokio."

When Ambassador Guthrie was introduced he expressed his appreciation of the demonstration, and, addressing himself to Viscount Chinda, said:

"Your Excellency, what you see here, I have no doubt, convinces you that the American people as a whole intend to keep faith, and desire to live in peace and friendship with the Emperor whom you are justly proud to represent, and the people to which you are justly proud to belong, as well as with all the other nations of the world.

"We are a people who keep faith, and I wish to do justice. I am called to a station—I know not for how long—where I am to practice silence. In view of the message from the President, which the Secretary of State will read to us, it is neither necessary nor proper for me to say more than assure your Excellency that unless I was in full and hearty accord with his policy I would not be his representative in the mission to Japan with which he has honored me."

Viscount Chinda apologized for reading his speech, saying he feared the pitfalls of a foreign language.

Viscount Chinda's Speech.

The Ambassador said:

Allow me to express my profound appreciation of the privilege kindly extended to me to assist at this brilliant function held in honor of his Excellency, Mr. Guthrie, your new Ambassador to the Court of Tokio. With your permission I gladly make use of the opportunity thus afforded to me to say that both the United States and Japan are to be sincerely congratulated upon the appointment by which the important mission of representing this great Republic in Japan has been placed in so able and distinguished a hand.

Once more has your illustrious and respected President shown his high qualities of statesmanship in the choice of the right man in the right place. It is therefore with an unmixed feeling of delight that I join in this public demonstration of good-will tendered to your honored Ambassador. Especially great is my pride to think that I am the first of all my countrymen to extend to him the hearty and cordial greetings which are no doubt in abundant store for him in Japan.

Gentlemen, the constant improvement in the means of communication and transportation is substantially reducing the geographical distance which intervenes between different parts of the world. The United States and Japan, separated as they are by the vast and unfathomed waters of the Pacific Ocean, are now brought, and are destined to be brought, into closer contact with each other in all branches of peaceful activities.

I do not deny that such contact is liable to give rise to occasional misunderstandings and complications, but I do deny the existence, or the possible existence, of any phase in those difficulties which would not eventually yield to due and timely processes of diplomatic treatment—the treatment of justice and fair play and of a sympathetic understanding of the problems of each nation by the other.

The Spirit of Fairness.

It is this spirit that has no eminently characterized the American people, and has also invariably guided the course of action taken by Japan in dealing with questions of international moment. It is in this spirit alone that those questions could be successfully adjusted to the true and lasting satisfaction of all parties. It should be the noble endeavor of every patriotic man in both countries to direct his attention to an amicable solution on such basis of any problem that may confront us in our intercourse, and to transmit to our posterity the unspotted record of our mutual good understanding bequeathed to us by our forefathers. That record forms part of our dear and valued assets. It should be preserved. It should be amplified, and extended to all ages to come.

Our two nations, bound by such auspicious tradition and guided by the same aims and the same aspirations to contribute to the pacific progress of the world, should forever remain good and trusted neighbors. And I feel, gentlemen, that my humble labors in this direction find ready co-operation and encouragement at the hands of your great President, as well as of your renowned Secretary of State, Mr. Bryan, and your worthy representative to Japan, Mr. Guthrie, who honor us by their presence to-night.

I am sure that the expressions of friendship voiced by such distinguished leaders of American politics cannot fail to touch a responsive chord in the hearts of all thinking men on both sides of the Pacific.

Bryan's Prepared Speech.

Secretary Bryan was almost breathless when he entered, but plunged almost immediately into his speech, from which he digressed after he had "freed himself from the bonds of manuscript." He said:

I am here for a double purpose—first, to introduce two distinguished gentlemen, his Excellency Viscount Chinda, who, with such ability and distinction represents Japan at the capital of our nation, and Ambassador Guthrie, to whom has been given the honor of representing the United States at Tokio. My connection with the department having to do with foreign relations makes it appropriate that I should be present on this occasion when these representatives of the respective countries make each other's acquaintance.

The second purpose of my visit is to pay my respects to and express my personal regard for the gentlemen who are intrusted with the honorable and responsible mission of representing the two countries so long and intimately united in the bonds of friendship.

I have had opportunity to renew in this country an acquaintance with his Excellency, the Japanese Ambassador, which began nearly eight years ago in his far-away home. I feel that both his country and ours are fortunate in having in the Diplomatic Service one so fully equipped for the duties that fall to an Ambassador. While no one could surpass him in devotion to the interests of his countrymen, it would be equally impossible to surpass him in the courtesy and kindness of spirit which are so valuable in international affairs. He has set so high a standard that the President has been careful to select as our representative to Japan a man of the highest character, of large experience, and sincerely appreciative of the greatness and the progress of the country to which he goes.

I am sure that Mr. Guthrie will meet the most exacting requirements of his great office, and that the delightful occasion in which we participate to-night may be regarded as fitly representing the amicable international relations which it will be the pleasure of these two gentlemen to maintain and strengthen.

In the early hour of the dinner Representative A. Mitchell Palmer and William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor, paid tributes to the new Ambassador in brief talks.

Ambassador Guthrie will make his official call on Ambassador Chinda the latter part of this month and will sail for Japan from San Francisco on July 15.

At the conclusion of the dinner Ambassadors Chinda and Guthrie and Secretary Bryan were taken to Homestead for a view of the steel mills in operation at night.

JAPAN CITES CONSTITUTION.

Points to Protection Guarantee in Fourteenth Amendment.

TOKIO, June 6.—Japan's rejoinder to the United States regarding the California Alien Land act reiterates that the new law violates the spirit of the Japanese-American Treaty by discriminating against a friendly power. It asserts that, even if the question is an economic one, it enters the domain of international relations and therefore becomes a political question.

The note says the California act violates Article I. of the Treaty of 1911, which authorizes subjects or citizens of the contracting parties to own or lease houses which are inseparable parts of real estate. It also sets forth that the new act violates the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution which requires the State to grant equal protection under its laws to all persons within its jurisdiction.

Interest in the controversy is unabated here, and it continues to be the paramount topic of conversation among all classes. Several mass meetings of protest are being arranged.

Tatsue Yamamoto, Minister of Agriculture and Commerce, issued a statement to-day, in which he said the Japanese Government was desirous of participating in the Panama-Pacific Exposition, but, owing to popular feeling, it felt obliged to delay the arrangements.

The Japanese Government also has postponed its reply to Secretary Bryan's proposed plan of international arbitration.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The outline of Japan's latest note, as contained in the Tokio dispatches, was received in Washington with the greatest interest by officials and diplomatists. The note was read to the Cabinet at the regular meeting to-day and sent to Counsellor John Bassett Moore, the Government's foremost authority on international law.

Diplomatists agreed that the new point referred to by President Wilson yesterday as opening the field for "new and interesting negotiations" was Japan's contention that the anti-alien land law violated the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution.

The contention that houses are inseparable parts of real estate also is a new one.

PEACE THE THEME OF DINNER TO PAGE

British and American Pilgrims Cheer Kaiser as England's Friend.

AMBASSADOR LAUDS BRYCE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 6.—Ambassador Page made his first public appearance in London to-night at the dinner of the Pilgrims Club at the Savoy Hotel, which was attended by a representative company.

After a few introductory remarks by Lord Roberts, Sir Edward Grey delivered what was both a speech of welcome to the new Ambassador and an exposition of the relations between Great Britain and the United States. As is customary with him, the British Secretary for Foreign Affairs impressed his audience more by his reticence than by what he said.

The surprise of the evening was the speech of Price Collier, who dealt with world-politics in a fashion to which European diplomats are unaccustomed, and which, it must be said, is less convincing than interesting. Mr. Collier's rhetorical fireworks would have been excellent material for a magazine article, or, as in this case, an after-dinner speech, but it is open to doubt whether they added to the importance of the occasion of the Ambassador of one great nation making his bow at a representative gathering of the people to which he is accredited.

Lord Shaw, the Scottish Judge who followed Mr. Collier, showed that he possessed that sense of humor of which some Englishmen deny the existence north of the Tweed by complimenting Mr. Collier on the brilliancy of his verbal pyrotechnics and showing that the net result was nothing more than burned sticks.

LONDON, June 6.—Three hundred and fifty Pilgrims, among them many prominent Englishmen and representative Americans, filled the ballroom of the Hotel Savoy for the Page dinner. Mr. Page was welcomed to London in speeches by Lord Roberts and Sir Edward Grey, the latter of whom was the recipient of a great ovation when he was referred to by the other speakers as "the peacemaker of Europe."

Price Collier, who after Mr. Page was the principal American speaker of the evening, said that the two greatest peacemakers of Europe were Earl Roberts, who made peace from the Khyber Pass to Cape Town, and Sir Edward Grey, who "took in hand the hornets' nest of the Balkans in this year of grace." His reference to Emperor William as "that great and strong man who is the true friend of England" was received with tremendous applause.

Lord Shaw of Dunfermline described the recent tour in the United States of the British committee for the purpose of arranging a programme for the celebration of the centenary of peace between the English-speaking peoples. He commented upon the hospitality that was showered upon the British representatives in the American cities they visited. Lord Shaw said the most useful result of the centenary would be the establishment of a chair of Anglo-American history, which he hoped James Bryce, former British Ambassador to the United States, would fill.

"The time is long past when there was need, if ever there was need, of makeshifts or make-believes in our intercourse," said Mr. Page. "Surely it augurs well for the spread of justice and fair dealing and for the firmer establishment of the peace of the world that the two nations of the English-speaking folk speak frankly to one another in our dealings. Blood answers to blood, and our fundamental qualities of manhood are the same.

"It is an inspiring spectacle—and history can show none other such—these two kindred nations, one on each side of the well-plowed sea that unites them, standing at the end of a century of peace, liberty-loving, as of old, and forward-looking, confident of the bounds of freedom and yet regarding government as a living and ever-changing instrument of human progress made by man for man's advancement, and not for the mere maintenance of any political creed. This is an augury for the progress of the world that shames all structures of society where man's lot is stationary, or his philosophy dipped in gloom."

Mr. Page's reference to his predecessors as Ambassador to the Court of St. James's, whom he named, was warmly received, as also was his description of James Bryce as "persona grata to the United States Government and persona gratissima to the American people." Mr. Page spoke of America's mission as that of the making of men, and in conclusion he referred to the "great English-speaking democracy which, in every part of the world, has the same large aims to keep men free and preserve the peace of the world."

"The Ambassador of the United States in this country has a dual capacity—that of Ambassador and that of honored guest and friend," said Sir Edward Grey. "If he comes to us with proposals from his Government, with the idea of making more remote any appeal to blind force, he will find in this country and in the British Government a ready response. If there should be a proposal to make war between nations more remote, it is from the United States that such a proposal can be made with full dignity and with good feeling which is beyond suspicion.

"The peace between England and America is based not merely upon kinship of race or community of religion or language. I believe it is based upon the sure basis of a feeling of downright repugnance on both sides of the ocean that the peace with Great Britain ever should be disturbed. A peace proposal from such a quarter as the United States would come under no suspicion of being inspired by any feeling of pusillanimity, by any national interest or by any desire of securing an advantage in disarming or placing at a disadvantage any other nation.

"As great as is the friendly feeling between us to-day, that friendly feeling will, I trust, still grow and grow. After all, whatever degree it develops, however strong it becomes, I believe it is their wish—and I am sure it is ours—that the friendly feeling between the two countries, though it may serve as an example to all nations, should never be a menace to any."

PLANS FOR KAISER'S JUBILEE

All Germany is Planning Celebrations, Some Highly Original.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, June 6.—The Kaiser's popularity is attested by the way in which the whole population is preparing to celebrate his silver jubilee.

The unofficial, spontaneous celebrations will far outnumber those of an official character. There is no district, village, class, or association which has not preparations under way.

Some of the methods of celebration are original. A school in Cassel will organize a thirty-mile walking race. A Munich horticultural organization proposes to decorate a hillside with the inscription "W. R. et I.," ("Wilhelm Rex et Imperator,") made of huge geraniums. Various associations of "return to Nature" enthusiasts will recognize the occasion. The simple life idea has lately made great progress, especially in South Germany, and on June 16 the enthusiasts of Regensburg will have a great meeting in the forest, at which all will appear in their customary garb, resembling an abbreviated bathing dress.

One of the more valuable forms of celebration will be the compilation of a monumental work on "Social Culture During Wilhelm II.'s Reign." Sixty men of science and heads of State departments have undertaken to produce the book.

ACTOR-KNIGHT'S GOOD-BYE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON June 6.—Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson bade farewell to the London stage to-night. Drury Lane was packed with an audience of more than 3,500 people. The prices of admission were double those ordinarily charged, yet the house could have been filled twice over. "Hamlet" was the play. There were innumerable calls after each act, and laurel wreaths and floral tributes, many of which were from American admirers, were presented to the Knight and his lady, who played Ophelia. At the close of the performance the actor received an ovation unequaled in the days of Garrick, Kean, Macready, or Irving.

Sir Johnston's farewell speech started on a note of humor. He referred to his first appearance on the stage, when he was so badly made up that, as he descended the creaking stairs from his dressing room, one sceneshifter said to another: "Bill, 'ere's the ghost of 'Amlet's father." He said that he played Hamlet, when only 14, in his father's back drawing room, and that his sister doubled the parts of Ophelia and the First Gravedigger. Ophelia, digging her own grave, aroused the audience to almost indecent hilarity. Sounding a more serious note, he said that he had seen great changes during his forty years of acting. Never was the standard of acting so high as now. Referring to personal matters, he said it really was his farewell. He could not be sad, but was elated when he thought of the big audiences which filled Drury Lane, and the honor which the King had paid him. The farewell, however, did not include his wife, Miss Gertrude Elliott, who would appear in London on their return from America, where they expected to open early in October.

Miss Elliott joined her husband at the end of his speech, and both were cheered again and again, the audience standing and waving handkerchiefs.

BARONESS FOILS BLACKMAIL

King Leopold's Widow Traps "Novelists" Who Made Her Their Heroine

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, June 6.—Baroness Vaughan, the morganatic widow of King Leopold, who recently obtained a divorce from her second husband, has just outwitted two blackmailers who endeavored to extort $12,000 from her.

Two men told her that they had written a novel of which she was the heroine. After showing her headings of various chapters, they said that a newspaper published in Paris was offering $6,000 for the manuscript and that it might be "preferable" for her to pay $12,000 to prevent publication.

The Baroness pretended to accept the proposal and arranged that the manuscript should be handed to her at her residence in exchange for the money. When one man returned to her house yesterday, detectives, concealed behind a curtain, after hearing the man commit himself, arrested him. His accomplice was captured shortly afterward.

MYSTERY IN SPY'S RELEASE.

German Set Free Ahead of Time—British Officials Won't Explain.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, June 7.—New York dispatches relative to the alleged disclosures of Karl Graves, a German spy, who was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment at Edinburgh, are printed here, though on their face, says The Chronicle, they bear the stamp of the utmost improbability.

It is, however, a recognized fact that the authorities for some reason deemed it expedient to release him, though under ordinary circumstances he would not have been a free man till September.

A NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, who made inquiries at the Edinburgh headquarters of the Prison Commission for Scotland, could obtain no information on the subject, the officials maintaining an attitude of absolute reticence. Inquiries by another representative at official quarters in London showed that the release had taken place, but the reason for it and all other information were refused.

PARIS GIVES PEARY A ROYAL WELCOME

He Receives an Ovation from Representatives of Science and Society.

PLANS SOUTH POLAR SEARCH

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, June 6.—A royal reception was accorded to Rear Admiral Peary and his family on their arrival at the Gare de l'Est this morning. They were met by Ambassador Herrick, Prince Roland Bonaparte, Paul Chassaigne-Goyon, President of the Paris Municipal Council; Ernest Charles, President of the Society of Foreign Lectures in Paris; representative bodies of the Geographical Society and the France-Amérique Committee, and prominent members of the Paris social and scientific world.

Speeches of welcome were made by Prince Roland Bonaparte and Ernest Charles, to which Admiral Peary replied in English. A large drawing room in the station had been specially decorated, and soon assumed the appearance of a conservatory owing to the immense quantity of flowers which were offered to Mrs. and Miss Peary. A luncheon in honor of the explorer, his wife and daughter was given to-day by Prince Roland Bonaparte.

The Admiral gave his official lecture at the Sorbonne this evening. He prefaced it with an apology for not speaking French, explaining that he knew only two languages—English and Eskimo. He will relate his adventures at a representative dinner given on Monday at the Pré Catalan by the France-Amérique Committee.

Admiral Peary looks all the better for his three months' European tour, but in chatting with THE NEW YORK TIMES's correspondent he said that what principally gave him his happy look was the thought of starting home on the Kaiser Wilhelm on Wednesday. As to his plans, nothing has been settled yet, but he hopes to find sufficient support to outfit an American expedition to the south pole.

"America has a unique opportunity," he said, "to secure a sphere of influence in the huge region lying between Cape Horn and the pole. It has the best polar ship imaginable—the Roosevelt; it has the best men—those of my party—to make up the expedition, not counting the benefit of my own quarter of a century of experience. The expedition should go to the pole from the opposite direction to that taken by Scott and Amundsen. Its geographical and astronomical researches would be of the greatest importance. The result of the expedition would be the drawing up of a map of the sea and the polar continent, which have never been explored on that side.

"In my opinion, the expedition should not be Governmental, but organized by the geographical and other scientific societies of America, with the moral support of the Government. It should be financed either by such bodies or by public subscription, or by one man. The monetary sacrifice, anyway, would not be more than $100,000. I would personally undertake the organization of all details, but I have made up my mind not to return to the polar regions at the head of such an expedition. I see in Robert A. Bartlett its ideal chief."

All the newspapers make a feature of Peary's visit. Charles Nordman, the astronomer of the Paris Observatory, says in a leader in the Matin:

"Welcoming Peary, we pay a well-deserved tribute to American science, which is both admirable in itself and cannot but arouse envy in the Old World. It is because this young nation is not fettered by the routine with which we are hampered? Is it because in America old age is not the necessary condition of employment in which one can work and produce, and that young men can manage its laboratories as well as its battleships? One fact is certain: In addition to the enormous guns which make them respected in the realms of power, the United States has been able to create new arms in order to conquer the kingdom of thought. America is without a rival when it comes to producing that pacific artillery, the telescope, which searches the secrets of the infinite with such intelligence and passionate desire. For this alone the nation is great and worthy of its Star-Spangled Banner."

Susman Talks to Paris Reporters.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 6.—Harold Susman of New York, who, at the age of 29, married Mrs. Lillie A. Coe of New Haven, twenty-eight years his senior, and later separated from her, arrived here to-day. He soon surrounded himself with reporters, to whom he repeated in detail the story he had previously prepared and mailed to a number of American newspapers, attacking his wife and not neglecting a chance to obtain notoriety for a book he says he is to write on his matrimonial experience.

He will travel like a monarch, having engaged four of the most expensive suites on the French liner Espagne. His entire family, married and unmarried, including his son-in-law, will accompany him.

$1,500 FOR A GOLDSMITH.

Rare "Threnodia" the Feature of Yesterday's Huth Sale.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 6.—An exceedingly rare quarto, "Geistlich Strass," published at Nuremberg in 1521, brought $1,195 at to-day's sale of the Huth library at Sotheby's. The seventeen woodcuts in this volume are said to represent the Stations of the Cross, sculptured by Veit Stoss at Nuremberg. They are chiefly in the form of triptychs in ornamental frames on ornamental plinths, and are finely engraved.

"Gesta Grayorum, or the History of the High and Mighty Henry Prince of Purpoole," &c., quarto, London, 1688, went for $175. This tract, though reprinted by Nichols in his "Progresses of Queen Elizabeth" as the record of a masque that had been acted in the sixteenth century, is in fact only a satire.

An undated edition of "Gesta Romanorum," consisting of 169 small folio leaves and esteemed by some bibliographers as the earliest of this famous collection of tales, sold for $300.

Two rare German woodcut books in one volume, printed at Strassburg in 1522, brought $245. They relate to the Passion of Christ. On the title is a portrait of the author, Johannes Geyler von Keiserberg.

"Globus Mundi," a small undated quarto, with fine woodcuts and a reference to America, sold for $130. It is the original edition and in binding by F. Bedford.

William Golding's "Servants on Horse-Back, or a Free People Bestrided in their Persons and Liberties by Worthlesse Men: Being a Representation of the Dejected State of the Inhabitants of Summer Islands," London, 1648, went for $225.

A first edition, first issue, of "The Vicar of Wakefield," by Oliver Goldsmith, Salisbury, 1766, brought $455. The Paris, 1800, edition of the same work, printed on vellum, fetched $355. Six original drawings and five engravings are inserted.

A first edition of the exceedingly rare "Threnodia Augustolis," by Goldsmith, London, 1772, sold for $1,500. It is to the memory of the Princess Dowager of Wales, and was "spoken and sung in the Great Room at Soho Square on Thursday the 20th of February."

"The Pleasant Historie of the Conquest of the Weast India, now called New Spayne," by F. Lopez de Gomara, translated into English by Thomas Nicholas, first edition, London, 1578, brought $190.

"The Ephemerides of Phiallo," by Stephen Gosson, London, 1586, brought $275. It is the second edition. "The Schoole of Abuse, contayning a pleasaunt inuective against Poets, Pipers, Players, Iesters, and such like Caterpillars of a Common Wealth," also by Gosson, London, 1587, went for $350. It is the rare third edition and is of Shakespearean interest. Another Gosson book, entitled "Quippes for Upstart Gentlewomen. A Glasse to view the Pride of Vain-glorious Woman. Containing a pleasant inuective against the fantastical Foreigne Toyes daylie used in Women's Apparell," London, 1595, brought $900. It is the only copy known.

"The Prayse of all Women, called Mulierum Pean," by Edward Gasynhill, London, no date, sold for $423. It was licensed to John King in 1557-8. It is the only copy known of this edition.

John Gower's "Confessio Amantis," first edition, printed by William Caxton at Westminster in 1483, brought $875. This low price for a Caxton is due to the fact that it is an imperfect copy. It has fifteen leaves in fac simile and wants the four blanks mentioned by Blades, who specifies only five perfect copies. The date in the colophon has, as is well known, a superfluous X, making it read 1493 instead of 1483.

$76,380 Sale in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—Sixty-four canvases, including portraits in oil by old English, French, Dutch, Italian, and Spanish masters were sold at auction here to-day for a total of $76,380. A work by Romney entitled "Meditation," for which Lady Hamilton is said to have been the model, brought the highest price, $5,900. High prices for engravings and miniatures were realized at another sale here to-day. An original ivory miniature of Napoleon, painted by Mansion, which is said to have a romantic history, sold for $1,950.

WE GRATIFY SPAIN.

Proposed Raising of Our Legation to an Embassy Pleases.

MADRID, June 6.—Count Romanones, the Spanish Premier, said to-day that the action of the Senate committee at Washington in reporting favorably a resolution to raise the United States Legation here to the status of an embassy was most gratifying.

It was said at the Foreign Office that the raising of the Spanish Legation at Washington to an embassy had been under consideration for some time, and would come into effect immediately after a similar promotion had been made in the Spanish diplomatic post in Argentina.

POLICE FIGHT STRIKERS.

Seventy Men Wounded in Encounter with Stettin Workmen.

STETTIN, June 6.—A battle between police and strikers, in which seventy are reported to have been severely wounded, was fought last night in the suburb of Frauendorf as the sequel to the killing of a striker by a non-striker.

The workers in a chicory factory struck some time ago, and last evening one of them molested a man who had continued at work, and in the fight which ensued the striker was stabbed and killed. The striker's comrades later gathered in a great crowd in front of the factory and demanded that the non-striker be handed over to them. Their request was refused, and they threatened to demolish the factory by setting fire to it.

The local police were unable to cope with the angry strikers, and reinforcements were called for from Stettin. Soon afterward a body of 300 armed policemen arrived in automobiles from headquarters in Stettin, and a pitched battle between them and the strikers occurred, during which the police freely used their sabres and revolvers. The strikers replied with pistol shots, but they were soon overcome by the disciplined force and were finally dispersed, leaving many of their number wounded on the ground.

M. P.'S TO FIGURE IN DIVORCE CASE

Lloyd-George's Private Secretary Co-respondent in the Carr-Gomm's Suit.

MAY CALL THE CHANCELLOR

Big Social Sensation Expected When Incidents at His House Are Discussed in Court.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 6.—An action entered to-day for a hearing in the divorce list of the High Courts of Justice is expected to prove one of the biggest social sensations of the season. The chief parties are two prominent Liberal Members of Parliament. It is possible that Chancellor Lloyd-George may be unwillingly brought into the affair when the case comes to court.

The petitioner is Hubert William Culling Carr-Gomm, Liberal Member of Parliament for Rotherhithe. He is seeking a divorce from his wife, Kathleen, on the grounds of misconduct with another Member of the House, Eliot Crawshay Williams, who sits for Leicester. Crawshay-Williams has been Parliamentary Private Secretary to Lloyd-George since 1910, and this may account for the almost frantic efforts the Chancellor has made to prevent the case coming into court.

All the parties concerned have been frequent guests at the Chancellor's Downing Street residence and at his country house in Wales, and it is said that some of the allegations referred to by the husband are not unconnected with incidents which occurred during these visits.

Carr-Gomm was Assistant Private Secretary to Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, and formerly Honorary Secretary of the London Liberal Federation. He is a Justice of the Peace for Bucks, and a member of many exclusive West End clubs, including Brooks, Ranelagh, and the Eighty. He was married in 1906, the year he entered Parliament, to Kathleen, daughter of the late William Rome, a wealthy Liverpool property owner. Crawshay-Williams was one of the promising men Lloyd-George took under his wing when he became Chancellor. Like the petitioner, he is a member of Brooks and the Eighty.

Rumor says that there will be sensational revelations when the case comes into court.

ENGLISH BREAKFASTS HERE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 6.—The growing popularity of the British breakfast in America was the chief impression left upon A. J. Giles, Secretary of the Federation of Grocers' Associations, who has just returned from a visit to the United States.

"Although the grocers there are mostly Germans, Italians, and Jews," he says, "their shops have a remarkable display of British goods. It is the same in the hotels, restaurants, and railway saloons. British breakfast foods were features of the menus. In the largest grocery shops British blended teas stand in great pyramids. In all the shops the assistants work without overalls; the shops, I think, thereby lose in attractiveness."

AMERICANS IN FEAR OF MEXICAN ATTACK

THEIR ARMS TAKEN AWAY

If Necessary, They Will Adopt Defense Measures That May Embarrass Administration.

TAMPICO, Mexico, June 6.—Three hundred Americans living in southern Tamaulipas, representing sixty-eight families, have demanded in a long message to President Wilson, which was sent through Consul Miller here, to know, "once for all," whether they can expect protection from their home Government, since they "do not desire to take measures for our own safety which would embarrass our Government without giving due notice beforehand."

The message of the Americans was transmitted by wireless through Consul Miller to W. W. Canada, the American Consul in Vera Cruz, to be forwarded to Washington. It says in part:

"Having been left without any protection whatever on the part of both sides in the pending controversy, therefore we can look for protection only from our own country. We must know once for all if we can expect same. Having been subjected to slights and a great variety of indignities and gross abuse during the last few days, the situation calls for most serious preparations for our own personal safety, and the defense of our families and our interests. Therefore, we have assembled for the purpose of considering the best way. We consider protection necessary now, since after death it will be of no utility."

The message asserts in addition that the petitioners have borne financial losses silently, but that many of them cannot obey the advice to "get away if in danger," as their departure would mean the abandoning of the accumulations of lifetimes.

"We consider the lives of ourselves and our families in danger, and the situation has justified this petition several times in the last few days," the message continues. "It is no longer doubtful that the slightest spark will bring on the dread conflagration at any moment. In many instances the small arms sold to American citizens on the part of the American Government for their protection have been demanded, and in some instances they have been taken."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Information confirming in every respect the statement contained in a Havana dispatch printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning that the complications of Mexican politics had forced Francisco de la Barra, the Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs, to leave that perturbed country, was obtained here to-day. Señor de la Barra, who had been Ambassador to the United States and was Provisional President of the Mexican Republic in 1911, will make an extended stay in Europe, as the Havana dispatch to THE TIMES told.

This course on Señor de la Barra's part was decided on after full conference with Provisional President Huerta and Gen. Felix Diaz, and received their approval. Señor de la Barra takes the view that a movement to bring about his nomination and election as President of the republic must be avoided, as likely to lead to greater confusion in political conditions in his country and not calculated to reconcile the Constitutionalists with the remnants of the Diaz régime now dominant under Gen. Huerta.

There has been received here a statement prepared by Señor de la Barra in explanation of his determination to go abroad, so as to make it impossible, under Article 72 of the Mexican Constitution, for his friends to nominate him for President. In part it runs:

"For the re-establishment of peace, the consolidation of progress, and for the realization of an effective democracy, all Mexicans must subordinate their personal interests and aspirations to the vital interests and greater aspirations of the nation.

"In view of this obligation and actuated by the motives—now more powerful than ever—which I outlined in a letter that I had the honor to address to the members of the Executive Committee of the Liberal Democratic Party and in the declarations relative to my nomination for the Presidency of the republic which were published shortly after my letter, I have believed it opportune to ratify those declarations and, at the same time, respectfully to insist upon the withdrawal of my nomination for the Vice Presidency of the republic which that party did the honor to confer upon me. I also wish to reiterate my determination not to aspire to the Presidency of the republic.

"With the precepts of Article 72 of the Constitution and its corollaries in mind, I shall leave the national territory as soon as I am able to arrive at an adequate solution of the delicate international affairs which are pending at the Chancellory."

TAXI BANDIT SENTENCED.

Saved from Penitentiary Because He Feared Convicts in Sing Sing.

To protect him because he had testified against the members of the taxicab bandit gang, of which he was leader, Joseph Young, known among criminals as Joseph Taylor, was sentenced yesterday to one year in the penitentiary on Blackwell's Island instead of to Sing Sing prison, and to pay a fine of $1,000, by Judge Foster in General Sessions. This amounts to a sentence of four years, as Young will have to serve one day for each dollar of the fine, which is not paid.

When arraigned yesterday for sentence Young handed Judge Foster a letter, in which he told the Court that he was afraid he would be killed if he was sent to Sing Sing. The letter was read by Assistant District Attorney Bostwick, who found that some of the disclosures made by Young involved men who had not yet been arrested. He therefore suppressed part of Young's letter. Young compared himself to "Bridgie" Webber, one of the informers in the Rosenthal murder case. He said:

> To my lay mind, believing that precedent has weight in the passing of judgment in a court of law, it appears that my present status has more of merit regarding clemency than had Bridgie Webber last year in the Rosenthal case.
> Bridgie was a partner to the murder of a member of the underworld. Rosenthal, as such, created less of public rancor toward Webber than the result of my depravities. But does justice consider public rancor in such a case? In aiding the State, I believed my motives to be more praiseworthy than were Webber's. In his case, apparently, self-preservation outweighed any pure resolve to reform. Lastly, his money enabled him to secure legal aid that managed well to drive a bargain, hard and fast, in exchange for his testimony. Has my life been more reprehensible? Webber used money, the source of which is well known to me to have been the proceeds of the sale of opium, and no man in New York is more responsible for the widespread misuse of morphine and other drugs.

In sentencing Young, Judge Foster said he had intended to sentence him to Sing Sing, but after considering the threats made against the defendant by the convicted members of his gang, he had decided otherwise. Charles Lober, who was Young's companion, was also sentenced to a year in the penitentiary and to pay $1,000 fine.

After pleading guilty, Young confessed to Mr. Bostwick, and his confession led to the conviction of George McVetty, Robert McVetty, Patrick Bolger, Charles Clark, Joseph O'Connell, Benjamin Gold, Samuel Goldstein, and Frank Jerrie. After the conviction of McVetty, who was charged with holding up Albert Newman, a restaurant keeper, and stealing a satchel Newman carried, which contained a fish's head and some paper instead of money, McVetty said that Young had murdered Adolph Stein. Stein was killed in Jacob Jacoby's jewelry store, at Thirteenth Street and Sixth Avenue, and Martin Garvey was tried for the murder and acquitted. Young denied the charge, and was able to prove that he had not taken any part in Stein's murder, and showed that McVetty had accused him of the murder because of his testimony.

Young came from a very good family and lived in Greenwich Village. At one time it was said Young had much money. He spent most of it in high living, and, according to his own story, took to the use of drugs and finally degenerated into a criminal.

Hinebaugh of Illinois Says Scandal Will Be Uncovered.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Representative Hinebaugh of Illinois to-day appealed to the House to act favorably on his resolution calling for an Inter-State Commerce investigation of the receivership of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad. Senator Kenyon introduced a similar resolution yesterday.

"My resolution should be passed," said Mr. Hinebaugh, "and an investigation made, if for no other reason than that this receivership already has been set up as a reason why freight rates should be raised. As usual, the public is asked to hold the bag and pay the fiddler, when the operations of these gentlemen, who are given to frenzied finance, are brought to a halt. Those who have purchased the $72,000,000 of securities which the company has sold during the last three years are anxious to know now what portion of this money found its way into the treasury of the company and how much was diverted into the pockets of certain officials.

"I am more than satisfied that a thorough investigation by the Inter-State Commerce Commission will demonstrate that the 'Frisco system, under the management of B. F. Yoakum, has never been conducted as a legitimate transportation company, but that it has been the basis of a tremendous jobbing scheme to enrich the men who have been in a position to manipulate its securities. I believe it will also be found that great volumes of the stocks and bonds of this company have been sold far in excess of the true value of the tangible property owned by the company."

"Without a doubt 'The Judgment House' will be one of the popular novels of the Summer. It has most of the elements of popularity and is written with sustained dramatic power."—Chicago Record-Herald. Desert Gold
By Zane Grey

"A face haunted Cameron—a woman's face. It was there in the white heart of the dying camp-fire; it was living in the shadows that hovered over the flickering light; it drifted in the darkness beyond." As you see, romance glows in this headlong adventure on the Arizona-Mexico frontier. Some splendid horses, too! Most of the papers say it's better even than Zane Grey's "Riders of the Purple Sage" or "The Heritage of the Desert."

Alas, there was no grape juice then! Still, the light of a new idea triumphed in the town of Griggsby. We read every word of Irving Bacheller's new tale, and it is all the kind of wise fun we chuckled over in "Keeping Up With Lizzie." COOKE NOW TO WED FLORETTA WHALEY

Divorce Obtained by His Wife in Pity for His Children.

SHE URGES THE MARRIAGE

A telephone message from Hartford brought the news to Floretta Whaley yesterday that Mrs. Marinda Clarke Cooke, wife of Jere Knode Cooke, the deposed Episcopal clergyman with whom she had lived for six years, had obtained a final decree of divorce. There was added to the message a word from Cooke's deserted wife. It was that in relenting from her determination not to obtain a divorce she was moved by pity for the two children born to Cooke and Floretta Whaley, and for that reason she desired her former husband to marry his companion.

The message was sent to the home where Cooke and Floretta Whaley and their two children were living on the upper west side by W. J. Ennison, a lawyer at 15 Broad Street, who represented Cooke in the divorce proceeding. Floretta Whaley asked the lawyer over the telephone to thank Mrs. Cooke. A few minutes after the young woman received the message from Hartford Cooke returned home from his work as a painter and wood grainer on a downtown skyscraper. His two boys, Paul, 5 years old, and Chester, 4, ran to meet him. The first words between the man and the woman were:

"Well, dear, it has been a long six years!"

Reporters arrived at the Cooke flat almost before the greeting was answered. Floretta Whaley welcomed them.

"It is a real pleasure at last," she said, "to meet reporters when it doesn't mean that we shall be driven away again. And this interview is different in another way. My little ones are getting just big enough to be curious. Maybe I would better send them from the room."

She spoke to the children, and they quickly went down the narrow hall to a bedroom.

"And now," said the young woman, "I suppose you want to know about the wedding. It will take place in the simplest manner possible consistent with making it entirely legal. I want only two things to happen—that the morbidly curious may be kept away and that our friends, some of whom have come back to us since we came here from San Francisco, may not have notoriety thrust on them by attending the ceremony.

"Do I feel happy over the outcome of the divorce suit? Of course I do—and very grateful to Mrs. Cooke."

Cooke Tells His Plans.

"We can't give you the date yet, because we do not know what the legal requirements are," he said. "We have, as I understand it, first to obtain a certified copy of the divorce devree, and as the decree was granted by a State other than New York there will not, as I understand it, be any need to wait for any stipulated period.

"All I can say is that I am very proud to have a chance to marry, and that I am very grateful to Mrs. Cooke for obtaining the divorce which leaves me free to take a position in the world as the father of my little ones. As to the marriage, you know a painter's salary won't support much of a honeymoon or much of a wedding party. But W. J. Ennison, my lawyer, will be present, and the bride will year a bouquet of violets which I shall provide out of my wages.

"I do not want to bring down on the head of any clergyman the load of controversy that would fall to the lot of one who performed the ceremony, so I shall seek a legal marriage by some one not a clergyman. I will keep on working as a painter."

Cooke was asked if his remark about clergymen was prompted by any variation in his faith from the days when he served in the pulpit."

"No, indeed, it was not," he replied. "In these six years my faith has grown and not dwindled, and my confidence in the justice of Providence has grown. I have found workingmen good men, but in the world as a whole I have found a good deal of hypocrisy—and much of the hypocrisy among clergymen."

"Does that mean that the clergymen have been especially vigorous in repudiating you?" was suggested.

"Yes and no. I have been openly affronted and insulted not at all in these six years, but once I met a brother clergyman on the street and he turned very red and to avaid passing me ran out in the street and caught a car. He did not speak. Once I lost a job as a painter on account of being Jere Knode Cooke. The good man who fired me—it was the only time I ever was fired—was very considerate in his way of doing it, but it was too much of a stretch of his set rules of conduct to keep a man on his wage list whose sin was a great as mine."

"I do not attempt to defend what I did. Ethically, it was wrong. It was not right according to the standards I had set for myself, and it was not right according to the standards I preached from the pulpit. I do not defend it."

Cooke's attention was called to a statement by his former wife that no reason existed why he should have left her. His voice and manner changed quickly. He spoke with gestures that indicated the preacher rather than the painter and wood grainer.

"I have the keenest love in the world for little ones," was his answer. "As the years went by and no little ones came into our home—but all this is sacred, and I refuse to parade it before the world. Why, when I found I was to have no little ones, I took the children of my congregation to my heart. I carried their photographs in my pocketbook, and when some of them died I was so disturbed that often I could not go on with the service at the graves.

"I might have found some other way to do it. I often have wondered if I could have found another way. But had there been any human way to do it I would have married Floretta Whaley six years ago. There was not a way to be married, and so we took the path we did. When little creatures called me father I was a changed man, and I have lived and worked since then in the hope I could make good—claim my little children before the world and show the world that we wanted to take a course the world would not open to us, and which we now will take the first moment it is opened. You who are happily married cannot know what I mean. You have not known what it was to live in a big and childless house."

Cooke said that all last Winter he worked for $22 a week.

The divorce decree, which was granted to Mrs. Cooke by Judge Joel H. Reede in the Supreme Court in Hartford, was granted on the grounds of desertion and misconduct. Mrs. Cooke obtained permission to resume her maiden name. She testified that her husband deserted her to protect Floretta Whaley, and that she considered him partly insane at the time.

WIRELESS STRIKE OFF.

Marconi Company Settles with Its Pacific Coast Operators.

Organizer B. F. Shrimpton of the Wireless Division of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, announced last night that he had received a dispatch from S. J. Konenkamp, President of the union, who is now in San Francisco, that the strike of the wireless operators on the Pacific Coast against the Marconi Company had been settled. The strike was for higher wages and better working conditions. The operators get concessions on working conditions and recognition of the union, but no increase in pay.

CHEAPER TELEPHONE TOLLS

Patrons Are Promised a Saving of $650,000 a Year.

Beginning next month, there will be put in force a general revision of telephone toll rates, the schedules for which have just been filed by the New York Telephone Company, with the Public Service Commission, Second District, New York, and the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners of New Jersey. The company makes the statement that, based on present volume of traffic, the new rates will mean a saving to telephone users of $650,000 per year. The new rates will be shown to subscribers in the telephone directories, the delivery of which is to begin in New York on June 9. They do not apply until July 1.

At the same time, a new system of charging for overtime calls will be inaugurated. Instead of charging for fractions of five minutes overtime as additional calls, the charge will be graded according to the actual number of minutes of the connection. Subscribers will be notified of the change on July 1 by means of an announcement mailed with their telephone bills.

MORTALLY HURT AT PLAY.

Boy Fractures His Skull in Rolling Down Hill in the Bronx.

Samuel Forsythe, 12 years old, of 506 Brook Avenue, the Bronx, spent a part of last evening rolling down a hill in St. Mary's Park, at St. Ann's Avenue and East 149th Street, with other lads. On one of his rolls he struck his head on a rock, and, feeling dizzy when he arrived at the bottom of the hill, he quit the sport and went home.

Half an hour after arriving at the house he became violently ill, and Dr. Thomas J. Davis of 426 East 144th Street was summoned. He discovered that the boy was suffering from a fracture of the skull. The lad was carried to Lincoln Hospital, where it was said he had only a slight chance to recover.

Jury Gives Verdict on Account of an Iron Worker's Fall.

A jury under Supreme Court Justice Ford returned a verdict of $10,000 yesterday to Mrs. Agnes Thompson for the death of her husband, Charles Thompson, an iron worker in the employ of Levering & Garrigues, who fell forty-five feet from a scaffolding.

Witnesses testified in the suit against the building company that the iron beams on which Thompson had been required to walk had been freshly painted, and that the scaffolding was also slippery from the paint. Thompson, they said, had slipped on the fresh paint and plunged off the scaffolding.

WANTS TO ENLARGE AMERICAN HOSPITAL

Dr. R. B. Teusler Is Here from Tokio to Get Added Support for St. Luke's.

FAVORED BY THE JAPANESE

American Institution, Founded Fourteen Years Ago, Is Among the Most Valued in the Far East.

American visitors to Tokio are usually surprised to find that in the Japanese capital is a hospital run by two American doctors, but only partly supported from the United States, and that this hospital in fourteen years has probably done as much to promote a feeling of friendship for Americans among the Japanese as anything since the landing of Commodore Perry.

It is only when one visits Tokio that one learns of the self-sacrifice of these two American physicians, who, instead of seizing the opportunity to become rich by the practice of their profession in a country where general medical skill, in spite of the famed achievements of Japanese surgeons during the Russian war, is still far below the best standard, are giving their earnings to the support and upbuilding of St. Luke's International Hospital. Dr. R. B. Teusler, Director of the hospital, is now in New York, where he has come to make an effort to get support for the institution, which from a very small beginning has grown to a hospital of eighty beds, with a staff of two American and ten Japanese doctors, a nurses' training school with thirty pupils, and a medical society of about fifty Japanese members.

In Tokio several weeks ago a TIMES representative met Dr. Theodore Bliss, who is Dr. Teusler's associate, and who modestly confirmed some of the accounts of the work of the hospital which the visitor had heard from the time he landed at Nagasaki.

Bars No Creed or Nationality.

Dr. Bliss, who is a graduate of Cornell, has been in Tokio three years. Dr. Teusler founded the hospital, which is partly supported by the American Episcopal Church, and he has given his time to the institution ever since. At the time St. Luke's was started there was no hospital in Japan where Americans could get anything like the care they would receive at home. In fact, modern hospitals and hospital nursing were practically unknown. St. Luke's does not discriminate in matters of creed or nationality. Nowadays foreigners throughout Japan, members of Embassies and Legations in Tokio, and visitors avail themselves of the privileges of the institution when it is necessary.

Dr. Teusler, who was seen yesterday at the Church Missions House, said that he had come back to the United States partly with a view of trying to get the hospital properly before the next Protestant Episcopal General Convention.

"With the increasing number of foreign residents, visitors, and tourists, the capacity of the present hospital is inadequate to meet the growing demands that are being made upon it," said Dr. Teusler. "The time is ripe for building in Tokio, as a logical development of the present St. Luke's, a much larger institution, to be placed on an international basis by a fund to be raised partly in Japan and partly in the United States. I think Americans have a unique opportunity by supporting this institution to demonstrate to Japan our friendship and good-will. Ex-Prime Minister Katsura and Baron Goto, together with many of the most representative men in Japanese politics and finance, thoroughly indorse the work of the hospital, and will lend their aid if we are successful here to raise sufficient funds in Japan to get the new hospital under way. An important detail is the fact that the professors of the Imperial University will continue to act as consultants in the various departments in the new hospital, as they are doing at present at St. Luke's.

Favored by President Wilson.

"I may say, without violating confidence, that I had an interview the other day with President Wilson, who thoroughly indorses our plan, and who spoke of the marked influence which in an unofficial way such a work as this would have in promoting peaceful relations with Japan.

"We are planning to raise half a million dollars, one-half of the sum now and the rest in two years. I have just been offered the Presidency of the Nippon Medical College, the largest private medical school in Tokio. Dr. Isobe, the founder, having tendered me the position. He desires to have the college affiliated with the work of St. Luke's. It has nearly 400 students.

"We have had many distinguished patients at St. Luke's. It might be interesting to mention that the wife of Dr. Sun Yat Sen was brought to us after she had been injured in an automobile accident in Tokio last Winter. St. Luke's is the property of the American Episcopal Church. It has wards and private rooms for both Japanese and foreign patients. To extend our usefulness, I am going to England at the end of the month to get an English doctor to be on our staff, as I have been for several years physician to the British Embassy in Tokio."

The members of the American Council of St. Luke's International Hospital consist of Lloyd C. Griscom, former Minister to Japan, President; Dr. Lyman Abbott, Larz Anderson, former Ambassador to Japan; Martin Egan, ex-President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard, A. S. Frissell, John Esher Knobel, Seth Low, Dr. Hamilton Wright Mabie, W. Fellowes Morgan, Thomas J. O'Brien, former Ambassador to Japan; E. E. Olcott, George Foster Peabody, George Wharton Pepper, John S. Rogers, Lindsay Russell, William Jay Schieffelin, James A. Scrymser, Charles H. Sherrill, Melville E. Stone, Willard D. Straight, Samuel Thorne, Jr., George Zabriskie, and J. G. Zachry.

Advertisers Elect Officers.

The Association of National Advertising Managers closed its annual meeting yesterday at the Waldorf. Attending the sessions, which lasted two days, were representatives of leading advertisers from every part of the United States. The association elected these officers for 1913-14: President, T. Thrift, Cleveland, Ohio; Vice President, Harry Tipper, New York City; Treasurer, W. G. Snow, Meriden, Conn.

William H. Ingersoll, Harland J. Wright, R. A. Holmes, G. B. Sharpe, A. C. Reiley, and Roy B. Simpson were elected to the Board of Directors.

Police Capt. Murphy Retires.

Capt. Lawrence J. Murphy of the Prospect Park Station, Brooklyn, was retired yesterday from the Police Department at his own request, after thirty-two years of service. He is 63 years old, and before joining the force was a shoemaker.

KEYS WAS MURDERED.

Autopsy Shows That He Could Not Have Stabbed Himself.

As a result of an autopsy performed yesterday upon the body of Joseph Keys, who was found dead on Thursday night in his room at 585 Third Avenue with numerous stab wounds in his body and his throat and wrists cut, it was shown that he must have been murdered, as he could not have inflicted the wounds himself.

Dr. Ray, Coroner's physician, who performed the autopsy, found both carotid arteries severed by deep gashes on both sides of the throat. Both wrists were gashed, the arteries being severed. There were fifty stab wounds in the left side of the breast. Thirty of these punctured the left lobe of the lung and five punctured the heart, one of the cuts going through the left ventricle.

According to Dr. Ray's findings, the stab wounds in the breast were made after death. All of the wounds were made with a three-inch jack-knife which was found beside the body.

Keys had lived at 585 Third Avenue for about two and a half years. He was considered eccentric by his neighbors, and no one in the house knew very much about him personally. Michael Toohey, husband of the landlady of the house, told the police that early yesterday morning he found a stranger asleep in the hall near the door of Keys's room and that he ejected him. There were bloodstains on the wall of Keys's room, and finger-print experts from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation are trying to get an impression of the marks.

Mr. WINSTON CHURCHILL'S New Novel

THE INSIDE OF THE CUP

OPINIONS OF LEADING REVIEWERS:

"A novel which ought to arouse as much comment as 'Robert Elsemere' did twenty-five years ago. The story is told with far greater skill than Mrs. Ward showed in 'Robert Elsemere' or its successors....There is a love story, which is extremely well told, and there are fine characterizations, notably that of Eldon Parr, the big financier. He will stand with Jethro Bass, the political boss in 'Coniston,' as a proof of Mr. Churchill's power to seize and portray realities."—Brooklyn Eagle.

"Much reflection has gone to the writing of this novel, much observation of present-day conditions and tendencies. The author's exposition is admirably well done....The story is in direct touch with most of the questions of the hour. Mr. Churchill's most ambitious and most sincere work, most readable withal, a 'best seller' no doubt, and one that will fully deserve its popularity, however great that may prove to be."—New York Tribune.

"A love romance in which are the beauty and dignity of a true mating....The portrait of Horace Bentley is one of the fine things for which we must thank Mr. Churchill very much....'The Inside of the Cup' should bring fresh dignity and importance to the Summer's discussion of matters literary. To the vitality of its message, of course, no season places a bound."—New York World.

"A book tremendously in earnest, stamped with the zeal of a man who is setting forth in it truths of the greatest significance to his fellow-men....The stage setting and the actors are typical of our American present-day civilization. They strike true of our well-to-do society in any of our large cities. Those who are interested in present-day currents of thought will read this book with profound interest and will be thankful that Mr. Churchill was moved to write it."—New York Times.

BURGLARY FRAME-UP LAID TO DOUGHERTY

Curran Has a Witness to Say Deputy Commissioner Got Him to Have Feather Store Looted

AND SLEUTHS WERE THERE

Malice and Lies, Says Dougherty, and Report of "Politicians"—Hasn't Tried to Fight Them.

Section 3 of the final report of the Curran Aldermanic Police Investigating Committee was made public yesterday by Chairman Henry H. Curran, without having been approved by a majority of the committee. As was the case with the second section, no quorum could be assembled to pass on the section, the Tammany members having purposely absented themselves. This section appeared in two parts, the first leveled in great part against Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty and charging that the Detective Bureau, of which he is the active head, is "inefficient," the second part dealing largely with the Surgical Bureau and advocating radical changes.

This section of the report, it appears, would have been passed had one of the Fusion members of the committee, Alderman Esterbrook, not been obliged to remain at home with a sore throat. Alderman Shipley, one of the two men who voted with the Tammany group on Monday, turned up at yesterday's meeting. He approved the report. With Aldermen Curran, Folks, Hamilton and Shipley, however, there was still one missing to make the necessary quorum. Mr. Curran expressed the belief that he would have enough "loyal" members on hand this morning for the passing of Section 4 of the report, which, he said, contained constructive suggestions for the reorganization of the entire Police Department.

Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty came in for a scorching in connection with Section 3 in the testimony before the committee of Benjamin Levy, a police stool pigeon, who told the investigators that at the request of officials in the Detective Bureau he had often induced criminals to commit "framed-up" burglaries in order that the detectives might catch the burglars red-handed. The report has this to say about "corruption in the Detective Bureau":

"That an alliance exists between some detectives and criminals, as a result of which the spoils of crime are divided, and that detectives often inspire the commission of crime to make arrests, have been proved to our satisfaction." In proof this is submitted:

"Benjamin Levy, who had never been convicted of a crime, testified before us that at the request of officials in the Detective Bureau he had often induced criminals to commit burglary in order that they might be arrested. He narrated one such instance in detail, in which he was strongly corroborated by reputable citizens, including an official of an insurance company, a merchant, and others.

Money for Burglars' Tools.

"Levy testified that in this case Deputy Commissioner Dougherty, in charge of the Detective Bureau, gave him $25 with which to purchase burglars' tools, and after he succeeded in the burglary paid him $75 for his 'services.' City vouchers for these amounts in Levy's favor were found in the Controller's office.

"Under the direction of detectives Levy took the three criminals wanted to a loft adjoining his father's store, where the burglary was committed, with a squad of detectives waiting near by. These detectives arrested the criminals as they walked out of the building, and took from them $3,500 worth of ostrich feathers which they had just stolen. There was not the slightest opportunity for them to make away with any of the property.

"After locking up the prisoners at the station house, the officers returned to the premises. Levy stated that in his presence they took a quantity of feathers. The owner recovered the goods stolen by the criminals, but the property taken by the detectives was never seen again. Although the immediate arrest of the criminals resulted in a complete recovery from them of the stolen property, the owner suffered a loss of $1,500, which was paid by an insurance company with which he carried a policy against burglary. The owner also testified before us that the detective in charge of this arrest exacted from him $175 in the back room of a saloon as a 'reward for bravery.'

"Deputy Commissioner Dougherty and others involved were subpoenaed by us and asked to waive immunity before giving their testimony. This they refused, with one exception, and they were not interrogated. Notwithstanding the shocking nature of this testimony and the corroboration received, the Commissioner has taken no action whatever in the premises. It is not surprising that under such lax discipline some detectives turn thieves."

The Burglary Committed.

The burglary to which the stool pigeon Levy referred was committed in the loft building at 781 Broadway, Levy having effected an entrance through 779 Broadway, where his father maintained an establishment. Levy's associates, Joseph Goldstein, Morris Fishman, and Louis Kessler, whom he induced to attempt the burglary, were the victims of five detectives of the Mercer Street Station, who waited on the sidewalk. Levy escaped their clutches, according to the police report. All of the burglars were convicted, and Goldstein, when called before the Curran Committee, testified that Detective John Glynn had called on him in the Tombs and had asked him to say in court that Levy had got away in the scrimmage. The owner of the feather loft and the loser of the stolen goods was Harry Sipara.

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty was enraged over the accusations of the Curran Committee, and denounced their report as that of "politicians." He said:

"The bulletin on the Detective Bureau, issued by the Committee of Aldermen, is a sample of malice and lies, worthy of the trade talent of a professional crook. The Aldermen have lined up convicted thieves on their side against the word of hardworking, honest detectives. It is too absurd to discuss in detail, and, besides, I haven't time to fight with politicians. The accusations against the detectives made by Benjamin Levy and others were presented to the District Attorney by me to act upon as he saw fit. If there was anything irregular in the information imparted to me by Levy, would the bills for his services have been sent in the regular way to the Controller's office?"

Changes Recommended.

In the list of recommendations it is urged that detectives should be chosen only for detective skill, and that assignment of men to the bureau for personal bravery or because of favoritism should be stopped; that the Homicide Squad abolished by Commissioner Baker and the Italian and Pickpocket Squads abolished by Commissioner Waldo should be re-established, that there should be a Headquarters Squad of detectives as well as the various precinct squads; that photographs and identification records should be made of all persons charged with felony who have been held by a Magistrate for action by the Grand Jury; that the "line-up" of prisoners at Headquarters should be re-established. It is also said that there must be a thorough overhauling of the system of reports and records in the Detective Bureau "before any permanent improvement in the bureau's work can be expected."

The other part of the report, dealing with the Surgical and other bureaus, recommends: That police surgeons should be required to give all their time to police duties and not be permitted to engage in private practice, and that their salaries should be increased if not deemed sufficient to attract competent men.

It is also recommended that the law providing that the Police Commissioner may assign officers to assist the Department of Bridges in its work be repealed; that the Tenement House, Health Department, and Boiler Squads of the Police Department be abolished, and that the Central Office Squad, which comprises the policemen attached to the Inspectors, the members of the special squads attached to the Police Commissioner, the Bureau of Repairs and Supplies, the School for Recruits, the Telegraph Bureau, the property clerk's office, the clerical staff of the department, the policemen assigned to the various public offices of the city, as well as messengers, custodians, and chauffeurs, be under the control of a civilian with business experience, instead of a police officer. Civilian employes, it is also recommended, should supplant policemen as chauffeurs, messengers, telegraph operators, and office clerks.

"Increased efficiency at less cost and a continuity in administration," the report observes, "would thus be secured."

MORE LAND FOR MT. SINAI.

Trustees Buy Two Flathouses in 99th Street for New Buildings.

To make room for the erection of several additional buildings for Mt. Sinai Hospital, the cost of which is to be defrayed by Adolph Lewisohn, the banker, the Trustees yesterday bought two five-story flat houses at 21 and 23 East Ninety-ninth Street from Max S. Korn. The hospital, with this property, has control of the block bounded by Fifth and Madison Avenues and Ninety-ninth and 100th Streets, with the exception of the Madison Avenue corner and the south corner on Fifth Avenue. The hospital now has a frontage of 125 feet in Ninety-ninth Street, 100.11 feet in Fifth Avenue, and 200 feet in 100th Street.

The buildings the Trustees have planned to erect are a pathological laboratory, a dispensary for children, a children's hospital, and a special clinical building. Designs for the new buildings, which are being prepared by Arthur W. Brunner, will probably be ready some time this Summer. The buildings will be connected with the old buildings by a tunnel.

CALLS LITTMAN INQUIRY.

Sulzer Orders Complaint of Racial Discrimination Investigated.

Gov. Sulzer notified Municipal Court Justice Leon Sanders yesterday that he had requested Attorney General Carmody to investigate the complaint of Samuel Littman, a lawyer, of 1,150 De Kalb Avenue, Brooklyn, that Col. Henry C. Barthman of the Forty-seventh Regiment of the National Guard, had denied him a chance of promotion from the rank of First Sergeant to that of Second Lieutenant on racial grounds. The case will have a hearing on June 19.

The Independent Order of Brith Abraham, of which Justice Sanders is Grand Master, at a convention held in this city, passed resolutions calling upon the Governor to investigate the case. Mr. Littman had been a member of the National Guard for eight years, but resigned from the regiment last February when he was denied promotion.

CONVICT DOWS; SUSPEND SENTENCE

SENTENCE HANGS OVER HIM

Defendant Had a Group of Character Witnesses, but Only Frank H. Platt Was Heard.

Accompanied by his lawyers and friends and a small company of character witnesses, David Dows went to the Court of Special Sessions yesterday morning to stand trial on the charge of having assaulted Alva Johnston, a reporter for THE NEW YORK TIMES. After he and Mr. Johnston had testified the Justices found the defendant guilty and suspended sentence.

The specific charge was assault in the third degree, a misdemeanor, and as such punishable by a penalty ranging to a maximum of one year's imprisonment and the payment of a $500 fine. By suspending sentence the court gave Dows his release subject to his good behavior during the year to which, within its discretion, it might have sentenced him.

It was by way of opening the case for the defense that Lawyer James R. Ely started to marshal the character witnesses. Of these, four were waiting to testify, and prominent among them were Frank H. Platt, son of the late Senator Platt, and Ogden Mills Reid, son of the late Whitelaw Reid.

Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith protested against the use of the court's time for such testimony, and expressed his willingness to concede anything they might say.

"I wish to show by them," said Mr. Ely, "that Mr. Dows is a peaceful and quiet man."

"Oh, I will concede that. He simply got a little excited this one night, that was all," Mr. Smith put in.

"Oh, no, he didn't get excited at all," Mr. Ely protested. "The whole thing was a joke."

Mr. Ely was then allowed to swear one character witness and Mr. Platt was selected. He testified that Mr. Dows's reputation for peace and quiet was good. He also said that his reputation for truth and veracity was good, and that ended the character testimony.

The trial began shortly after Justice Zeller took the place of Presiding Justice and Justices Deuel and McInerney took their seats beside him. When the case was called Mr. Johnston, the complainant, took the stand.

Under direct examination by Mr. Smith, Mr. Johnston told how, by direction of the city editor, on the night of March 22 he had called Mr. Dows by telephone just before midnight to ask him about a report that he had ridden the trick mule that evening at the Barnum & Bailey Circus in Madison Square Garden; how Mr. Dows himself had said that if THE NEW YORK TIMES wanted to see him about anything it would have to send a man to his house, as he would not talk over the telephone, and how, shortly after midnight, he had gone to the Dows house at 121 East Seventieth Street, where his rings at the doorbell were finally answered by the appearance of Mr. Dows's head at a window, and his admission to the house. There a blanket was suddenly dropped over his head, while two men pinioned his arms, carried him to a rear courtyard, and dropped him there. He told of his efforts to climb out, of the appearance of suspicious heads at various windows of the neighboring houses, and of his release, after a half hour of this, by two private patrolmen. He then told how Mr. Dows had directed the patrolmen to "take him down to the station."

On cross-examination Mr. Ely brought forth the fact that in departing Mr. Johnston had said, "It's a shame to have put you to so much trouble," but the witness was not allowed to tell in what tone he had delivered this parting shot. Mr. Ely also brought in the letter of apology written by Mr. Dows and sent to Mr. Johnston seven days after the assault and after Mr. Johnston, through his lawyers, Jerome, Rand & Kresel, had made application before Magistrate Murphy for a warrant.

After guiding the witness over the story as far as the back yard, Mr. Ely asked:

"And they laid you on the ground?"

"They dropped me."

"But you weren't hurt, were you?"

"Not physically."

Mr. Dows was the chief witness for himself. He was dressed in black and wore a tea-rose in his buttonhole. He told what the circus mule did to him, and said that after his appearance in the ring he was approached three times by a man who vainly sought an interview but who was not identified. He and Mrs. Dows had then gone home, reaching there by 11 o'clock.

"And you had retired by 11:05?" asked Mr. Ely.

"Well, it was probably 11:15."

From then on, he said, eight times, at intervals of three or four minutes, the telephone rang with various queries and requests for interviews. In each case Mr. Dows declined. The eighth call was from Mr. Johnston. Their testimony agreed as to the conversation. It differed in interpretation. Mr. Dows said he neither invited nor expected Mr. Johnston to call, and, so believing, he had gone back to bed when the doorbell rang.

Mr. Ely tried to bring out that Mr. Johnston had even gone into the house uninvited, but here Justice Zeller brought out that Mr. Dows had seen Mr. Johnston from the window, had heard him say he was from THE TIMES, had known who he was, had opened the door for him, and had let him enter.

It was also brought out that Mr. Dows's assistant in the assault was his butler, whom he had met on the stairs as both were descending in response to the ring of the doorbell.

"Who suggested getting the blanket?" asked Mr. Smith.

But the answer to this question was excluded in response to a vigorous objection from Mr. Ely.

"We wrapped him up," Mr. Dows went on, "put him on the pavement, left him there a half hour, and then let him out."

That ended the case for the defense, and without any hesitation, Justice Zeller immediately said:

"Convicted, sentence suspended."

"What!" exclaimed Mr. Ely in a tone of genuine surprise. "Why, if the court please, this was all a joke!"

"No, it was a serious matter," Justice Zeller said. "There really should have been a civil action. Sentence suspended." And with that Mr. Dows, Mr. Ely, Mr. Dows's friends, and his character witnesses, hurried out of court.

Mr. Dows was a member of the class of 1908 at the Sheffield Scientific School at Yale. He is a member of many clubs, among them the Ardsley, the Rumson Country Club, the Riding Club, the Racquet and Tennis, the Meadow Brook, and the New York Yacht. Mrs. Dows was Gwendolyn Burden.

GOODALE FRIGHTENS WOMEN

Palisades Aviator Swoops Close to Hotel Astor Roof.

Frank Goodale, the aviator of Palisades Park, flew across the Hudson last evening in the dirigible balloon Palisade on his third flight this season. Palisades Park is on the New Jersey side of the river, opposite 129th Street. Goodale flew across diagonally, reaching New York at Seventy-second Street. Then he steered his balloon downtown.

Several hundred women attending the annual Summer reception of the New York Federation of Women's Clubs on the Hotel Astor roof saw the large dirigible a hundred and fifty feet above their heads. Goodale circled about the Times Building and flew uptown over Times Square until he had reached Fiftieth Street, when he turned again and flew downtown.

Directly above the Astor roof the machine took a sudden dip, coming so close to the women that they could see Goodale's face. Many screamed, fearing that the balloon would strike them.

Returning uptown the Palisade made good progress until it reached the Empire Hotel, where a gust of wind struck the balloon, sending it downward at an angle of 45 degrees. Goodale thought the bag had burst, and was about to leap to the hotel roof, when another current struck him carrying him upward. He regained control of the balloon, and returned to Palisades Park in safety. Thousands of people witnessed the flight.

PRINTER, ACCUSED BURGLAR

Walter Milward, a printer, who gives his address as 2,474 Eighth Avenue, was arrested last night as the supposed leader of the gang who have been robbing apartment houses on the upper west side and Harlem. He was locked up in the West 100th Street station charged with acting in concert with James Bentz, Frank Brandia and May Walsh in burglarizing the apartment of a man named Gibson in the Hoffman Arms apartment house, Fifty-ninth Street and Madison Avenue, on May 5.

Property valued at $1,000 was taken. Bentz, Brandia and the young woman are held in $2,500 bail for examination in the West Side Court next Monday. They were arrested Wednesday night.

Detectives Donnelly, L'Heureud, and Quinn say the gang perpetrated many burglaries by working as awning hangers.

CHAUFFEURS' NAMES ALIKE.

Man Who Kills a Boy and One Who Hits a Car Both Known as "West."

At 6 o'clock last night an automobile bound up the grade in Amsterdam Avenue, above Manhattan Street, struck Peter Dobbs, Jr., 7 years old, of 524 West 133d Street as the lad ran out in front of the motor at 132d Street. The boy died an hour later in the J. Hood Wright Hospital. The man who drove the auto, who was not held by the police, said he was William H. West of 76 West Sixty-ninth Street, and that he was a demonstrator for the Republic Motorcar Company of Fifty-seventh Street and Seventh Avenue. The police got the names of two men who were in the auto as Joseph E. Ward of 296 Manhattan Street and Charles Welch of Rochelle Park, New Rochelle.

At 10 o'clock last night a report came to Police Headquarters from the sparsely settled region of Pelham Parkway and City Island Road that an automobile had run into one of the monorail cars crossing Pelham Parkway, throwing out all the passengers in the auto and injuring two of the passengers in the monorail car.

In this accident the name of the driver of the automobile was given as Walter West of 76 West Sixty-ninth Street, a demonstrator for the Liberty Motorcar Company at Fifty-seventh Street and Eleventh Avenue. The police learned when they arrived that a man and woman, whose names they got as "Mr. and Mrs. Way," had been injured in the accident.

Crossing First Avenue at Seventieth Street, yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Minnie Goldberg of 61 Bayard Street was struck and knocked down by an automobile owned and driven by Frank Timmers of 681 Dawson Street, the Bronx. The woman was taken to the Reception Hospital at Seventieth Street and East River, where it was found she was suffering from a fracture of the skull and possible internal injuries. No arrest was made.

SEARCH HAPGOOD HOUSE.

Burglar Alarm Warns of Intruders, but None Is Found.

The electric burglar alarm in the office of the Holmes Protective Agency indicated late last night that the rear parlor window of the home of Norman Hapgood, the editor, at 170 East Seventy-third Street, was being opened. Two men were sent there, and on the way they picked up four policemen from the East Sixty-seventh Street Station.

They found the house closed, but aroused the caretaker, Michael McGarry, who had heard nothing of burglars. The police searched the house before they were convinced no intruder was present. The Hapgood family are away for the Summer, but it was understood Mr. Hapgood was in town last night, although he was not at his home.

FOUGHT HUGE RATS IN THE SOUTH SEAS

Hunt Now Warns Travelers Not to Camp Near Maori Cemeteries.

PISTOL DROVE THEM AWAY

John Hunt unfolded himself from a sofa at the Imperial yesterday, and when his head had almost touched the seven-foot notch on the wall admitted his identity and said he was from Lillooet, British Columbia. If you don't know where Lillooet is it will be found on the map some seventy-five miles north of Vancouver when the Grand Trunk gets through building a branch line in that direction. Uncertainty as to Lillooet's whereabouts need puzzle one no more than six months, according to Mr. Hunt.

Originating in Ireland, Mr. Hunt first reached these shores by way of Australia, and after trying various mining camps in the Southwest decided he would plant himself in an unknown wild and let the country grow up to him. He has been four years in Lillooet, sitting on a bed of hematite ore and other minerals, cultivating amicable relations with the Siwash Indians, and lending them tobacco, but existence has not always been characterized for Mr. Hunt by such monotony. For instance, he was once a member of a Swiss family Robinson that was wrecked on Christmas Island in the Pacific. Again, he had a narrow escape from being eaten by rats in New Zealand. The chronicling of these two incidents may serve to demonstrate that Mr. Hunt's life hitherto has not been without a dash of adventure.

"I was in the good ship Aeon," said Mr. Hunt yesterday, pausing in a recital of the tremendous attractions of wild life in Lillooet. "She was a cargo and passenger steamer. It was during the Summer of 1908 that we cleared away from Frisco, bound for New Zealand. We had been out about eight days. How the trouble happened nobody knew.

Tides Covered Islands.

"The explanation given was that the tides in the Pacific were so high at that time that they covered the lower portion of a great many islands in the latitudes where we were. Anyhow, at daybreak on the last day we suddenly piled up on the shore of Christmas Island. There was nothing to do but go ashore. The Captain had tried full speed ahead and full speed astern. He had run out his anchor and tried to slew her bow or her stern to one side by means of the steam winches, but that craft wouldn't budge.

"Fortunately the weather was perfectly calm. There was no need to make rafts; they just put us into the lifeboats, hitched us on to the steam launch, and towed us to the beach. It was easy to get supplies from the steamer, and the only trouble we had was from our Chinese crew, who became very much discontented at being confined to a barren island which boasted neither a fan tan table nor a hop joint, and on them we had to keep a sharp lookout.

"There was only one woman in our party. She had started for Samoa to join her husband. Unfortunately, we had no doctor on board, but her baby was born on Christmas Island and christened 'Christmas.' We made tents out of awnings and there were no hardships to be endured. It was most fortunate that the weather was good, for that enabled the Captain of the ship to make a trip in the launch to Fanning Island, where he got a steamer and was back putting us on board her in six days.

"Now the most remarkable thing about that shipwreck is the way the Aeon disappeared. When we reached Auckland, New Zealand, a local firm bought the wreck on a speculation and fitted out a schooner and sent her up to collect the junk. We had left the Aeon apparently in fine condition, except for the hole in her bottom. She was half filled with water, but it would have taken a tremendous blow to have got her away from her berth. However, when the Auckland schooner reached Christmas Island not a trace of the ship could be found. The only theory advanced to account for her disappearance was that a bunch of San Francisco beach combers had visited the spot, stripped the steamer, and blown up the wreck.

Got Too Near a Cemetery.

"I had one of the most curious experiences in my life during that trip to New Zealand," said Mr. Hunt, just before starting out to put an ad in the papers notifying New York that he was here. "I had gone way up into New Zealand prospecting. I had got to a mountain, on the other side of which was the Maori village named Awuina, which had been deserted many years before. I got half way up the mountain, but turned back when I found I could not make the distance, and the most suitable location for a camp I could find was about two hundred yards from an old Maori cemetery. I was on horseback, and had a dog with me. Having tethered my horse and rigged up a little tent, I made my fire and cooked my supper. Then I lay down to sleep.

"Well, Sir, I had no sooner closed my eyes than I felt something hairy brush across my face, and at the same instant living things began to chase over my body. I started up, and in the act shook off from my chest a gigantic rat. The inside of the tent swarmed with them, and they were the boldest rats I ever saw. I had to kick my way through them. Outside I saw my dog, but he had his tail between his legs, and was chasing back upon the road we had come; and for all I know he is running still. In every direction as far as I could see the ground was covered with rats. For a moment I felt something akin to terror. Then I remembered my six-shooter, and pulled it out. It took a dozen shots to clear the neighborhood of my tent of those rats. I came near sitting up all night, but I was pretty tired, so finally I built a big fire just in front of the tent and lay down again. Those rats had come from the cemetery. It is the Maori custom not to bury the bodies of their dead, but to lay them out on the ground in tiny houses. My experience with the rats was simply due to the fact that they had mistaken my tent and myself for new additions to the cemetery."

PUBLISHERS PUT ON TRIAL.

Promoters of Columbian-Sterling Company Charged with Fraud.

In a short session of the trial before Judge Mayer in the Federal District Court yesterday of Frank Orff, E. B. Yates, John F. B. Atkin, and Lee Sidwell, for the use of the mails to defraud in connection with the sale of the stock of the Columbian-Sterling Publishing Company, the Government put in evidence the articles of incorporation of the concerns which were merged in the Columbian-Sterling Company.

The prosecution read to the jury the charters of Hampton's Magazine, Incorporated, and the Broadway Magazine, Incorporated, which were bought by the Columbian-Sterling Publishing Company from Benjamin Hampton, as well as the charters of the Western Magazine Publishing Company of Missouri, the Western Magazine Publishing Company of Delaware, and the Columbian Magazine Company, which were merged in the Columbian-Sterling concern.

The Government then called Charles H. Dette, cashier of the St. Louis Newspaper Company, a distributing agency, to prove that after the merger had taken place the number of magazines sent to him decreased. A. R. Foote, a public accountant, said that as auditor for the Columbian Magazine Publishing Company and the Columbian-Sterling Company he had received orders from Orff and Sidwell. Yates, he explained, was in charge of the marketing of the stock, Orff and Sidwell were officers of the company and Atkins was adviser to Orff. He had been employed by J. Brinton Haynes, he said. Haynes, who is thought to be in London, is charged with being the moving spirit in the alleged conspiracy.

DENY TEACHERS SENT ILLITERATE NOTES

MAXWELL TO INVESTIGATE

Friends of Superintendent Think His Opposition to Bills Favored Inspired Attack.

The controversy over the publication of a series of letters intended to prove that many of the teachers in the public schools could not spell simple words correctly was enlivened yesterday by the discovery that one of the letters produced as evidence was written by a cleaner employed in School 33. It was shown that another letter cited as an example of illiteracy was written by a man employed to lecture in Italian on telephony and wireless telegraphy.

After these facts were ascertained Supt. of Schools W. H. Maxwell wrote to Controller Prendergast, head of the committee which is investigating the public schools for the Board of Estimate, asking permission for Associate Supt. Clarence E. Meleney to examine all of the letters which have been published or referred to in any way in connection with the charges against the teaching system. The Superintendent did not attempt to conceal his annoyance over the charges yesterday.

The Superintendent said he understood that the letters which have been so widely quoted were given out to the newspapers by L. B. Blan, publicity agent for the committee, who has been retained to get out the Hanus report in book form. When he was asked if he could give any explanation for their publication at this time by Mr. Blan Dr. Maxwell replied that he could not, unless malice was involved or Mr. Blan was looking for notoriety.

Supt. Maxwell enlarged yesterday upon his statement of Thursday by saying that none of the regular teachers on his staff had occasion to write to the City Paymaster, from whose files the illiterate letters were obtained.

"Any protest they had to make would be made to our Auditor," he said. "These charges are absolutely unfair and unfounded," he continued. "I will have a further statement to make in a few days, after Mr. Meleney has examined the letters and reported to me. Until that time I cannot say more about the letters quoted. I can only say that the statement that a substantial per cent. of the teachers cannot spell simple words correctly is ridiculous and that the investigation will prove what I say now to be true."

In the information given to the newspapers in connection with the letters it was said that they were "filed in one month." This was said yesterday to be untrue, as the letters had been taken from the files of the Paymaster's office from 1908 to 1913.

Dr. George J. Smith of the Board of Examiners said yesterday that his board had been in charge of the selection of teachers only since the consolidation of the city into five boroughs in 1898. At that time all teachers doing duty anywhere in the city limits were retained. That might account for the fact that some who were poor spellers were accepted by the department, he said. In this connection he mentioned one of the letters quoted, the only one, he said, which seemed to him to come from a regular teacher.

"It expressly states," said Dr. Smith, "that the writer is a teacher in Queens. If that teacher is one of those admitted to the system before 1898 he or she has never come before the board at all unless for an examination for a higher license."

President John Purroy Mitchel of the Aldermen denied yesterday that the special committee of the Board of Estimate which investigated the public schools, and of which he was Chairman until he was made Collector of the Port, when Controller Prendergast took his place, had anything to do with the sending out of the report that many school teachers in the city were illiterate.

PUTNAM'S NEW BOOKS

The Thunderland Lady

By ANNA FULLER

Author of "Pratt Portraits," etc., and BRIAN REED.

"Wanted: By a Harvard Graduate, a permanent position as husband, carefully trained by an anxious mother, and used to feminine domination."

So begins a clipping from The Boston Herald, written in jest, and printed from bravado, which elicits a reply from a chance reader, and results in the correspondence that forms the substance of this volume. From mock seriousness the writers drift off into more or less casual chat upon books and people, illumined from time to time with a touch of romance. The whole forms a bit of light reading which should appeal in equal measure to the thoughtful and frivolous.

An Unknown Lover

By MRS. GEORGE DE HORNE VAIZEY

12°. $1.35 net. By mail, $1.50.

A charming love story. It moves rapidly, and at no point does it fail to hold the reader's attention and interest, from the first description of the rather dismal home to the last picture in India, whence comes the "Unknown Lover." Her characters are convincing and lovable; her descriptions facile and clear; her situations real, and her theme of setting delightfully unusual.

Sunia

A Himalayan Idyll; and Other Stories.

By MAUD DIVER,

Author of "Captain Desmond, V. C.," "The Hero of Herat," etc.

12°. $1.25 net. By mail, $1.40.

Maud Diver's charming story of India derives its dramatic power from the national prejudice, the bar of race that keeps the East and West apart, and yet is not proof against the appeal of sex. The deep, active, persistent heritage of Eastern tradition, ineradicable even under English rule, gives a quaint charm and picturesque quality to the pages of the volume which, in the form of dramatic incidents from the lives of those affected, presents the grafting of one civilization upon another and the inevitable contrasts that result.

Ellen Key

Her Life and Her Work. A Critical Study.

By LOUISE NYSTROM HAMILTON

Translated by Anna E. B. Fries.

12°. With Portrait. $1.25 net. By mail $1.40

The name of Ellen Key has for years been a target for attacks of various kinds. The author is one who has been intimate with Ellen Key since her youth. She is herself the wife of the founder of the People's Hospital in Stockholm, where for over twenty years Ellen Key taught and lectured. The volume should be of special interest to the thousands of readers of Ellen Key's works who desire to know the truth about this much discussed Swedish author.

GOVERNOR ASSERTS VOTE IS BEHIND HIM

State-Wide Direct Primaries Demanded, He Says, by the Public.

CITES ACTION ON SENATORS

Special to The New York Times.

CATSKILL, June 6.—Expected to arrive at Catskill Point via the east shore of the Hudson in an automobile at 6 o'clock this evening, Gov. Sulzer and the members of his party reached Catskill at 8. Crowds from the surrounding country in autos made the principal street of the village look like that of a busy city. Two hundred members of the Good Roads Club of Hunter, to show their appreciation of the Governor's action in signing last week the bill appropriating $190,000 for the construction of a road through the Palenville Clove, waited in the opera house, listening to the Tannersville Band, which they had brought.

Owing to an accident to the axle of his automobile on the way from Albany, the Governor had to ride in the newspaper men's car which caused the delay. The mishap occurred four miles south of Nassau, in Columbia County. Half of the Governor's party was left behind and had to telephone to Albany for another machine.

The crowd was so large here that Mr. Sulzer had to address an overfloow meeting following the regular one. Those who spoke in addition to the Governor were John N. Carlisle, State Commissioner of Highways; John K. Sague, ex-Mayor of Poughkeepsie, and Daniel D. Frisbie, ex-Speaker of the Assembly.

It was after 8:30 when the Governor reached the opera house, which was jammed to the doors. More than 1,000 persons waited outside. His reception was cordial. It was said, however, that it was more a result of the signing of the Patrie Road bill than because of interest in direct primaries, which, it was asserted, did not meet the approval of the people of Greene County.

The Governor was introduced by Michael Lackay of Tannersville, Chairman. Mr. Sulzer said in part:

"I firmly believe that the enactment into law of a State-wide direct primary bill, along the lines of the measure we prepared and introduced in the Legislature, would accomplish what the voters of our State desire. The changes we advocate are in harmony with the spirit of the times, and would strengthen democratic institutions. They aim to restore to the people the rights which have been usurped by the few for the benefit of invisible powers, and seeking to control governmental officials, to pass laws, to prevent the passage of other laws, and to violate laws with impunity. No Government can be free that does not permit all its citizens to participate in the formation as well as the execution of its laws.

"There are only two kinds of primaries—direct and indirect. The indirect kind constitutes the reactionary delegate system; the direct kind constitutes the people's progressive system. One is the kind the bosses like; the other is the kind the people want. I am for the direct system. I want the people to nominate because I want the people to rule. The power to nominate is the power to control. To have direct primaries and also State conventions is impossible. Direct primaries have been devised to permit the people to nominate their officers directly, without the intermediary of delegates, and as of course you cannot have State conventions without delegates, it follows that State conventions must go and honest direct primaries must come.

"The Democratic platform declared for State-wide direct primaries. The Electors understand the words 'State-wide direct primaries' to mean direct primaries applied to the nomination of all officers.

"The adoption of State-wide direct primaries and the abolition of conventions in no sense are an abandonment of the principle of representative government, but, on the contrary, are a protest against the perversion of representative government. Representative government is made actual only when the power to nominate candidates is taken away from the bosses and restored to the voters.

"That the people of our State are determined to have no irresponsible intermediary between themselves and their public servants has been shown by the adoption in New York of the Seventeenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution under which the people have assumed the right to elect United States Senators directly. All the arguments now used against the abolition of conventions have been used in opposition to the direct election of United States Senators. It is self-evident to me that if the people are capable of electing directly their public officials they are just as competent to nominate these officials directly.

"If it is important for minor officers to be nominated by the people it is still more important, it seems to me, that to the people be given the power to nominate candidates for United States Senator and for Governor. Boss Tweed used to say that he cared not who elected the officials so long as he could nominate them. Do you know why? Because the power to nominate those officials is the power to control them when they go into office. Of course every political boss in the State is against direct primaries. Why expect a boss to be otherwise?

"Tweed challenged the right of the people to govern themselves. He asserted that was his business. He defied the voters and propounded the famous inquiry 'What are you going to do about it?' You know what the people did about it. Have the little Boss Tweeds so soon forgotten the tragic end of Big Boss Tweed?

"The voters now must see that the men they elected to the Senate and the Assembly keep their promises and in the extra session vote for our Direct Primary bill. Instruct your representatives in the Legislature what your wishes are and rest assured they will not dare to cheat you again. If the voters in each Assembly and Senate district will do their duty a Direct Primary bill will be passed in the extra session.

"I consider that our 'State-wide' Direct Primary bill is an absolute non-partisan measure which reproduces and will carry into practice the pledges of the three great political parties concerned in the last State election. Those who subvert the Government to their personal advantage have found their greatest opportunities to do so through manipulation of our political conventions. It must cease or our free institutions are doomed."

Celebrates Its 69th Anniversary—Growth in Ten Years.

The sixty-ninth anniversary of the founding of the first Young Men's Christian Association was observed by associations all over the world yesterday. The founder later in life was known as Sir George Williams. At the noon prayer meetings in all the association buildings in New York yesterday mention was made of the date. There were formal exercises at the International Committee Building in Twenty-eighth Street, and last night a dinner was given. The London Association, founded by Williams, was soon followed by an association in Montreal, and a little later by one in Boston.

In a formal statement issued yesterday by the New York Associations statistics were given. There are now in all 8,584 associations, of which about one-quarter are in the United States. The money value of buildings is more than $100,000,000. Association land and buildings in the United States alone are valued at $76,000,000. The membership is 587,600 in North America and 936,100 in all the world. In the last ten years the membership has doubled.

AUTO TOWS ARE DANGEROUS

First Motor Should Display Warning Signals, Court Holds.

"The practice of having one motor car tow another disabled car in this city is dangerous to human life," Supreme Court Justice Delany said yesterday. "There ought to be some method of requiring the first motor car to carry a signal that another is following not under its own power, such as is in vogue in marine circles. Under the marine regulations, a vessel with other vessels in tow is required to display signals to warn other craft that the tows are following, in order to prevent accidents."

Justice Delany made this statement from the bench after a jury had brought in a verdict for $7,500 in favor of the widow and son of Frank Stantmeister, formerly valet to Robert Varnum of this city. Stantmeister was killed on Nov. 13, 1911. He attempted to cross Sixth Avenue at Thirty-seventh Street behind an auto truck of the Adams Express Company which was towing another motor truck of the same concern. He tripped over the tow rope and was crushed to death by the second truck. Edward F. Lindsay of the law firm of Bouvier & Dugro represented Mr. Varnum, who sued as the executor of Stantmeister's estate.

Appellate Division Insists That Lawyers Shall Come Properly Accredited

The Appellate Division handed down an opinion yesterday calling attention to the fact that the mere passage of bar examinations and the absence of any positive affirmative charge against a candidate does not entitle him to admission to the bar as a practicing attorney. The court laid down the rule that before admission a candidate must not only show that there is no charge against him, but must convince the court that he possesses the character and general fitness requisite to the practice of his profession.

The opinion was rendered in denying the application of Mark L. Knapp for admission to the bar. Knapp had been refused admission because he had failed to produce the kind of proof required by the court. Many candidates for admission have asserted that the requirement of the court that they procure the indorsement of an attorney known to a Justice of the Appellate Division bench is a hardship.

LAWYER NEWELL DISBARRED

Man Who Conspired to Keep Sipp Away Held to be Unfit to Practice.

Edward J. Newell, the lawyer who escaped punishment by testifying against ex-Police Inspectors Sweeney, Murtha, Thompson, and Hussey, who were convicted of conspiring with him to obstruct justice by keeping George Sipp, a resort keeper in Harlem, out of the city, was disbarred yesterday by the Appellate Division. Newell confessed to his part in the conspiracy, and Justice Seabury released him under a suspended sentence. In disbarring Newell, Justice Ingraham, the Presiding Justice of the Appellate Division, said:

"A plea of guilty is conclusive evidence of his guilt, and having pleaded guilty to such a charge no further evidence is required to show that he is not a fit person to remain a member of the profession."

COAST ARTILLERY OUT ON LONG HIKE

Col. Cronkhite's Force to Roam Long Island in Infantry Work Until June 22.

LAND OWNERS AID WORK

Officers Express Appreciation of Willingness with Which Grounds Are Loaned for Manoeuvres.

Col. A. Cronkhite of the Coast Artillery Corps of the defenses of Eastern New York, with 600 men, broke camp on the Hempstead Plains this morning, on his way back to Fort Totten to reprovision before starting out again on his annual work of instruction in infantry field work. The men will be out until June 22.

Tents were pitched on the plains near the old country road between Mineola and Westbury, the site of old Camp Black during Spanish-American war days. The men, who had come from camp at Laurelton, L. I., marching the distance of twelve miles in four hours, were all in good shape, according to Capt. Philip Huntington, head of the Medical Corps. With the exception of about 150 cases of blistered feet, not one of them was the worse for the tramp.

For the field exercises on the plains, the First and Second Battalions were respectively invading and defending forces. The invading force, the Second Battalion, was known as the Reds, and was in command of Capt. E. R. Tilton. Word was received by the Blues, the First Battalion, commanded by Capt. P. P. Bishop, who was in possession of the field, that this invading force was approaching from the south and east. Manoeuvring skillfully, the Blues worked their way from the northeast, taking advantage of the protecting cover offered in the Wheatley Hills before breaking into the open.

The two forces came together for a skirmish with blank ammunition in the rear of The Oasis, the home of Mrs. Adolph Ladenburg. At the officers' mess, later in the day, it was unanimously agreed that the Blues had driven out the Reds. Major Sarratt, who acted as umpire, diplomatically held, in the presence of Capt. Tilton, commander of the Red forces, that honors were even.

Col. Cronkhite and the other officers expressed themselves as thoroughly satisfied, to date, with the success of the field work. The only complaint they had to make so far, they said, was that the available newsstands had been unable to supply the camp with a sufficient number of copies of THE TIMES. Col. Cronkhite complained that Capt. Tilton liked THE TIMES so well that he not only availed himself of his (Col. Cronkhite's) only copy, but, after reading it to the last advertisement, kept it to work out with properly colored pencils a map of the next invasion of the Reds on the Blues. After returning to Fort Totten, at Willett's Point, the regiment will continue to other sections of Long Island for the rest of the month.

YANKEES LOSE A CLOSE GAME---RACING---GOLF---ROWING---POLO

Cleveland Wins All Four Games of Series—Kahler and Fisher Pitch Well.

Another chapter was added to the record-breaking series of Yankee defeats at the Polo Grounds yesterday when the Naps made their final stand of a visit lasting the last four days. High-class pitching by Ray Fisher and errorless support by his mates went for naught, simply because the Naps fielded faultlessly, too, and did just a mite better with the stick. The mite in this instance came in the form of a little Texas leaguer from Carisch's bat, which dropped behind second base in the second inning and chased two runners home. The final score was 2 to 1.

Before the game Manager Frank Chance was presented with a diamond studded emblem of the Loyal Order of Moose and a regular horseshoe of the paving-pounding variety. Both proved as effective in wooing victory for the Peerless Leader as did the Native Son bulldog and the carload of flowers which were wished on Chance just before the Yankees' first home game. Waivers have already been asked on the horseshoe, but the diamond-decked emblem is to be retained. It is about the only thing Chance has won since his arrival here.

Fisher pitched a brand of ball that would have won at least two of the three previous games against the Naps, possibly all three, but it was the irony of fate that he showed his fancy flinging on the one day when Cleveland was showing a trifle better in the pitching line. Kahler scattered his six-hit allowance across four frames, and after the fourth inning the Yankees did not pass first base.

After the Naps bunched three hits for their two runs in the second inning they became affected with the same inability to pass first base as the Yanks suffered later in the game. Only one of the visitors reached second during the last seven innings. Johnston tried to go from first to third in the fifth inning on Chapman's bunt, but he was thrown out going into third base.

The Cleveland rally, which produced the two runs in the second inning, was brought to a close by Catcher Carisch pushing his shoulder in the path of a throw by Sweeney to catch him off third base. Umpire Evans promptly declared Carisch out for interference, and a big wail arose from the Cleveland bench. Manager Birmingham led the vocal outburst, and he was ordered off the field by Umpire Evans. Birmingham walked about ten feet from the Cleveland bench and directed his men during the remainder of the game from a near-by box. As he was not attired in his playing uniform the Cleveland manager did not have to make the usual jaunt to the clubhouse.

Fisher prevented a score in the opening inning by fanning Turner with Johnston on third base after a pass and two infield outs. Jackson opened the second inning with a single to right and hurried on to third base when Ryan hit to the same section. Ryan stole second. Both runners were held on their bases while Fisher threw out Graney. With the infield playing in close for a play at the plate, Carisch hit a short fly, which fell just behind second base and out of Zeider's reach, scoring both Jackson and Ryan. Kahler sacrificed Carisch to second, Johnston beat out a grounder to Zeider, and then Carisch interfered with Sweeney's throw, ending the inning.

The Yanks went scoreless in the third after filling the bases with two out, Borton hitting to Kahler for third out. In the fourth Sweeney and Zeider singled, the former scoring on Peckinpaugh's Texas leaguer to centre. The score:

Senators Score Only Run in Game.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Washington made it three out of four from St. Louis to-day by winning the final game of the series, shutting the visitors out, 1 to 0. Johnson had a shade the better of Leverenz in a pitcher's battle. The only run came in Washington's half of the seventh inning. Shanks reached first base on a force play at second, advanced a base when Leverenz hit McBride, and scored when Ainsmith singled. Shanks, the first of Washington's large list of cripples returned to the game to-day, and the indefinite suspension of Ainsmith was lifted. The score:

PITTSBURGH, June 6.—Seaton won a pitchers' battle from Hendrix to-day, each pitcher allowing five hits. The visitors bunched three of these in the second inning, when Magee's double, a single by Luderus, and a triple by Dooin netted two runs. Magee singled and stole second in the fourth and scored on Doolan's single. The locals got their only run in the seventh, when Wagner tripled and scored on Miller's fly. Wilson also tripled in this inning, but was left on third. Pittsburgh rallied in the ninth, but, with two men on bases, Becker and Magee "robbed" Miller and Wilson, respectively, of three-baggers with fine catches. The score:

Cubs Lose Again to Braves.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Boston bunched hits behind errors by the locals and made it two straight from Chicago to-day, 5 to 4. The visitors scored their first two runs on a pass, a sacrifice hit, an error, and a long fly, and added the other three on three hits and two errors. The locals bunched three singles and a double for their first three runs and made another on a single and a triple. Zimmerman of Chicago strenuously questioned one of Umpire Byron's decisions at third base and was banished to the clubhouse. Dickson was hit freely by the home team, but the support behind him was sensational, the visitors making three double plays and Seymour making a magnificent catch in deep centre field. The score:

TRAVERS AND KIRKBY IN NEW JERSEY FINAL

As the result of the second and semi-final rounds of match play yesterday, Jerome D. Travers, the national champion, and Oswald Kirkby, the New Jersey title holder, will play in the final matches of the New Jersey State championship tournament over the links of the Baltusrol Golf Club to-day.

Travers advanced through the elimination of C. E. Van Vleck, Jr., of the home club, by 2 up and 1 to play, and Howard Giffin, another of the home contingent, by a similar margin. Kirkby eliminated E. B. Schley of Morris County by a 9 and 8 margin, then defeated Max Behr, another Morris County player, 3 and 2. Behr was a former New Jersey champion.

The feature of the day's play was the establishing of a new course record for amateurs by Kirkby, lowering the mark of Travers on the first day by a single stroke. There seemed to be nothing too difficult for the State champion to accomplish going out, and with a little luck on the greens he might have made the journey in 32, whereas he got 34. Par for the outward trip is 37, which gives an idea how the champion was going. Coming back he went along finely until the sixteenth hole, where he got into a trap and required five for the hole. Then to the home hole he might have further improved when his approach overran the green, and in pitching back he hit a tree branch and lost another stroke. The hole cost him 6. He came in in 38 for a 72. The summary follows:

Championship Division.—Second Round—Jerome D. Travers, Upper Montclair, beat C. E. Van Vleck, Jr., Baltusrol, 2 and 1; Howard Giffin, Baltusrol, beat E. M. Athletics' Twelfth Straight Victory.

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—Tieing the score in the ninth inning after two men were out, Philadelphia scored the deciding run in the tenth inning to-day on Oldring's double to right, which scored Bender and enabled Philadelphia to win its twelfth consecutive victory by 8 to 7. Credit for the victory goes to Bender, who relieved Wyckoff in the tenth inning, for when he went in to pitch the score was a tie. Lake was driven from the box in the fifth inning, and Plank also retreated under fire in the sixth. The hitting of Veach, Oldring, and McInnis featured. Barry, Vitt, and Bush made spectacular stops and catches. The score:

GIRL GOLFER WINS TITLE.

Miss Marion Hollins Defeats Miss Bishop in Metropolitan Final.

With a little more than a year's experience at tournament play, Miss Marion Hollins of Westbrook won the championship title of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association at the Nassau Country Club at Glen Cove, L. I., yesterday. Last year she made an ambitious effort for this honor, but was beaten in the final test. Yesterday Miss Hollins defeated an erstwhile National and metropolitan champion, Miss Georgianna M. Bishop of Brooklawn, by 2 up and 1 to play, after a very interesting round of the links. The new champion excelled in driving and approaching, while Miss Bishop played a careful game, avoiding trouble by sacrificing distance in many instances.

Always ahead on her tee shots, Miss Hollins found the traps and bunkers five times during the match, but her deadly approach shots made up for these setbacks, invariably. Going out, Miss Hollins took the lead on the second hole, and was 2 up at the turn, five of the holes being halved. She lost the tenth and eleventh holes through being trapped on one and forced to take an extra putt on the other. This left the match all square, and the twelfth was halved, but on the thirteenth Miss Bishop missed a short putt for a half, and Miss Hollins led again. The next two holes were halved in fours and sixes, and then the younger player's daring won out for her. A long drive and a dazzling mashie shot saw her on the green in 2. Miss Bishop went into the sandpit, and she took 7 for the hole, which Miss Hollins won in 4, both figures being approximated.

Going to the seventeenth, Miss Hollins was 2 up, and a half in 5's ended the contest, during which the former champion was never better than "all square" with the new winner of the title.

The scores were as follows:

Championship Division.—Final Round—Miss Marion Hollins, Westbrook, beat Miss Georgianna M. Bishou, Brooklawn, 2 up and 1 to play.

Beaten Eight, Championship Division.—Final Round—Mrs. A. L. Cahn, Century, beat Mrs. William Chilvers, Dunwoodie, 3 up and - to play.

Second Sixteen.—Final Round—Mrs. Percy Ingalls, Essex County, beat Mrs. W. I. Seaman, Richmond County, 4 up and 3 to play.

RED BANK, N. J., June 6.—Camden captured the two-man team race for the championship of New Jersey on the second day of the State Sportsman's Association trap-shooting tournament held at the Riverside Gun Club here to-day. The Camden team, composed of Eugene Springer and Frank Hineline, broke 95 out of a possible 100 targets. Red Bank's first team, Albert Ivins and Edward Von Kattengell, finished second, breaking 92, and the Point Pleasant team finished third, breaking 91.

Charles T. Day, amateur State champion, was average high man for the day. Out of a possible 160 targets he broke 153. The Merchandise event of twenty birds each was captured by Abe Bennett of Fair Haven, who broke 24 with a handicap of four.

The next State shoot will be held at Asbury Park the week of June 1, 1914. At the annual meeting of the association held this evening George H. Piercy of Jersey City was re-elected President; Frank Hineline First Vice President, to succeed B. M. Shanley of Newark; Albert Ivins of Red Bank Second Vice President, to succeed Hineline, and Charles Day was re-elected Secretary and Treasurer. The individual championship match will be held to-morrow afternoon.

Ritchie-Rivers Bout Canceled.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6.—The match between Lightweight Champion Willie Ritchie and Joe Rivers of Los Angeles, who were to have fought twenty rounds on July 4, was definitely declared off to-day by the promoter. The men were unable to come to terms on weight. Ritchie would not do better than 134 at 9 o'clock in the morning and Rivers would not concede more than 134 two hours before the bell. Ritchie however, is sure of an opponent on the July date. The three most prominent candidates are Ad Wolgast, from whom he won the title; Bud Anderson of Oregon, who knocked out Joe Mandot of New Orleans, and Freddie Welsh of England, now in Vancouver, B. C., with whom Ritchie fought a twenty-round draw several years ago.

ROCK VIEW FIRST IN DERBY RACE

August Belmon't brown colt Rock View, a three-year-old by Rock Sand, out of Golden View, was the winner yesterday of the feature event, the Brooklyn Derby, at the mile-and-a-quarter distance, at Belmont Park, with Harry Payne Whitney's Prince Eugene, a son of Hamburg, his only opponent. Yesterday's race marked their second meeting, as the Belmont horse was returned the winner of the historic Withers at even weights, 118 pounds, whereas, in the Derby Rock View gave the Whitney entrant 22 pounds and a three-parts-of-a-length beating, in 2:07 3-5.

On the strength of their previous race, and because of the difference in the weights, Rock View, carrying 123 pounds, Prince Eugene was installed an almost prohibitive favorite at 9 to 20, while 8 to 5 could be obtained against the ultimate winner.

Prince Eugene broke in front, with Rock View well over toward the outside rail at the bottom of the backstretch, where the start was effected. McTaggart, who is now doing the riding for the Belmont stable, sent his mount right along in his endeavor to reach the leader, which ran the first half-mile in 48 seconds in his endeavor to kill off the top weight.

The pair came to the turn at the five-eighths distance racing like a team, but around the turn the Belmont horse was ridden desperately in the attempt to head Prince Eugene before the stretch was reached. This effort was a success, as the scarlet, maroon sleeves showed the way around the latter part of the last turn, and to the end that Rock View had a length and a half lead at the mile, which was clocked in 1:38 3-5, a grand performance for a three-year-old that way weighted.

Rock View hung a little in the run home, while Prince Eugene appeared to improve in his pace. This caused McTaggart to resort to the hardest kind of riding in order to get home by a little less than a length. Yesterday's win marked the third which has been achieved by Belmont entries, as Octagon was first in 1897, and Fair Play the winner in 1908, when the distance was a mile and a half.

Mrs. Payne Whitney sent Delirium to the races again and had the pleasure of seeing her colors to the fore in the steeplechase when the Sandringham horse took the measure of the other chasers in somewhat convincing fashion. Delirium was quoted at 6 to 5, this really good price being obtainable only because of a decided fancy which was evinced for H. K. Vingut's Malaga, which was the medium of considerable speculation, resulting in forcing the mare's price from 2½ to 1 to 7 to 5.

Richard T. Wilson's Lysander continued his winning career in the one-mile race, in which his principal opponent proved to be Donald Macdonald, the horse he showed the way to on Monday when the Holland entry tried to give him thirteen pounds at seven-eights of a mile. With nine pounds difference yesterday, the Wilson horse came from behind and won a good race by a length and a half in 1:39. Scallywag led up to the half-mile mark, at which point Lysander came through. Donald Macdonald was a good horse in the stretch, picking up two lengths in the last three-sixteenths.

The winner was bid up to $2,200, and bought in by his owner. F. Ambrose Clark ran the price up to that point, which made it cost the Wilson contingent $340 to win the race, as Lysander was in to be sold for $1,400.

A free field was inaugurated yesterday for the first time, and it resulted in several thousand persons being permitted to scamper at will over the green inside the steeplechase course. Many women and children took advantage of the opportunity given them to witness the races at no cost, and the inclosure had all the appearance of a picnic party. The summary:

The Bridgeporters will come by special train, and they will parade from 125th Street to the Polo Grounds, as the Troy delegation did in the recent celebration for Johnny Evers. Manager Chance notified the committee some time ago that Keating would pitch this particular game. The game will begin at 3 o'clock.

Robinson was to have sailed with James Curran, the trainer at Mercersburg, next week.

Lipton's Challenging Yacht Will Be Commanded by W. P. Burton.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 6.—It is understood here that Sir Thomas Lipton has placed the command of his new America's Cup challenger, Shamrock IV., in the hands of W. P. Burton, who has accepted the offer. Burton is the late owner of the Octavia and is one of the best-known amateurs in the yachting world.

During his yachting career, extending over a period of thirty years, Burton has sailed in over a thousand races. This will mark the first occasion on which an amateur has sailed a Lipton challenger for the America's Cup.

WISCONSIN ON HUDSON.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 6.—Twenty-four brawny oarsmen from the University of Wisconsin, in charge of Coach Harry Vail, arrived this afternoon and made ready for two weeks of strenuous training for the intercollegiate rowing races on June 21. The Wisconsin crews brought two shells, an eight and a four, and had expected to find their new 'Varsity eight and 'Varsity four-oared shells here, but Coach Vail received word that the shells would not arrive until Sunday.

The afternoon was spent rigging the old shells, and early in the evening the 'Varsity crew started out for a row, but was compelled to return to the float because of rough water. The Wisconsin men are all in the best condition. This year's 'Varsity crew is made up entirely of sophomores, the same men who rowed in last year's freshman race. They will get on the water in the morning for their first long row.

The Washington crews did not get into their shells until early evening. The water was still rough, and after a pull of less than a mile they were compelled to return to the boathouse. The Cornell crews had a similar experience.

Coach Jim Rice of the Columbia crews shook up his senior crew to-day. Ruprecht, who pulled the No. 2 oar, was taken out of the shell and his place filled by McCarthy of the four-oared crew. The new combination did not work well, and Rice later took McCarthy out of the boat and put Peterson in his place, McCarthy going back to the four. Ruprecht was put in Peterson's place at No. 2 in the four.

Spins for Yale and Harvard Crews.

RED TOP, Conn., June 6.—With wind and tide favoring, the Harvard 'Varsity eight to-night defeated the freshman eight by two lengths, over a two-mile course on the Thames. No time was given out, but Coach Wray expressed himself as well pleased with the showing. The 'Varsity did not row a higher stroker than 28, while at the last mile the freshmen were rowing 34. The 'Varsity led all the way.

GALES FERRY, Conn., June 6.—Yale's 'Varsity eight covered the four miles of the Thames course to-night in 21:17, starting from the bridge and rowing up the river. There was a stiff wind and strong tide running. The oarsmen were followed up the course by both Yale and Harvard launches. The freshmen rowed two and a half miles above their quarters. A change was made in the 'Varsity four-oared crew, Brice taking the place of Bennett as stroke.

Fordham's Football Schedule.

The football management at Fordham University announces the schedule for the Maroon eleven this Fall. Tom Thorpe, former Columbia Captain, has again accepted the offer to coach the eleven. He will act as head coach, and his assistants will be selected from a list of former Fordham football stars. Gerald M. McLaughlin, '14, of Newark, N. J., has been elected football manager and Harry M. Crocker, '15, of Mount Clemens, Mich., as assistant manager. The schedule: Sept. 27, St. Peter's College, at Fordham; Oct. 4, Princeton, at Princeton, N. J.; 11, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, at Fordham; 18, St. Joseph's College, at Fordham; 25, Vermont, at Fordham; Nov. 4, Villanova, at Fordham; 8, Boston College, at Fordham; 15, Holy Cross, at Worcester, Mass.

Cornell Football Practice Sept. 10.

ITHACA, June 6.—Cornell's unusually long football schedule in the Fall prompted Coach Al H. Sharpe to send out notices to-day to candidates for the eleven that practice will begin Sept. 10, earlier than is customary, and fifteen days before Cornell's first game. Candidates who were ineligible last season or did not register for other reasons were requested to register by June 18, giving their Summer addresses. From this list Coach Sharpe will select his squad.

Motor Cycling at Brighton Beach.

A field of seven starters, with Arthur Chapple riding from scratch, will be the entry list in the Coney Island handicap, the feature event on the programme at the Stadium-Motordrome to-night. Paul Ohne, George Mercier, Billy Hagan, Bob Fischer, Mike Costello, and Jack Krug, will compose the list of limit men, with one lap and a half handicap. Billy Hagan, the winner of the twenty-five-mile event Wednesday night, looks like a strong contender for the first money. His ride of a quarter century without a stop, lowering the mark set by Chapple last year, was one of the best rides that has been seen on the track.

RITSON NOT IN LINE-UP.

English Poloist Recovering from Slight Illness.

Through the illness of Capt. R. G. Ritson, the field Captain of the English polo team which will play the newly formed American international four next week on the Meadow Brook field, and which caused a readjustment in the line-up of the visitors yesterday in their match against a Piping Rock four at Locust Valley, there was quite a noticeable slump in the form of the men who made up the challenging quartet, with the result that they won by the lowest score of the season, 3½ to ¼.

Both teams were in receipt of penalties for foul work and safeties, the English team suffering to the extent of half a goal in the sixth period for crossing, a like penalty and a safety being recorded against Piping Rock, which mulcted the team of three-quarters of a goal in the same session.

Capt. Ritson, who was on the field, asserted that he could play, but his physicians advised against it following an attack of ptomaine poisoning. In the sixth period Lord Wodehouse, playing for the Piping Rock aggregation, bumped into Capt. Cheape and threw him, but with no injury to either player or pony.

The English players failed to show to the advantage which has marked most of their practice efforts since they have been playing here. This was accounted for by the change in the line-up and the absence of Ritson, as well as the fact that a strong wind inclined to nullify the driving power of the men of both teams. The field was cuppy and slow, and while the play was interesting, it failed to savor of the type of polo which has been witnessed when the Englishmen have lined up for action.

Both the Waterburys were afield for Piping Rock, and each played in his best form, which warranted the English back being kept busy defending his goal. As a matter of fact, the backs of both teams were busy keeping out tries which, when delivered, appeared to be sure counts. The line-up:

ENGLAND.	PIPING ROCK.
1—Capt. Cheape.	1—J. S. Phipps.
2—F. M. Freake.	2—J. M. Waterbury, Jr.
3—Capt. Edwards.	3—L. Waterbury.
	Back—Lord Wodehouse

Goals.—For England: Edwards, 1; Freake, 2; Cheape, 1; less penalty of ½. Total, 3½. For Piping Rock: J. M. Waterbury, Jr., less ½ for foul, ¼ for safety. Total, ¼. Time—Seven seven-and-a-half-minute periods.

GREAT NECK POLO VICTORY.

LOCUST VALLEY, L. I., June 6.—The Great Neck polo team vanquished the Grasshoppers at the Piping Rock Club here this evening with a score of 11 to 7½ in the finals for the Visitors' cup, offered by the English team. By this victory W. R. Grace, J. Watson Webb, Hamilton Hadden, and Jeremiah Smith come into possession of four individual trophies commemorating their supremacy. The Grasshoppers were made up of H. Phipps, J. P. Grace, Walter McClure, and Charles Whitney. They made but one earned goal throughout the game, half of which Mr. Whitney relinquished for a foul. Seven goals were allowed them by handicap. D. J. Ross refereed the game.

The English ponies in the string belonging to the cup challengers leave their quarters at the club to-morrow morning for John Phipps's place at Westbury, where they will remain through the international tournament. It is expected that the last English practice game will be held Sunday afternoon on Mr. Phipps's field.

ONLY 3 BOATS TO START.

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—Only three entries will start in the annual Philadelphia-to-Bermuda power boat race, which is scheduled to begin here to-morrow afternoon at 130 o'clock. E. C. Hadley, owner of the Talequah of Mount Vernon, N. Y., which is being brought here via the Delaware and Raritan Canal as an added entry, communicated with the Yacht Club officials late to-night that the race be postponed until 6 o'clock in order that his boat might reach here on time, while Thomas Fleming Day, master of the Teck, the Jamaica Bay Yacht Club entry, whose leaking gasoline tanks are being repaired here, also asked for a postponement. The owners of the three boats which are ready, however, refused to consent to a postponement, and the race will be started without the Teck or the Talequah, according to announcement by officials of the Yachtsmen's Club to-night.

The starters will be the Dream, winner of last year's race, which has a rating of 36.36; the Barbara II, of the Staten Island Yacht Club, rated at 45.30, and the Tocsam of the Ocean City Yacht Club, rated at 37.98.

The Dream will have a time allowance of 16 hours 44 minutes and 36 seconds and the Tocsam 13 hours 6 minutes and 36 seconds, as compared to the Barbara II., which will be at scratch.

KNOCKDOWN FOR KEARNS.

In the early rounds Davis landed often with right and left to the face, and Kearns bled freely from the nose and mouth. Kearns weighed 202 pounds and Davis 186½.

It was the third time the men had boxed. The first time was in New York several months ago, when Kearns knocked out Davis in the first round; the second time in Buffalo several weeks ago, when Davis took the count in the sixth round.

AMERICA WINS TWO DAVIS CUP MATCHES

AUSTRALIANS OUTCLASSED

America triumphed over Australia in the first session of the preliminary round of the Davis Cup competition yesterday on the grass court of the West Side Tennis Club, 238th Street and Broadway. Two matches in singles were played, and after the last ace had been disposed of America came out in the lead by winning both. In the first contest Maurice E. McLoughlin, the National singles champion, defeated Horace M. Rice of Australia in three straight sets by the scores of 6—1, 6—3, 6—3. The second match brought together R. Norris Williams of Philadelphia and Stanley M. Doust, the Captain of the Australian team. It was a long-drawn-out encounter, and ended in favor of Williams, after four well-contested sets, by the scores of 6—4, 6—4, 1—6, 7—5.

The victory was an overwhelming one, and demonstrated the superiority of the victors over the vanquished. From a scientific standpoint, the contests were replete with brilliant playing, and the victory was in a great measure due to the remarkable service of the United States representatives. America won by 7 sets to 1, 38 games to 26, and 237 points to 194. These figures tell the result at a glance and conclusively prove the result was fairly and honestly earned. As the United States needs but one more match to win, it being the best of five matches, the prospects of the American team making the trip to Europe to play Germany in the second round are very encouraging.

Weather conditions favored the opening day's play, and more than 4,000 persons witnessed the two matches. The crowd resembled that usually seen at the Army-Navy or Yale-Harvard football match. Society was well represented, and the impartiality of the applause was a flattering tribuet to American fairness in competitive events. While the winners were generously applauded, the losers were not forgotten, and there was little difference in the reception accorded the four players either before or after the matches.

The rival players represented entirely different styles of play. McLoughlin and Williams were almost spectacular in their court work, while Rice and Doust played a steady, careful, and consistent game. The Pacific Coast expert's speedy service completely baffled his Australasian opponent, and many points were made by him owing to the inability of Rice to pick up the ball. The terrific smashes of Williams were made in all sections of the court, and Rice was frequently compelled to stand idly on one side and watch the balls pass him, being unable to reach them.

It was age against youth. The American representatives are in their early manhood, neither having reached the age of 25, while the visiting players were engaged in championship competitions in Australia when Williams and McLoughlin were wearing knickerbockers. They presented striking contrasts in the court. The Americans towered far above the Australians. Williams and McLoughlin are six feet tall, while Doust and Rice each lack five inches of this height, but what the latter lacked in stature they made up in stamina, for they withstood the almost vicious attacks of their opponents, with a calmness and determination that deserved a better fate. They met with a style of play that was foreign to them, and as each point after point was recorded against them, they must have felt the inevitable was in sight, but they gave no evidence of their feeling, but battled pluckily and scientifically until the plaudits of the spectators brought the competitions to an end.

Both Williams and McLoughlin have shown better tennis in past matches. The former was uncertain in many of his strokes, and erratic in general court work. Although he won, 3 sets to 1, the margin of points and games showed little difference between him and Doust. In points the score stood 139 to 134 in favor of Williams, while the games favored the young American by 20 to 19. At several stages of the contest a defeat for Williams appeared imminent, but the Philadelphian pulled himself together, and after several exciting rallies, finally won out.

From the first game, which McLoughlin took at love, to the end of the match Rice was completely outclassed. He shook his head despairingly as the balls traveled at lighting speed at all parts of the court. The Sidney champion made frantic efforts to reach many of the returns, but failed. McLoughlin, after winning the first game, broke through Rice's service and easily made it two straight. The third was another love game, but Rice saved himself from being blanked in the set by taking the fourth after deuce had been called. The fifth was McLoughlin's at love, and the same player aced the sixth to his score at 7—5 with a terrific cross court smash, The seventh and final game gave McLoughlin the set, 6—1.

The Californian maintained this terrific speed in the second set and made a number of remarkable placements, and Rice was powerless against them.

With two sets in hand McLoughlin increased his speed and made a number of clever shots, while Rice appeared to become more familiar with McLoughlin's smashes. The Australian brought out a round of applause by his accuracy in placement, which frequently beat McLoughlin. Rice carried his opponent along and made the games 3-all before McLoughlin put on a little extra speed and won the next 3 games in quick succession. This gave him the set and match at 6—3.

When Doust and Williams took possession of the court the spectators were prepared for a more evenly contested match. The first set afforded the closest and most exciting of the day up to this time. The Australian surprised Williams by winning the first two games. The latter then settled and began to place with greater accuracy. He evened the score in the fourth game, and went ahead in the fifth, Doust going into the net repeatedly. Williams won the first three aces of the sixth game, but Doust rallied after deuce had been called and won out. With the score 4-all the Philadelphian, after a protracted struggle, captured the set, 6—4.

The third set was the only one captured by the visitor, and for a time it looked as though the Australian captain might turn the tide in his favor. He mastered the speedy returns of his opponent and added point after point with alarming regularity and rapidity. His steadiness and accuracy proved the undoing of Williams, who was never able to successfully gauge Doust's deadly returns. Williams secured but one game in this set, which Doust won, 6—1.

Williams appeared to better advantage in the fourth and last set, but the Australian, encouraged by his success in the preceding set, redoubled his efforts. It was a give and take affair, with first one player and then the other in the lead. The games were even at the sixth and again at the eighth. In the latter deuce was called three times before Williams scored the winning point. Sharp rallies marked the next two games and the score was called 5-all. Williams took the first vantage again by superior placing. When within a stroke of the set and match he made a double fault, but he carried his science to a successful issue by winning his next service and the match, 7—5.

The third match of the series will be played this afternoon when Maurice E. McLoughlin and Harold H. Hackett will be opposed by Stanley N. Doust and A. Booth Jones. The summary and analyses:

JEST WINS THE OAKS.

"Feminine Derby" at Epsom Goes to J. B. Joel's Entry.

EPSOM, England, June 6.—The Oaks Stakes or "Feminine Derby" was won to-day by J. B. Joel's Jest. L. Neumann's Depeche was second, and Sir J. Robinson's Arda third. Twelve horses ran.

The starting prices were: Jest, 8 to 1 against; Depeche, 20 to 1 against; Arda, 100 to 8 against.

Of the original 283 entries for the stakes of $25,000 for three-year-old fillies only the very small field of twelve turned out for the race over the course of one mile and a half.

NALA CUP FOR CORINNA.

A. W. Atkinson's Entry Wins Chief Event at Plainfield Horse Show.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 6.—The second day of the Plainfield horse show was marked by several features, one of the most interesting being the winning of the Nala Challenge Cup for harness horses, which was won by A. W. Atkinson's Corinna. Edward B. McLean's Guardsman was second and pressed the winning horse very hard. This cup was offered last year by J. W. Harriman in place of the trophy he won.

In the class for ladies' hunters and jumpers Miss Eleanor Rasmussen captured a blue with Edward B. McLean's Cocktail, and a second prize with S. Bryce Wing's Benito, both horses giving fine performances. Mr. McLean won a blue with Aaron in the class for harness horses, driving his entry, while Mrs. McLean won second honors in Class 5 for harness horses with Sporting Extra, which Mr. McLean had just purchased from the Seeling stables. William Seigler, Jr.'s, The Pilot won another blue in Class 7 for harness horses, while George G. Rohlig's champion Avoca won a blue in Class 34 for saddle horses.

The Glenelg Stables' Rockcrest and Gloverville won Class 40 for pairs of hunters, while Blenheim Farm's Algoma won Class 42 for hunters and jumpers, and Class 43 for hunters and jumpers, the last of the day, was won by Edward B. McLean's Overall. The championship classes will be judged to-morrow.

Half-a-million of Arthur Hornblow's novels have been sold.

CARL SCHURZ

Comprising the More Noteworthy of the Addresses, Public Papers and Essays, and a Selection of His Private Correspondence. With the Latter are Included a Number of the Letters Written to Schurz, Now for the First Time Printed.

Edited by FREDERIC BANCROFT

With Photogravure Portrait. 6 vols. 8°. Net, $12.00. Carriage, $1.00.

This work has been prepared for publication under the general direction of the Carl Schurz Memorial Committee, which was constituted in 1906. The editorial responsibility has been in the hands of a sub-committee, with Mr. Oswald Garrison Villard of the New York Evening Post as Chairman, and the editorial work has been done by Frederic Bancroft.

Few persons have an adequate conception of the range and intensity of Schurz's political interests as evinced by his correspondence, or of the extent and quality of the series of his public addresses given occasionally throughout half a century. Before he had been in the United States eight years, he was counted among the greatest of our political orators, and in the critical campaign of 1860 no other speaker influenced so many voters. In the arts of the orator he had many superiors, but he has rarely been rivaled in the force, clearness and success with which he advocated reforms and sought to maintain the highest political ideals.

"She had appeared, or had been manifest to me, quite suddenly. At one moment I saw the avenue of lit green, at another she was dipt in it. I could describe her now, at this distance of time—a radiant young female thing, fiercely favoured, smiling with a fierce joy, with a gleam of fierce light in her narrowed eyes. Upon her body and face was the hue of the sun's red beam; her hair, loose and fanned out behind her head, was of the colour of natural silk, but diaphanous as well as burnished, so that while the surfaces glittered like spun glass the deeps of it were translucent and showed the fire behind. Her garment was thin and grey, and it clung to her like a bark, seemed to grow upon her as a creeping stone-weed grows."

Greatest Success

The Heart of the Hills

Has Fact for Its Core; More Realistic Than "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

The expressions of the book-reviewers and the rapidity with which the first edition of 100,000 copies has been disposed of, point unmistakably to the fact that "The Heart of the Hills" is John Fox's finest novel and his greatest success.

Like "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," it deals largely with those crude people of the Kentucky mountains, in whose make-up there is something of the Homeric; for, in the rigor of their half-wild life, revenge, cunning, love, courage, hate, cowardice, stand forth naked.

But this book is more closely connected with the outside world; the two intertwined love stories of the girl and boy of the mountains and the other girl and boy of the lowlands are influenced by such actual incidents as the murder of Governor Goebel, the raids of the "night-riders," etc.

TAXING TO DESTROY.

Some Congressmen, it is said, see elements of Socialism in Attorney General McReynolds's plan for strangling the big tobacco concerns by a graduated internal revenue tax rising in the ratio of their production. In these times such perspicacity is astonishing. But it is more amazing that Congressmen should fail to see, that anybody should fail to see, that this policy of taxation, which Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska has embodied in a bill, aims at the assassination of American industrial enterprise; that it is monstrous, oppressive, that it shocks the public sense of justice, and that it is in every way contrary to public policy. No crime except bigness is charged against the manufacturing concerns assailed by Mr. McReynolds and singled out for destructive taxation in Mr. Hitchcock's bill. The Nebraska Senator explains that $10,000,000 of additional taxes would be levied upon six companies on the basis of their last year's business, and that the revenue collected would probably reach a total of $15,000,000 a year. "The power to tax "to the point of destruction is un-"questioned," says Senator Hitchcock, and that is precisely what his bill aims at. He further says that "the Government already has the machinery to enforce this tax." The Government has the machinery to enforce any tax, but no Government but one under the control of unsafe and reckless men would impose such a tax.

The decree of dissolution approved by the court gives judicial sanction to the manner in which these companies have carried on business. Judge Noyes, concurring in the opinion of the Circuit Court approving the decree, said that the Supreme Court did not condemn the combination on account of the great amount of property which it had acquired. "Indeed, it "must now be accepted that magni-"tude of business in and of itself "does not constitute unlawful monopo-"ly, at least up to the point where "economy of production and man-"agement are thereby permitted." Beyond all question economy of production and management are promoted by the operations of these companies in conformity to the court's decree, for otherwise their "independent" competitors would not set up the complaint that they are unable to hold their own. What the Attorney General proposes, therefore, is that the taxing power must be used to punish the large concerns for putting a good article upon the market at a low price. The tax would be made to apply to all companies putting out tobacco products in excess of a stated amount. The tax would diminish production and inevitably raise the price to the consumer. This is an astounding policy to be proposed by a Democratic Administration. If in the other world the spirit of Thomas Jefferson is able to take cognizance of such matters, he must conclude that in its present state of mind his party is in urgent need of the services of a lunacy commission.

No reason on earth for imposing this tax is set forth by Mr. McReynolds, save his personal dissatisfaction with the decree of the court and his tender solicitude for the independent competitors of the big concerns. Thousands of men have been displeased by court decisions, but fortunately only now and then has one had the hardihood to express his contempt for the court by such a procedure as this. Undoubtedly, the economy of production and the efficiency of the large concerns make the way steep for the smaller ones. But if the Government is to punish the winners in the economic race, then the policy should not be confined in its application to the tobacco business. The farmers of New England once profitably raised wheat for the market. The opening of the Western prairies to wheat growing drove them out of business. Of course, the Western farmers ought to have been taxed to death. Great merchants under this principle would be despoiled in order that the little men might have a chance. The Democrats in the last campaign denounced the Progressive plan of licensing monopoly. Mr. McReynolds, prominent in President Wilson's Administration, would make monopoly disgorge a part of the swag. The Democrats, too, have denied that large scale production effects economies and lowers cost. Mr. McReynolds's proposal and Senator Hitchcock's bill show that that argument was sheer cant and humbug, for this tax is unquestionably for the purpose of raising production cost. And the consumer, however the tax may affect the companies, must bear the burden.

The Supreme Court has said, President Taft has said, President Wilson has said, that mere bigness is not obnoxious to the law. "Big business is not dangerous because it is big," were President Wilson's words. Yet it is now said on good authority that the President approved the graded tax upon big business before the plan was submitted to the Senate. The country cannot be too promptly informed whether the Wilson Administration is going to run amuck, whether it is going to play fast and loose with the principles of well-ordered government, of law, and of justice, or whether there is a man at the head with wisdom and backbone enough to keep his responsible ministers in order.

THE LOSS OF A GOOD JUDGE.

The retirement from the bench and the service of the United States Government of District Judge Walter C. Noyes, for the deplorable but sufficient reason that his salary is inadequate for the support of his family and the education of his children, should arouse his thinking fellow-citizens to the need of removing the evil of which he is the victim. Judge Noyes has been on the bench for eighteen years, and for six years he has served in the United States Circuit Court, to which he was appointed by President Roosevelt. He is renowned as an authority on railroad law and has written valuable books on "Incorporate Relations" and "American Railroad Rates." His decisions have been just, his knowledge is ample, his years of toil have secured for him the high esteem of the bar of the Second District and an enviable reputation for sagacity and integrity throughout the country.

There has been a great deal of heedless talk about increasing ambassadorial salaries, because some of our representatives abroad, with large private fortunes, have set a bad example by living like princes. But it is vastly more important that our Federal Judges, many of whom represent the best legal knowledge in this country, and most of whom are men of the highest character, should be paid living wages. The elected State Judges in this neighborhood receive salaries much more than double that of Judge Noyes's, and very few, if any, of them are his equals in capacity and learning. To be sure, he is in the prime of life, and in the practice of law he can easily make a large yearly income. But the fact that he has retained his place on the bench, in spite of the small salary, for six years, indicates that he would have willingly remained there for a salary of $12,000 or $14,000 a year. He is a man of the type that is needed for Judgeships, and his loss is a matter for national regret.

Congress would do well to give some consideration to the meagre wages of Federal Judges. But the trouble in Congress is that when there is any money to spend the members know too well where to spend it for political advantage.

THE BOND AND SHORT MONEY MARKETS.

The average yield on the recent sale of New York City bonds was 4.49 per cent. The average yield on the State's sale of its notes is 4.86 per cent. The difference would indicate that the State's credit is inferior by 0.37 per cent. if the comparison were between like things. The comparison is alike only in the absence of moral hazard, and the difference in the yields indicates nothing regarding that.

The money placed at the service of the city is money that is satisfied with the yield, taking one year with another, and under any imaginable condition of difficulty of paying that yield and ultimately repaying the principal. The money placed at the service of the State is not the sort of money put into long investments. It is money that is awaiting investment, or which would be used in the processes of production of goods, or of distribution of goods, or which will be shortly wanted to meet maturing obligations. It is distinctly money with a string to it, and yet it is being put to the uses of fixed investment. The State is forced to the device adopted by the railways when first they found borrowing difficult, and which now is causing them embarrassment. The difference between the cost of money to the railways and the State is not as great as might be wished by those who would like to regard the State's credit higher, and the State's extrication from the necessity evidenced by the placing of the notes for the first time in its history lies in the future. The adventure would be unwise if it were avoidable, but the State is under a sort of compulsion.

Therein lies the reason why the bids were not enough higher to send the yield to a more creditable basis. Nobody feels any doubt that there will be enough to go around of all sorts of paper. The necessity to borrow by billions confronts the world, and confronts American borrowers by hundreds of millions. Not only are necessities pressing. Absolute engagements to issue have been contracted, and buyers have only to await the offerings. Some private borrowers have made their arrangements, that being the case for the large credits necessary for the dual subway. It is public issues for the most part which are under compulsory sale with no provision regarding terms, except the limitations of law that are rather a hindrance to borrowing on good terms. This affects all borrowing rather than the public borrowing alone. Loans like the State's and the city's cannot be considered apart from the general situation, as though they were pebbles cast into a vessel of water. It is more as though a dye or salt were thrown into the liquid, and affected every atom. When hundreds of millions of the highest credit are under compulsory issue it is more than a feast for lenders. It is a warning to all borrowers that the competition is a hardship, even if not unfair.

There is no borrowing so regardless of cost as that to make war or to repair its ravages. The two foreign requirements together will affect this market even though not a dollar be placed here. It will throw back upon this market borrowers who ordinarily would be accommodated more cheaply abroad. The borrowers here whose wants are thus without ordinary means of satisfaction are thrown into competition with public borrowers whose needs within the past five years have absorbed $750,000,000 more than the previous maximum annual demand. Borrowers have now to reckon with competition of this sort in the short market as well as the long, since the State's adventure.

It is an undesirable condition when short credits are put to long uses. It is more than notice that higher interest must be paid. It is a sign that either money must be found by sacrificing long investments or that the activities of daily trade must be checked for lack of the necessary tool of good trade, plenty of sure credit at fair rates. The class of investors who took the State's notes is one which knows how to make more than simple interest when times are either very good or very bad. That the State did not have to pay even more would seem to be an indication that experts do not expect either sort of weather.

DIPLOMATIC APPOINTMENTS.

We may safely assume that the list of forthcoming diplomatic appointments now sent out from Washington is correct; though unofficial, it is obviously authentic. It is not unlikely that some of the men named for Ministries and Ambassadorships may respectfully decline to accept the appointments, but substitutes equally good may be secured without much loss of time or waste of stationery and postage stamps. It may fairly be said that the appointments are as satisfactory as any that could have been expected. In the matter of American diplomatic appointments expectation does not run high. Obviously no Minister or Ambassador has been chosen for any well-proved capacity for diplomatic work. It is not to be doubted that better appointments, if the diplomatic service is to be considered seriously, might have been made by promoting men who have served long and well in minor posts of the service.

With the exception of Mr. E. J. Hale of North Carolina, who was Consul at Manchester for some years, and is to be Minister to Costa Rica, not one of the candidates named has had any experience in representing this country abroad. But the old and cherished idea of fitness for office in America resembles Moliere's explanation of the wit and wisdom of the Hotel Rambouillet. Our politicians are born with knowledge and are not compelled to acquire it. No man of large intellectual stature being available for diplomatic service, we ought to be grateful, in the circumstances, for the appointment of respectable and personable gentlemen. But we are a long way from the realization of the ideal of a permanent, well-instructed, and capable diplomatic service.

FORTY THOUSAND POSTMASTERS.

Very pertinent comment, partly critical, is made by the Civil Service Reform League on the President's order relating to Fourth Class Postmasters. This order requires that all vacancies shall be filled through competitive examination conducted by the Civil Service Commission or by Post Office Inspectors. Present incumbents may take these examinations. Appointments are to be made from the first three on the eligible list.

While warmly approving the principle of the order, the league points out that it was not urgently necessary since, under the orders issued by President Roosevelt in 1908 and President Taft in 1912, "unfit em-"ployés could have been removed "without difficulty and the service "cleared of incompetents." This is a fact, and it is too often ignored. The notion that employés brought under the rules are "protected" from removal is nonsense. They can be dismissed whenever the appointing officer chooses to state his reasons and give the employé a chance to explain. This is an essential element in the merit system, and there is no excuse for not using it. Ordinarily only cowardice in the appointing officer prevents.

The league calls attention to the fact "that the examinations required "by President Wilson's order will "take a long time"—"months if not "years"—and will cost a good deal of money. Both the Post Office and the Civil Service Commission will need added appropriations for it. Some 40,000 offices must be visited and the merits of some 120,000 eligibles at least must be ascertained and weighed. But "if the plan be "fairly executed, it should greatly "improve the administration of the "Post Offices." In this view we heartily concur.

The delay will be well compensated. There is no reason why, pending the examinations, the present office holders should not be held to strict discipline. It is also noted by the league that, when examinations have been held, the incumbent, even though he is at the head of the eligible list, will not necessarily be appointed. He may have a rating of 100, and the next two barely get enough to get on the list, and the Postmaster General may pass him by and take one of these. If the incumbent is a Republican and the others are Democrats, much pressure will be brought to get this done. At first, it may succeed to some extent, and the effect will be bad.

In the long run, however, the merit system will win its way. The mere fact that tests are required will influence public opinion; the results will be made known and the Congressman who gets a job for an inferior applicant over a superior one may lose more than he gains politically. The President's order is not only sound in principle, but will, we are confident, tend strongly to educate the public in the 40,000 localities where it will ultimately be applied.

PICTURES OF SCOTT'S LAST DAYS.

A series of remarkable pictures of scenes in the antarctic regions, connected with the heroic journey to the south pole of Capt. Robert Falcon Scott, and his self-sacrifice, will appear in the Picture Section of The Sunday Times to-morrow. The tent in which Scott and his companions, Wilson and Bowers, died, and where their bodies were found by the rescuing party; the memorial cross erected on Observation Hill, the rough cairn now covering the bodies, and the last photograph of the ill-fated explorer and his chief lieutenants are among the most striking of the pictures.

Another view represents the discovery of the pole, with the tent erected there by Amundsen, surmounted by a staff from which the Norwegian flag is flying, a pictorial record of Scott's attainment of his goal after months of cruel toil, and the disappointment that accompanied it. The pictures are of absorbing interest, and constitute such a message to the civilized world from the heroic dead, who gave their lives for science and the enlightenment of mankind, as mere words could not express.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Promising Plan Is Attacked.

When the police enforce, as they promise soon to do, the new provision of law which forbids automobiles from passing within eight feet of a street car that has stopped to take on or let off passengers, there is no doubt that for a while, at least, and in the places of most crowded traffic, not a few automobiles will frequently be brought to a standstill. This will greatly irritate their occupants and make in some degree harder of solution the already difficult problem of vehicular congestion, but confident predictions that these troubles are irremediable and the eight-foot prohibition therefore impracticable are rash in that they ignore several factors of the situation.

For one thing, the policemen whose specialty is the managing of street traffic say that the regulation is good—that it will help, not hinder, them in the performance of their task—and their opinion has weight. For another thing, the experiment is not as new as New York, in its queer provincialism, supposes, for the same plan has already been followed for some time elsewhere—Washington, for instance—and it works all right, which proves, indeed, not that it will work as well here, where the conditions are different, but that it is not essentially bad. Moreover, as was pointed out the other day, the constitutional objections of chauffeurs to stop for people on foot will strongly tend to make them keep on streets where they will not be subjected to this cruel indignity. That in itself would do much to relieve congestion.

The suggested substitution of a five-mile speed limit for one of eight feet space, on the ground that there will be endless disputes as to the exact number of feet between street cars and automobiles, ignores the unquestionable fact that distance can be guessed with greater accuracy than speed. The prophecy that chauffeurs will not obey the eight-foot rule, but simply grin when their attention is called to it, depends for fulfillment on failure of the police to be active and the Magistrates stern in doing their duty. The assumption that there will be such failure seems unnecessarily unkind, and not justified by the present attitude of either.

While not wholly denying the need for speed limitations, our own inclination has always been to replace them as much as possible by a "rule of reason." When and where speed is safe there is no sense in limiting it arbitrarily. Fifty miles an hour may be safe; five miles, or even two, may be intolerably dangerous.

Argentina Leads America.

Careful attention is deserved by the argument made by Dr. Juan Vucetich, the Argentine identification expert, who had much to do with bringing the utility of finger prints to the knowledge of the police of the world, in defense of the demand that the application of this wonderful system be extended far beyond its present limits. By restricting it to criminals, and especially to convicted criminals, a foolish prejudice is created and good citizens quite needlessly are deprived of many and important benefits which could otherwise be derived from the discovery, made many years ago, that the "papillary lines" on the hands of every human being remain the same from birth till death; that those of no two persons are alike, and that the individual differences can be recorded and recognized.

The possibility of mistake does exist, indeed, but it is a possibility so remote as to be negligible, and finger-print evidence is so nearly certain that the courts no longer commit the absurdity of denying to it that merit. Now and then a stupid or ignorant juryman still does this, and now and then a lawyer with a particularly bad case solemnly expatiates on the chance that his client's lines are duplicated on the fingers of somebody else, but these instances are rapidly becoming rarer and will soon be gone.

They are already of trivial importance. What is serious is that by taking and preserving the finger prints only of criminals we have rendered it disgraceful to have one's identity thus established. Yet we all know perfectly well—or would if we stopped to think—that conditions are constantly arising when it would be highly desirable to have at command a trustworthy means of identifying good people who for one reason or other, including that of death, cannot tell or prove who they are. Signatures, too, can be forged, but with finger prints that is practically impossible.

In progressive Argentina, it seems, everybody is thus recorded in a public bureau as a part of vital statistics, and it is no more disgraceful than the records of births, deaths, and marriages. There only the criminals and the criminally inclined object to the plan, and their objections, naturally, do not count. The uses are many, including the political and the social, and the facilitation of police work is, as it should be, merely incidental.

Taking a View Too Narrow.

So rapidly is the habit of demanding health certificates before performing marriage ceremonies spreading among our clergymen that it promises soon to become general with them, and the eugenists, who not so long ago were derided by most of the people who did not denounce them, feel that it isn't such a bad world after all.

Some ministers who are adopting the new plan, however, fail to make it as advantageous as they should by a too cautious limitation of its scope. The result of this, in at least one respect, will be to create unnecessary embarrassment and antagonism. This happens whenever it is assumed that in a single group of maladies lies the only disqualification for marriage that should be recognized. When that is done, refusal to marry an applicant inflicts a terrible disgrace, deserved, perhaps, but more likely to cause anger and resentment than reform, and sure to delay popular appreciation of the new plan.

It is right as well as sensible and expedient to recognize that there are innocent as well as guilty bars to marriage. That would be only an extension or paralleling of the consanguinity prohibitions, which trouble nobody. The wise clergyman will inform himself concerning the Mendelian laws as to the transmission of dominant and recessive characters.

Heredity is no longer a mystery, and it is as much the clergyman's duty to prevent the visiting of parental misfortunes as of parental sins on the coming generation.

A SERVANT'S APPLICATION.

Willing to Accept Position "If Duties Are Light."

For over a year we (a couple of newlyweds) have tried to get help. We are willing to pay $18 a month, and, naturally, in a small country house, where the work is so light, this is mighty good pay. We tried Finns, Huns, Russians, Slavs—young ones, old ones—Yankees, and not one wanted to work. So we inserted the following "ad" and tried to get an elderly woman who really wants a home:

Dear Madam:

In answer to your advertisement would say I am middle aged woman, plain, refined, American. Would be willing to assist with housework.

I am willing, obligeing if the duties are light. Would be very glad to fill a place in the country.

My last place I was attendant to elderly lady, night work, and I was asked to help with general housework; two much for me.

If you will kindley write and explain everything just what you would expect me to do.

I will call for personal interview, car fare paid, and if you will please tell me how to get there, you will oblige MISS ——.

P. S.—No postal cards, please, as I never get them in time.

A careful analysis of this letter would show a desire to become a Summer visitor at our house; certainly she has no desire to work. IRWIN D. SIEGEL.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

What is all this nonsense about Dr. Vucetich being the "originator" of the method of identification by fingerprints, as claimed in an interview with that gentleman in The New York Times to-day? The only person who could claim that title was my late friend and master, Sir Francis Galton. He published his method to the world in 1888, three years before Dr. Vucetich, on his own showing, had taken his first fingerprint, dated Sept. 1, 1891.

So well known was the method by that time that on July 2 of that year M. Fere published a memoir on Galton's results and methods in the transactions of the French Biological Society. Dr. Vucetich has no more claim to be the "originator" of the method than any of the thousands of police officials, anthropologists, and others who have used it during the past quarter of a century.

Dr. Vucetich must have a poor opinion of the intelligence of the American public and of the vigilance of American scientists if he thinks he can put forward such a claim with impunity. It is indeed very kind of him to have "given his invention to humanity," but as humanity possessed it before he "invented" it there is no need for any excessive gratitude in the matter.

TEACHERS WHO CAN'T SPELL

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a side line to the announcements in the newspapers of New York that so many of our public school teachers show by their letters to city educational officials that they are defective both in syntax and orthography, I'll bet a new spelling book that if letters could be discovered and examined which had been written by the "influence" behind those illiterate teachers they would be just as badly spelled and grammared. This is no reflection upon the Board of Examiners or the Civil Service Board, or whatever it is, that says a teacher is competent, nor yet upon the "influence" that lands the job—it is merely an offer to bet a spelling book, even, on a certain condition existing in New York's educational circles.

Far be it, gents, from me to hammar
What? ORTHOGRAM.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The layman, with the most implicit faith in the merits of the public schools, sends his child to school from the earliest age, depriving him of the benefits of fresh air and sunshine and outdoor physical amusements, expecting that his child would early acquire the seeds for greater knowledge from the most efficient teachers. It would not even remotely occur to him that the teacher himself is lacking in knowledge of the elementary subjects.

No doubt now we can look forward to some remedial measures, and it is practically certain that these cannot be radical enough, as public sentiment unquestionably will be greatly against those in authority who are responsible for this state of affairs.

FRANCIS ABRAMSON.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The matter of salary should be more intelligently considered than in the past. The citizens of New York are likely to find it increasingly difficult to secure competent, all-around teachers at the salaries now accepted by men and women of inferior attainment.

The common cry of "anything but teaching" heard among young college graduates of to-day comes from lips of those who see. It is not purely a cry of revolt against the hard work, the drudgery of long day and evening hours, the gratuitous services, which are, in fact, beyond price. Among those worthy of teaching that profession must ever be more or less in the nature of a charity. But a sufficient number of high-minded, well-educated men and women would still turn to educational work in schools if means were offered to provide them dignified livings commensurate with standards of living existing among people of their kind and habit.

THE KILLING OF BIRDS

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your dispatch regarding the devastation of the forest tent caterpillar on Long Island could be paralleled by the story of the ravages of a closely allied species in the counties of the Hudson River. In a letter to the writer, H. W. Henshaw, Chief of the United States Biological Survey, quotes Dr. E. P. Felt, New York State Entomologist, as saying:

> Among repressive measures, perhaps, nothing is so effective in forest entomology as encouraging or protecting the natural enemies of insects depredating on trees, chief among which may be ranked our native insectivorous birds. * * * The recent widespread and disastrous outbreaks of the forest tent caterpillar in New York may be charged, in part at least, to the abnormal scarcity of birds.

The Biological Survey gives the following birds as destroyers of the moth, larvae, or eggs of the orchard tent caterpillar, which is distinguished from its cousin of the forest by inconspicuous markings and a more exclusive taste in the species of tree which it infests. This is the list:

> Screech owl, yellow-billed cuckoo, black-billed cuckoo, hairy woodpecker, downy woodpecker, flicker, whippoorwill, chimney swift, wood pewee, bluejay, crow, purple grackle, Baltimore and orchard orioles, Brewer's blackbird, red-winged blackbird, white-throated, chipping, and field sparrows, chewink, rose-breasted grosbeak, scarlet tanager, cedarbird, the vireos—red-eyed, white-eyed, warbling, and yellow-throated; the warblers—black-and-white, golden-winged, Nashville, black-throated, blue, parula and yellow; redstart, house wren, brown thrasher, catbird, tufted titmouse, Carolina, black-capped and chestnut-backed chickadees, white-breasted nuthatch, and robin.

We have laws against the shooting of birds, but it still goes on. Let every reader who is in the country, look at these hideous webs covering hundreds of ruined trees, and ask himself whether he is doing his part toward stopping bird murder. The crisis against which we have vainly warned is upon us. The insect pests are beginning to increase beyond all bounds. Let everyone at once and sternly follow up every reported violation of the bird protection law and secure some much-needed convictions, if we would preserve the remnant of our birds.

UNHAPPY MARRIAGES.

It is interesting and amusing to observe the present awakening of clergymen to the importance of eugenics in marriage, and their sudden resolution not to marry couples who are not morally and physically fit. It is interesting because they are waking suddenly, and it is amusing that they are looking about them in the dazed and foolish manner of sleepers waking suddenly. Why did they not wake up long ago—a hundred years ago—as long ago as clergymen assumed the prerogative of celebrating the rite of marriage? Allowing that in the beginning they could not have drawn the line, they could certainly have done so as late as a century ago, and if they had what a different social condition we would have now among all religious beliefs!

The matter has been almost wholly in their hands among civilized people, and if the clergymen had used only the common knowledge of their day they would have known the serious consequences of indiscriminate marriage and put a stop to it for the good of the race. But they did not use their knowledge, and submitting to a silly sentiment they, with their eyes open and their common sense and backbone out of commission, continued a course which it will require a hundred years of all their awakened sense to make straight as it should be.

I don't know what the clergymen think about their part in the woes of wedlock, but the great majority of sensible people must see that the blame rests upon them for failure to do the right thing when they knew it was the right thing to do. Isn't it the Bible which says something about what is coming to those who having eyes see not?

New York Times Index.

(From the Buffalo News.)

The New York Times Index for the first quarter of the current year is received. It is edited by subjects, dates, synopses, cross references, and so on. The notes relate chiefly to publications in The Times itself, but the essaying is carefully appropriate to important news from day to day, as to be almost a perfect index of the course of events in all countries since the opening of the year. It is probably the most elaborate, most carefully and accurately handled piece of work of its kind in our country, and we do not know anything abroad that even assumes to rival it.

Even the progress of European measures is noted from day to day, and there is hardly a subject that one can think of that is of more than purely personal interest that is not touched upon in some way in this admirable volume. The price of the Index is $6 in paper and $8 in cloth, by the year; single copies at one-fourth of those rates.

RESENTED AS EXTORTION

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Income Tax bill now before Congress is an expression of that growing prejudice and misconception that would proscribe intelligence and ability and put a ban upon individual effort and ambition. There is a growing feeling abroad that if anybody be permitted to become rich, such favored persons ought to carry the burdens of their poor and unfortunate neighbors. Not being willing to do so of their own volition, the Creator not having made men free from personal ambitions, legislators undertake to force their selfish inclinations.

One of the chief promoters of this class legislation, a man from Tennessee, has candidly and boldly said that the Democratic Party would not dare put such tax upon all incomes, and thereby treat all citizens alike. He indicated that such a tax put upon small incomes would soon sweep the Democratic Party from power. He apparently knew that the tax would be obnoxious and oppressive, but seemed to have had no scruple about that so long as it affected such a small minority of voters that the party would be in no danger from them. If this measure covered all incomes it might be objectionable, even obnoxious, but would not be unjust. There would be no prejudice, class feeling, or demagogy in it. If the party lost power by reason of its passage, that would be because people generally did not like that kind of tax, and no hatreds or sense of wrong would be generated. If the Government were economically administered, and there were still need for that kind of taxation, the rich would as cheerfully as other people pay a tax that covered all incomes alike. But they would not be human if they did not resent being singled out for the payment of an objectionable tax because they could not help themselves.

As a matter of fact, however, the Government is not now economically administered, and the Democratic pretexts of economy are a sham, because the party has helped pass some of the most uncalled-for and wasteful legislation ever enacted. But for this circumstance the tariff might be reduced aplenty and still leave ample revenues for the most generously administered Government known in all the history of nations. But Democrats help outrage the people with extortionate legislation, and then saddle the extortion upon a small class which they indicate are impotent to help themselves.

The false pretense is sometimes made that the rich do not pay their just proportion of the taxes and cost of government. This is a mere subterfuge, and is not true. Such men as Carnegie, Rockefeller, the Vanderbilts, and others known to be immensely rich are listed and paraded in the papers as paying insignificant taxes. But the possessions of such men are mainly in stocks and bonds of corporations which are duly assessed for taxation, which they pay just like other people, and careful observation and investigation will generally discover the fact that there is less chance for evasion and dodging on the part of large property owners and notably rich people than of other taxpayers. Democratic advocates of an income tax imposition therefore have nothing to bear them out in the claim that as a class persons of large incomes ought in common justice pay such a tax. There is far more truth and manliness in the bold statement of the Tennessee Congressman, who, in effect, says that this tax is to be levied on rich people because they cannot help themselves—in which I trust and believe that he may be mistaken.

It may be said that this question is wholly apart from stock-watered, overgrown fortunes, monopoly, and trust manipulations, regarding which things there may be just occasion for regulation and legislation.

Office Building "Graft."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The petty grafting on the part of large office building owners is common, as the attorney for the Broadway Park Place states. In this building it includes sign painting, towel supply, &c., for which the tenants pay a little in advance of the regular prices. The under and upper world is full of graft. Kindly keep us posted as to the outcome of this case.

A VICTIM.

THE END SEAT.

Said a thoughtful man, as he boarded a car—
'Twas one of the open kind—
"How horribly selfish some people are!
Others' comfort they ne'er seem to mind.

And this one will I take;
I will sit at the further end—not here—
And so no trouble will make."

A damsel came in, with a huge suitcase,
(She was very pretty and sweet;)
She sat herself down in the middle space,
With the suitcase at her feet.

The next that came was a woman fat,
Who into the first place dropped;
She wore a tremendous "picture hat,"
Which spread, and waved, and flopped.

And all scrambled up amain;
While a slender youth who followed—he Looked for a seat in vain.

So he pushed along to the further end
And perched on the rail at the side.
Thought the thoughtful man: "These incidents lend

Anon his destined goal he gains,
And rises to depart.
And now begins this nice man's pains;
The car made sudden start.

He stumbled over the big suitcase;
With apologies, he bowed.
His elbow struck the baby's face,
Whereat she bawled aloud.

He stooped to soothe the crying child,
And then his hat fell off,
(At that the sweet young lady smiled,
And had a violent cough.)

He'd soon be free—and glad of that—
As nobody near could doubt;
And pulled a hatpin out.

No more he paused with words of peace,
Although the woman glared;
He only sought his own release,
And for naught else he cared.

To himself now said the thoughtful man,
As he wiped his moistened brow:
"From this time forth, whenever I can,

MONEY COMMITTEE STARTS WITH FIGHT

Progressive Member Wants Banking and Currency Discussed in Open Meetings.

TO THRASH OUT QUESTION

WASHINGTON, June 6.—When the House Banking and Currency Committee met to-day to prepare the proposed legislation on banking and currency, Representative Lindbergh of Minnesota, Progressive, offered a motion that all future meetings of the committee be open to the public. An attempt to table the motion was made and lost. Then a sub-committee was appointed to consider it and report at the next meeting. Representative Bulkley of Ohio is Chairman of this sub-committee. Its other members are Representatives Wingo of Arkansas, Seldomridge of Colorado, Platt of New York, and Smith of Minnesota.

Mr. Lindbergh's motion was in accordance with the definite policy which the third party members of the House have adopted. They have gone on record against closed, or secret caucuses, and against secret committee work behind closed doors.

The Bulkley sub-committee probably will grant a hearing on the Lindbergh proposal. Three of the Progressive Party members have been designated to appear with arguments in favor of "lifting the lid" from everything connected with the formulation of legislation involving monetary reforms. Representatives Murdock, Lindbergh, and Kelly are to argue for the third party men for this propaganda.

Members of the committee insisted that the reference of the Lindbergh motion to the Bulkley sub-committee should not be interpreted as a decision for or against open sessions. The purpose, they said, was to give the Lindbergh proposal fair consideration on its merits. A canvass of the committee indicates that its membership is about evenly divided over the Lindbergh idea. Some favor it, enthusiastically, others are equally strong in their opposition, while some are doubtful. In all probability the matter will be passed over to the Democratic caucus for ultimate decision.

The members of the new committee were in session scarcely long enough to-day to get acquainted with one another. All except seven of its twenty-one members are newly chosen. They do not know each other's views on banking and currency matters, and there has been no crystallization of sentiment.

Several members asked Chairman Carter Glass for enlightenment regarding plans for the consideration of banking and currency legislation. Mr. Glass responded that he was unable to furnish much information. He said, however, that President Wilson was very anxious for the enactment of currency legislation and would like to see it enacted during the special session. Mr. Glass told his colleagues he thought that in about ten days there would be something tangible which the committee might consider. This was interpreted as meaning that something would be transmitted to the committee from President Wilson.

It developed to-day that members of the committee were much in earnest in their desire to obtain results along non-partisan lines in the proposed legislation. The Republican members of the committee are ready to co-operate with the Democrats and the lone Progressive along these lines. But some of the Republican members said that if President Wilson urged the Democrats to introduce and stand behind an "Administration" Banking and Currency bill politics would be injected into the matter.

BRITISH PRINCE AT NIAGARA.

King George's Second Son on American Soil Incognito.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 6.—Prince Albert Frederick George, second son of King George of England, accompanied by sixty cadets of his Majesty's ship Cumberland, now at Quebec, arrived here from Toronto shortly after noon to-day. The Prince and his party made the trip by boat to Lewiston, and came here by trolley along the American side of the gorge.

The Prince, who is 17 years old, traveled incognito, and his companions refused to point him out. The party visited the State Reservation on Goat Island, and crossed the international bridge to Niagara Falls, Ontario, where they took luncheon at a hotel. Later they left by trolley down the Canadian side of the river gorge.

"This is my first trip to the continent and the first time I have stood under the Stars and Stripes on American soil," said the Prince, when finally identified by a group of newspaper men. "We are having an excellent trip and enjoying ourselves immensely."

In visiting the Niagara Falls the Prince is following precedents established by his father and grandfather. The late King Edward visited Niagara Falls in 1861, and King George was here on Sept. 27, 1883.

FIGHT OVER REID WILL.

Special to The New York Times.

PASSAIC, N. J., June 6.—An appeal from the probate of the will of the late Peter Reid, pioneer manufacturer and millionaire philanthropist, who died here on Dec. 7, 1912, was filed to-day with Surrogate Beggs by ex-Judge Francis Scott and ex-Senator Wood McKee. The will was admitted to probate on Dec. 24. Eight first cousins, not mentioned in the will, entered the contest.

The petitioners assert that Mr. Reid was not in possession of all his faculties when he made his will; that when he made the codicils, he was out of his mind and under undue influence; that the will and codicils were not the product of the testator's will, but the will of certain other persons. The estate is valued at almost $3,000,000. Of this $340,000 was left to Passaic charities; $909,000 was bequeathed to relatives, of which $640,000 went to relatives in Scotland, and $1,575,000 was divided pro rata among the legatees. Mr. Reid died a widower without any lineal heirs. The will was made July 1, 1906, at Springfield, Mass. Codicils were added the same day, also on Oct. 20, 1908, and on Oct. 3, 1910.

WHEELER ESTATE $250,000.

MINEOLA, L. I., June 6.—The will of the late Henry A. Wheeler, for many years President of the Nassau National Bank of Glen Cove, and an agent of the Long Island Railroad, who died at his home at Glen Cove last May, was filed to-day for probate in the Nassau County Surrogate's Court.

Mr. Wheeler leaves an estate of $250,000. To his wife, Anna Elizabeth, is bequeathed $17,000 and a joint life interest with her daughter Sylvia in properties in Glen Cove. The daughter receives $20,000 in cash. Other bequests include $10,000 to a son Charles, in trust, and the lifeinterest in property in Glen Cove. Another son, Harry E., receives $5,000 in trust; Edward R., $10,000 in trust, and a son, Corbin, $20,000, all with real estate added respectively. The residue is divided equally between Mrs. Wheeler and her children.

2,000 ATTEND FETE AT MARQUAND FARM

$2,500 FOR NURSING FUND

BEDFORD HILLS, N. Y., June 6.—White Gates Farm, the beautiful Summer home of Mrs. Henry Marquand, about a mile from this village, was the scene this afternoon of a fashionable gathering. Society women turned out in large numbers, donned costumes representing all nations, and aided in serving tea and selling articles for the benefit of the District Nursing Association in Westchester County. It is estimated that at least $2,500 was realized from the fête.

"Vanity Fair Fête" was organized by many well-known New York women, and the bowers and booths were spread under the huge trees on the immense farm. Some of the booths were in charge of Mrs. Seth Low, representing the Empress of China, at the Chinese booth; Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Jr., at the Italian booth; Mrs. Charles S. Brown, at the Spanish booth; Mrs. Benjamin Wistar Morris, in charge of the tea room, and Mrs. William Fahnestock, in charge of one of the other booths.

Attached to each of these booths, suitably costumed, was a bevy of girls who served tea and sold the articles from their booths. The costumes worn by these young women had been obtained from the Metropolitan Opera House, in Manhattan.

Special to The New York Times.

NOTED SHIPBUILDER, C. H. CRAMP, DEAD

LEARNED IN THE YARDS

Built Ships for Our Navy and Many Other Powers, as Well as Merchantmen.

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—Charles H. Cramp, former head of the shipbuilding firm of William Cramp & Sons, died at noon to-day after a lingering illness at the home of his son, Courtland D. Cramp, 2113 Delancey Street.

Mr. Cramp, who was 85 years old May 9, had been in feeble health for some time. A month or so ago he began to grow weaker and sank gradually. His sons, Courtland and Frank Cramp and other members of his family were with him when he passed away.

Charles Henry Cramp was born in Philadelphia May 9, 1828, son of a shipbuilder, William Cramp, who founded on the Delaware River in 1830 the plant that has become one of the greatest shipbuilding companies in the world. The son was educated in the public schools and was graduated from the Central High School in his native city. Immediately thereafter, before he was 17, he began to learn the practical work of ship construction in the yards of his uncle, John Birely. Three years later he went to work for his father, continuing under his direction in the study of naval architecture until 1859, when he became a partner in the business, then known as William Cramp & Sons.

In 1879, after the death of his father, Charles H. Cramp became the head of the business, which in 1872 had been incorporated as the William Cramp & Sons' Ship and Engine Building Company. From that time on the firm was an important factor in the building of the new American Navy, and similarly in the development of foreign navies. This included the fitting out of four vessels for the Russian Navy in 1879. At that period naval architects abroad who had charge of navy yards were all educated at schools of naval architecture.

There were few men, if any, so prominent in the building of navies as Charles H. Cramp, who had worked his way up from his father's workbench. In an interview with the Grand Duke Constantine, the greatuncle of the present Emperor of Russia, and head of the Russian Navy, when the Cramps furnished the four ships, the Duke asked the American shipbuilder:

"In what school of naval architecture were you educated?"

Mr. Cramp replied:

"Your Imperial Highness, when I graduated from my father's shipyard as a naval architect there were no schools of naval architecture. I belong to a race that made the schools of naval architecture."

The Cramps built the successor to the battleship Maine, destroyed in Havana Harbor. The second battleship Maine was built in 1902. While the firm has been prominent in naval construction it has also built many of the largest merchant ships. The "penalty system" in naval construction was first proposed by Charles H. Cramp. This penalty system, which provided for deducting a certain sum for every unit of power short of the contract guaranty, was agreed to when William C. Whitney was Secretary of the Navy. To make the contract entirely equitable, Secretary Whitney suggested that there should also be a corresponding premium for excess of performance.

In the civil war the Cramps built armor over wooden vessels that were known as "ironsides," and through the stages of development from wooden to the first iron and steel war vessels the firm has advanced to the present day steel and armored dreadnoughts. Seven ships could be constructed at one time at the Cramp shipyards, where frequently 8,000 men were employed at one time, and where the weekly payroll sometimes totaled $84,000.

MAGICIANS IN A REAL ACT.

A Long Course Dinner Disappears and They Entertain Themselves.

More than one hundred magicians, amateur and professional, took part in the great act of making a long course dinner disappear last night at the Hotel Marseilles, the occasion being the Ninth Annual Dinner of the Society of American Magicians.

Afterward, the diners were entertained by volunteer talent drawn from their own numbers, including Julius Dresbach, Farrin of Boston, the great Laurens and Theodore Bamberg, who, according to Francis J. Werner of the Press Committee, has appeared before crowned heads, "including the King of Siam, the late Mikado, and ex-President Taft." These sleight-of-hand artists performed on an improvised stage amid great applause from their brother magicians.

Among those present were Henry Hatton, President of the society; Dr. Lionel M. Homburger, First Vice President and Chairman of the Executive Committee; Dr. Saram Ellison, Treasurer; F. J. Martinka, Harry Rouclere, and others well known in the world of magic.

The Pressburg Relief Committee, which was organized here after the fire which destroyed the City of Pressburg, Austria, on May 17, has arranged for a mass meeting to be held next Sunday evening at the auditorium of the Educational Alliance, 197 East Broadway, to raise funds to help in the rebuilding of the Rabbinical High School at Pressburg.

When the Rabbinical school was destroyed a library which contained a notable collection of books upon Judaism was burned and a portion of the funds raised in this country will be devoted to restoring the library.

Louis Friedman, Secretary of the Relief Committee, said yesterday that Pressburg had been for three centuries the "centring point for the stream of literature concerning Judaism from all over the world." He added that the damage done by the conflagration of May 17 amounted to $2,000,000, and that it was a loss to people who had done a great deal in times past for the relief of Jews who were driven out of Russia. The relief funds raised in this country will be turned over to Albert Kohn, founder of the Universal Israelitish Alliance, with headquarters in Paris. This organization will administer the relief funds raised in every portion of the globe.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

After making a low record for the year the market became noteworthily strong yesterday afternoon, and the general level of quotations closed at a net gain for the day for the first time since May 24. One view which prevailed early yesterday in the more optimistic quarters of the financial district, and one on which an early upturn in prices was foreshadowed, was that during the very weak markets of the last few days short selling had borne an undue proportion to the amount of actual liquidation, and that the position of the short interest was only comfortable so long as it could keep the movement of prices downward. There seemed to be less selling of long stock yesterday than on any day of the week, and though pressure against the market succeeded in establishing somewhat lower prices than had previously been reached no very large amount of stock came out on the decline. Further absorption on a quiet scale was also under way, and for the first time in many days the Street heard of purchases of stock by some of the larger interests which had not lately been buying. These considerations and the natural disposition on the part of traders short of stock to seize the profits which the market offered them combined to bring about enough buying to result in a brisk recovery. With a change in prices sentiment improved, and the close was strong at practically the best prices of the session. In contrast with the very heavy selling from abroad, which was an important factor in breaking prices at the begining of the week, Europe, the day's estimates indicated, was a buyer of stocks in this market yesterday. Canadian Pacific, which had suffered heavily under foreign liquidation, made a net gain of nearly five points.

In no quarter did there apear to be a disposition to assume that the market had become entirely free of the widespread liquidation which had weighed so heavily on the market on the earlier days of the week, but there were found many more adherents of the view that for the time being the pressure of liquidation had exerted its full effect upon prices. The considerations which prompted the upturn had to do more with the internal affairs of the market than with any news developments of the day, for these of themselves presented no new aspect. The remarks of the head of one of the great international banking houses upon his return from abroad took cognizance of the widespread prevalence of the view that conditions have been shaping themselves for an upheaval, a view which seems to prevail more widely outside of Wall Street than within it. He pointed out that the corrective influences now at work, granting the speedy enactment of the proper sort of tariff law and of a sound currency reform law, made it altogether probable that the country would escape any serious revulsion. It has been perfectly clear that preparation has been under way in banking quarters to meet any strain to which the money and credit markets might be put, and it is now coming to be more generally believed that the preparations will themselves have the effect of greatly lessening any possible money stress.

One of the explanations of the recent European selling and of the tendency which discount rates have shown (the London rate was again slightly higher yesterday) is that the European markets have been looking forward to the semi-annual settlements at the end of this month, and have been taking forehanded action to be amply prepared to meet the requirements of that time. The increasing abundance here of money for day-to-day use, while time money in all departments has been showing great firmness, is one of the indications that the banks have been laying up resources against future needs. The readjustment of the investment position is a slow process, but it is very plain that it is actively under way, and that borrowers are having it forcibly brought home to them that they must limit their demands as much as possible. That being done the supply of investment capital will gradually catch up with the output of securities. A sidelight was thrown yesterday on the great firmness which prevails in the time money market by offerings of the new issue of New York State short-term notes at prices slightly under the average realized by the State at Thursday's sale.

More Cheer in Wall Street.

While the trend of stock prices since Monday has been of the sort to please the bears alone, a more cheerful spirit has been in evidence in commission houses than at any time of the Spring and Summer. The chief reason is, of course, that a lively market means a substantial increase of earnings for brokers over a dull market, but, aside from this phase, the week's abrupt broadening of trading has brightened the atmosphere of brokerage offices by bringing many people to the Street who have not been seen for months. Bargain hunters have appeared, not in great force, but in sufficient numbers, nevertheless, to swell the attendance in customers' rooms largely, and their close attention to ticker and quotation board has disseminated a more vigorous appearance of real business than was shown in many weeks preceding.

Activity Brings Comparisons.

A five-hundred-thousand-share day's business is not large in comparison with high records of the Exchange, but it is large enough to keep the majority of brokers on the floor fairly busy. A turnover of this size, or greater, means that numerous houses which have a balance on the wrong side of their books are able to contemplate their carrying charges with satisfaction. When it is considered that there have been long stretches of time in the last year and more in which the daily average has not exceeded 250,000 shares, it can be seen why the week's expansion of operations has revived drooping spirits in many quarters of the Wall Street district. The average for the five days has been approximately 550,000 shares. In discussing this showing after the close of the market yesterday a broker was moved to speak of his sensations upon returning from Europe late in May, after a trip of nearly a month. While he was away, he said, stocks were kept out of mind, and he hoped to learn upon coming down to his office that business had revived in his absense. He found, on the contrary, that the daily average had been 223,000 shares. This figured down to an average of about 200 shares a day for each of the 1,100 members of the board, or $25 in commissions to each member, provided he received the full rate. He reckoned, however, that nearly three-quarters of this trading had been done on a "$2 per hundred" basis, so that there was by no means $25 a day coming to meet running expenses, far in excess of this figure for the average member.

The balance sheet of the Standard Oil Company of Kentucky for 1912 stopped rumors of a forthcoming stock dividend of 1,400 per cent. in connection with an increase of the capital from $1,000,000 to $15,000,000. Official statements that the company was not in a position to make so great a disbursement from surplus, even though the laws of Kentucky should permit it, had little effect on the spreading of reports in regard to a melon cutting, but the surplus figures acted effectively toward this end. They showed, in the balance sheet, that the company's treasury held no more than $2,799,252 credited to the surplus account, an amount equivalent to about 280 per cent. on the outstanding shares.

In the old days which graybeards in the Street can still remember, a public offering of bonds by any reputable banker on any reputable property used to be followed a few minutes after the hour set for opening the bids by an announcement that "the issue was heavily oversubscribed and the books have been closed." An announcement with a reminiscent sound was made yesterday, but it had nothing to do with the bond market. It was to the effect that all of the boxes and seats in the west stand had been quickly oversubscribed for the polo matches. Brokers who read this decided that some people still have money, even if they are not buying stocks and bonds at the bargain prices which Wall Street has been offering lately.

Wanted—A Leader.

It was the general opinion among a large number of floor traders who were interviewed yesterday that most of the people who were in this market believed that prices would quickly make up a large part of their last dip if there were a strong leader to guide operations. The Wall Street Journal holds that "as it stands now, the market needs no manipulation, but it never lacked a leader so badly. All of the big banking houses have troubles of their own; and the financial district is clearing decks and taking in sail on the expectation that it may be necessary, as it has been many times in the past, for Wall Street to shoulder the extravagance and inflation of the rest of the country."

The Wicked Stock Exchange.

One of the Brooklyn newspapers has been crying "Shame!" upon the New York Stock Exchange for a new evil, the existence of which, say the brokers, was never suspected by them until the exposure was made. In a strong editorial it was said that the Exchange was conducting a poolroom for the acceptance of bets on the international polo contest, and that the odds were posted daily on a floor bulletin. Any one wanting to place a wager on either team had only to walk over to the board, take a look at the official odds, and exchange a memorandum with the betting commissioner, it would appear. As a matter of fact, betting is illegal on the floor of the Exchange, just as if it were done in the street outside, and brokers say that the law is observed. There are no odds posted anywhere. Wherever men congregate differences of opinion will develop over the comparative ability of athletes, horses or automobiles, and these differences are likely to lead to wagers. The betting talk on the polo matches has mostly been heard in the Exchange corridors, where brokers go for a hurried smoke, or over the luncheon tables.

Prices Improve in London and Berlin Markets—Trading Dull in Paris.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, June 7.—The Times in its City article this morning says:

"Rates for short money were unaltered, and the supply was adequate for the day's requirements. A small amount that was due the Bank of England was repaid.

"There was a distinct improvement of tone on the Stock Exchange. A feeling of comparative cheerfulness prevailed in all departments, as the result chiefly of the drastic liquidation which was effected earlier in the week. Sales were few, and as a rule were well taken owing to the eagerness of operators for the fall to reduce their positions in view of the decline in prices that had been established, and a further contraction of bull account.

"The chief exception to the pretty general rise is the fall in consols, due to the firmness of the discount rate.

"Last, but not least, further progress was made in disposing of the securities held by the firm which failed on Tuesday, another block of stock having been placed in strong hands. The skillful manner in which this business has been carried out materially assisted in reviving general confidence.

"The difficulties we have been experiencing is partly due to the exaggerated ideas, which too many holders entertained regarding the market value of the securities they were interested in. They persisted in ignoring the enormous magnitude of the volume of securities, created during the last year or two, and behaved as if 'the intrinsic merits' of what they had to sell were the sole element which ought to be considered in market valuation.

"While yesterday's improvement was a cause for satisfaction, it is necessary to observe that the recovery is no safe basis for a resumption of exuberant hopes. It is still necessary to proceed with caution, for the results of a year or more of overtrading cannot be got rid of by a few days' liquidation. But it is a hopeful fact that the process of 'drawing in' has been begun before Autumn."

PARIS, June 6.—Trading was dull on the Bourse to-day.

BERLIN, June 6.—Trading was quiet, and prices improved slightly on the Boerse to-day. Canadian Pacific was firm and higher.

BROKERS GIVING UP.

A. S. Leland & Co., Retiring, Say Legislation Has Killed the Business.

Arthur S. Leland & Co., members of the New York and Boston Stock Exchanges, with offices in this city at 26 Exchange Place, have announced that they will go out of business on July 1. The partnership expires on that date, and the members of the firm decided about six months ago that business in stocks, present and prospective, looked so uncertain that they would not continue.

"We are going out of business on account of too much legislation, both at Albany and Washington," said Mr. Leland yesterday. "There is nothing ahead, so far as I can determine, to warrant the continuation of either a New York or Boston office."

Mr. Leland refused to make public his views on particular measures admitted to the statute books recently which he thought would be detrimental to trading in securities. Customers were advised yesterday of the dissolution, and were asked to take up or transfer their accounts before June 20. All claims against the firm will be paid on demand.

The decision of A. S. Leland & Co. to retire was a decided surprise to Wall Street. The firm has been prominent ever since it was formed, twenty-three years ago. It succeeded the house of Leland, Towle & Co., which was organized in 1890. The members are Arthur S. Leland, Clarkson Potter, the Stock Exchange member; Herbert M. Leland, member of the Boston Exchange; Wilder B. Hodsdon, George E. Howe, Paul Girardin, and Alexander C. Wright.

Mr. Leland's statement that restrictive legislation was the primary cause of the firm's withdrawal from the Street was discussed widely by brokers yesterday. Those who agreed with him pointed out that other matters now being discussed by Congress, including the valuation of railroad properties and the revision of the currency system, were to be looked upon with as much apprehension as possible disturbers of securities as legislation already passed.

NOT DONE WITH GARY.

Percival Roberts, Jr., concluded his testimony in the suit for the dissolution of the United States Steel Corporation yesterday. The session was devoted to efforts on the part of J. M. Dickinson, counsel for the Government, to show that many specific statements made by Mr. Roberts were not based on his own knowledge, but on what others had told him. The entire day was consumed in going over technical questions of steel manufacture and pooling arrangements before the formation of the Steel Corporation, with this end in view.

At the continuation of the hearings on Monday, the cross-examination of E. H. Gary, Chairman of the Steel Corporation, is to begin, according to the present programme.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Short covering on a heavy scale marked the late afternoon dealings on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. The early market had been rather unsettled, but a rally started soon after midday, which gathered momentum as the session progressed. In many sections of the list the bears found stocks in light supply on the advance, so that they had to bid sharply in order to cover. There was an active business on the 9:30 o'clock opening call, the transactions in the half hour before dealings began elsewhere in Wall Street aggregating 7,740 shares. Prices on the call generally reflected advances compared with the night before.

CARING FOR FRISCO BONDS.

Speyer & Co. and the Bankers' Trust Company has arranged that holders of the St. Louis & San Francisco general lien bonds may deposit them with their agents in Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis, London, Berlin, Amsterdam, Antwerp, and Zurich. Engraved certificates of the Trust Company are now ready to be exchanged for the bonds.

The H. H. Porter estate has nominally resumed control of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois by electing a new Board of Directors. The Protective Committee already has more than the two-thirds of the outstanding stock necessary to cancel the agreement with the Frisco, and it is expected that the reorganization of the smaller road can be completed at a much earlier date than that of the Frisco proper.

The committees formed to protect the interests of common and preferred shareholders of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois have found their interests practically identical and have been merged.

Holders of the 4 per cent. refunding bonds will not ask the appointment of a receiver to represent their interests, on the theory that conditions do not warrant the non-payment of interest on this issue.

Public Utilities Earning More.

The earnings statement of the American Public Utilities Company for the seven months ended April 30 shows a surplus, after interest on bonds and dividends on the preferred stock, of $204,266. For the seven months gross earnings from operations were $1,403,552, as against $1,238,960 in 1912, an increase of 13.2 per cent. The net earnings were $649,872, as against $565,556 in 1912, an increase of 14.9 per cent.

SCHIFF LOOKS FOR REVIVAL OF TRADE

AMERICA PROVING SOLIDITY

Banker Sees in Lack of Depression from Political Changes an Encouraging Sign.

Jacob H. Schiff and his wife returned yesterday on the Cunard liner Mauretania from Liverpool, after a four-months' tour in Egypt and Europe. Mr. Schiff appeared to be optimistic as to the business future of the United States and Europe, and said that, although business was pressed at present, owing to a number of causes, he looked for an early revival. Speaking of conditions in this country, Mr. Schiff said:

"We are for the time being in the United States in a transitory state, and the effects are making themselves felt. The change from an extreme protctive to a more moderate tariff must necessarily bring about an economic readjustment, which cannot be completed without producing more or less unsettlement, and it is rather to be wondered at—and is proof of the sound and substantial condition of the affairs of the country—that trade and commerce appear so far to have suffered little. From this it may be hoped that the process we are undergoing may not produce the upheaval which it has been feared will come. And as legislation for a prudent reform of the currency is due to follow promptly a proper revision of the tariff, it is altgether likely that we shall escape serious revulsion, and become even stronger commercially and financially than we have been heretofore.

"For the time being the whole world is suffering from excessive demands upon capital, the supply of which falls to a considerable extent short of requirements. Aside from the fact that new demands for capital, not heretofore existing, have sprung up, such as have arisen, for instance, fro mthe awakening of China, from the results of the Balkan war, from the large armaments being made in European and far Eastern countries, the activity and enormous expansion everywhere of trade and industry have absorbed and more or less locked up such huge sums that the funds usually available for investments have shrunk to rather small proportions. Before lon, however, this wave of extreme industrial and commercial activity is likely to recede, because credit facilities and the supply of means to carry it on will of necessity become curtailed. And it is thus that the supply of capital will automatically grow more plentiful and all financial centres will get relief."

Mr. Schiff appeared to be in the best of health and said he had enjoyed his holiday abroad.

H. P. Davison, Nelson W. Aldrich, F. N. Hoffstot Among Those Aboard.

The Cunard liner Mauretania arrived yesterday forenoon from Liverpool with 355 first cabin, 275 second, and 1,157 third class passengers, and made the passage of 2,906 miles from Daunt's Rock to the Ambrose Channel Lightship in 5 days 2 hours and 18 minutes, at an average speed of 23.76 knots an hour. Capt. W. T. Turner said that the ship had been delayed by fog, which was encountered before reaching Nantucket Lightship on Thursday, and he had been on the bridge from 1:30 that afternoon until she anchored in Quarantine at 8:08 yesterday morning.

Henry P. Davison, partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., was among the passengers. He had nothing to say on any subject, he said. Former United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, with his wife and daughter, and John E. Roosevelt, accompanied by his three children, also returned on the Mauretania. F. N. Hoffstot, President of the Pressed Steel Car Company, said that the most interesting thing he had seen in Europe was the increasing activity of American harvesting machinery, and more was now being sold in England and on the Continent than ever before.

Percy G. Williams, the former vaudeville manager, returned on the Mauretania with his wife. They had not recovered from the shock they received in the news by wireless of the sudden death of their son Victor on Sunday last, of heart disease.

For such payments to be made by the Depositors under said Plan and Agreement, and in exchange for the bonds deposited by them, the Depositors will be entitled to receive, upon the completion of the Reorganization under said Plan, in case said Plan shall have been declared operative, for each $350 in cash, paid by them,

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Decimal Carat for England.

Meyer D. Rothschild, Chairman of the American Decimal Carat Committee, received yesterday a letter from G. E. M. Johnson, Secretary of the Decimal Association, London, inclosing a communication which Mr. Johnson had received from P. A. MacMahon, Deputy Warden of the Standards. The letter says:

> Sir: In reply to your letter of the 21st of May respecting the adoption of the metric carat in the sale of diamonds and other precious stones, I have to acquaint you that the department has now decided to take steps to make the metric carat and its necessary multiples and sub-multiples standard weights in the United Kingdom, and that an order in Council giving effect to this decision will probably be issued this year. I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
> P. A. MacMAHON,
> Deputy Warden of the Standards.

The use of the new 200-milligram carat will begin here on July 1. Until recently England had been the only leading civilized country in the world that had not given it official recognition.

Anti-Piracy Convention Approved.

The proposed convention of representatives of the various trades affected by design stealing is meeting general approval. Even the firms that have themselves been accused of pirating have taken a favorable view of the project and have pledged their support. This is especially true of the lace and embroidery trade, which is said to be more seriously affected by the evil than any other. Lawyers and representatives of the Government Patent Office will address the convention if present plans are carried out, and anti-piracy legislation will be framed.

Kesner Sale Prices Good.

Prices continued to keep up well yesterday at the sale of the stock of the J. L. Kesner Company. The merchandise offered during the day was largely of a staple nature, and brought from 60 to 80 cents on the dollar of its cost to the firm. Dress goods brought the lowest average price of the day, due, it was said, to the agitation over Schedule K at Washington. Silks and corsets and muslin undergarments averaged 65 cents on the dollar, while white goods and linens brought 80 per cent. of the cost price. Charmeuse that regularly sold at wholesale at $1.20 a yard, brought $1 at the sale, and illustrated the general price range. A bulk offer of $6,400 was made by one buyer for the wash goods and linens, but it was refused. When auctioned off these goods brought $7,973. Total sales for the first five days amounted to $88,000.

May Increase Sales of Petticoats.

Wholesalers of petticoats read with interest the report in yesterday's TIMES that the Police Department of Indianapolis had been instructed to make wearers of the split skirt in that city also wear these garments. It was said that there had been a fairly good sale of colored petticoats in New York and vicinity, but that sales in other parts of the country had not kept pace. "It's a pity Indianapolis isn't as big as New York," one manufacturer said. "If it was, we might get back some of the money we have lost since tight skirts came in."

German Advertisers Interested.

The convention of American advertisers and advertising agents, to begin in Baltimore next Tuesday, has aroused international interest. Three important German advertising associations, the Association of German Advertising Experts, the Union of Press Advertisers, both of Berlin, and the Association of Advertisers of Mannheim have sent Christian A. Kupferberg of Mainz as their official representative to the convention.

"Germany is ahead of both France and England in newspaper and outdoor advertising," said Mr. Kupferberg yesterday. "Americans are ahead of any nation in advertising ideas, and doubtless have made a better study of the scientific features of advertising. There is more intensive newspaper advertising carried on in the United States than in any other country. The proposed tariff reductions will doubtless stimulate German export trade to America and manufacturers in many lines will be benefited by the reduced tariff."

Speaking of newspaper advertising Mr. Kupferberg remarked: "German advertisers need special advertising service. That is one thing they lack. They feel the necessity of reliable information about American advertising and newspaper situation. A well-organized service can stimulate considerable advertising business for America."

DRY GOODS TRADE IS LIVELY

Special to The New York Times.

"A surprisingly large volume of merchandise was distributed as a result of the pre-inventory clearance sale held during the first three days of the week. The fact that buyers were in a position to take advantage liberally of attractive offerings in all departments discloses a very satisfactory condition of retail stocks throughout the country.

"Even with backward selling weather in some sections, merchants have been doing a normal business, and many report a gain in their stock turn-over as compared with a year ago. Retailers were in the market from all parts of the country, although most of the visitors came from within a radius of 500 miles. Our shipping department has worked to capacity the greater part of the week in order to get the merchandise into the hands of retailers promptly.

Caustic Potash Still Duty Free—Saddles Gain Reductions.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday sustained a protest by A. Klipstein & Co., relating to the classification under the Tariff act of 1909, of caustic potash. Collector Loeb assessed 25 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 3, as a chemical compound. Free entry was asked by the importers under Paragraph 655, covering caustic potash. The testimony showed that for many years the commodity in question had enjoyed free entry, but recently the Government analyst concluded that it was not commercially known as caustic potash.

The board reduced the assessment on saddles imported by M. A. Graser-Rothe, and others of Cincinnati, returned at 35 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 461, Act of 1909, as composed in chief value of pigskin. Entry was sought under Paragraph 450, as in chief value of cowhide.

BROOKLYN HOME FOR GIRLS.

Club Women to Found a Refuge for First Offenders.

An association for the establishment and support of Kingsboro House, a detention home for young women first offenders, has been organized in Brooklyn. Mrs. Mary M. Lilly, Chairman of the Probation Committee of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, has been active in the work, and the house is to be governed by a board of fifty, the majority of whose members will be women.

Judge Otto Kempner, Chairman of the Nominating Committee, announced at the last meeting of the City Federation Committee, on Wednesday, June 4, that as the charity was confined to Brooklyn, it had been decided by his committee that the governing body should be Brooklyn citizens, but that the privilege of becoming members and contributing to the support of the home would be given to the people, and, of course, to the women's clubs of Manhattan.

Kingsboro House will afford a temporary home for first offenders pending trial or awaiting final disposition of their cases in the Magistrates' Courts of the Second Division.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES

The Daily Consular and Trade Report notes the following foreign trade opportunities. Further information regarding them may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, care of the Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., giving the number of the item referred to:

11,057. — MARINE BOILERS, BOILER PLATES, AND ACCESSORIES. A foreign business firm informs an American Consular officer that it desires to correspond with American firms manufacturing and exporting marine boilers with corrugated fire box, boiler plates, and accessories for the construction of boilers, with the object of representing such houses throughout the whole country. This firm does not care to hear from firms already represented in the country in question. Prices c. i. f. local ports, terms, conditions, &c., are requested. References will be furnished. Correspondence may be in English.

11,058.—EXPLOSIVES FOR TREE PLANTING. A foreign publication devoted to the development of agricultural resources desires to get in touch with American manufacturers of explosives for tree planting, and would like to receive catalogues, samples, and literature on this subject. An American Consular officer has furnished the name of the person to whom all replies, preferably in the language of the country, should be addressed. However, if this is impossible, English may be employed.

11,059.—DREDGING. The American Consulate General at Ottawa, Canada, reports that the Department of Public Works has advertised for tenders, to be received until June 10, for dredging required at Trenton, Ontario. Combined specifications and form of tender can be obtained on application to the Department of Public Works at Ottawa.

11,060. — AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS AND MACHINERY. A firm in East Africa would like to receive catalogues of American agricultural machinery and implements of all kinds. The firm is located in a very rich and growing country and has a number of branches that have been established for a number of years. One of the commercial agents of the Department of Commerce writes that the principal crops are grain, coffee, and cotton, and there is a splendid market for the sale of machinery, for the planting and harvesting of these crops. Some American agricultural machinery and tools have already been introduced with considerable success, but the field is not nearly covered, and this appears to be an excellent opportunity for American manufacturers to find an outlet for their products. Correspondence may be in English.

11,061.—LEATHER BELTING. An American Consular officer reports that a business firm in his district desires to be placed in communication with American firms manufacturing and exporting leather belting, with a view to securing the agency for the entire country for this line. Prices c. i. f. local ports, terms, and conditions are requested. Correspondence may be in English, and references will be given.

11,062.—DOCK GATE. Tenders will be opened on June 28 at the office of the Direccao Geral de Obras Publicas e Minas, Reparticao de Obras Publicas, Lisbon, Portugal, for constructing a dock gate required for the Viana do Castelo Dock. The cost is estimated at about $30,000. Local representation is necessary.

11,064. COTTON GOODS AND AFRICAN PRODUCTS.—One of the commercial agents of the Department of Commerce writes that a large firm in an East African country, with numerous branches, would like to get in touch with American importers of chillies, sim sim, sisal, and wattle bark for tanning. The same firm imports large quantities of cotton goods, particularly gray sheetings, canvas, and duck, and would like to form connections with American exporters of these products. Correspondence may be in English.

CONDITIONS OF TRADE.

Regarding the present condition of trade, Dun's Review says:

More seasonable weather has had a favorable effect on retail distribution throughout the country, and while a slight recession in wholesale business is apparent in some sections of the West reports from several centres show trade to be more active than a year ago. Prices on the New York Stock Exchange fell sharply, but this weakness was mainly due to the unloading of American securities by European holders as a result of the strained condition of the investment markets there and in no way reflected any change in the mercantile or industrial situation in this country. The Government estimate of the condition of the cotton crop on May 25 was much lower than expected, but it is generally believed that the situation has improved materially since then. Needed rains have greatly benefited the crops in the Southwest. New business in iron and steel still falls short of production, but the mills have plenty of orders on hand, and it is expected that active buying will be resumed before these become exhausted. Cotton goods are in good demand, although buyers are still operating conservatively. Woolen mills have reduced activity, owing to tariff uncertainty, and silk mills on account of strikes, but stocks in all branches of the textile trade are abnormally low, which will favor a prompt resumption of full-time operations as soon as the present restraining influences are removed.

Bradstreet's says:

Varying factors are presented by this week's reports, financial pessimism, plus apprehension over tariff changes, being in sharp contrast to very favorable returns as to actual current trade and as to crops. Better weather has improved distribution at retail, jobbers throughout a wide area of the country have enjoyed a good volume of business for prompt delivery, and crop news is almost uniformly favorable. But the financial situation, involving as it does stock market liquidation, tight money, and more than usual difficulty in making collections, together with a certain degree of uncertainty regarding tariff matters, continues to hold up operations for the far future. Withal, the trends of the week have been rather more encouraging than otherwise.

Collections on the whole are quite slow, but Northwestern points say payments are quite satisfactory, and at the principal Western centres a slight improvement is noted. Western banks are reported to have brought reserves above legal requirements. Demand for money continues active, and rates are firm, but borrowers find great difficulty in procuring accommodations. Bank clearings for the current week, a holiday period, reflect a gain of 9 per cent. over last week, some of the increase being due to enlarged stock market operations, but as compared with last year there is a decrease of 12.7 per cent., the unfavorable character of which is offset by the fact that the week last year was a full period.

WHEAT.

Crop accounts from Kansas had much to do with another strong upturn in wheat yesterday which carried prices at one time ¾ to 1c higher. Reactions in the afternoon from this level were due to reports of rains in the Southwest and a bearish Modern Miller report, but near the close most of the loss was regained and the market left off very steady at ⅝ to ⅞c net advance. The most important news from Kansas perhaps was a Snow report, in which he said that counties having nearly 600,000 acres which had been counted on as part of the good wheat of the State, would not show a condition above 50, making wide allowance for rain. In his report of June 1 these counties were credited with a condition of 82. In other parts of the belt, notably Spring wheat sections, crop reports were quite the reverse, and exerted a bearish influence on the market at times during the session. Tht Ohio State report made a condition of 97, or 4 points better than last month. Not only were seaboard clearances for the day unusually large, but the Bradstreet's figures for the week, aggregating 7,561,000 bushels, were the largest since August, 1901. Only 792,000 bushels were shipped from the Argentine, against 1,384,000 bushels the previous week. The Liverpool market was firm and ¾d net higher. Paris was ⅜c up, but Berlin closed ½ to 1¼c lower, and Antwerp ⅜ to ¾c lower. Indian shipments were large, and liberal world's exports were expected on Monday. In Southwest markets there was further liberal selling of July against offerings of new wheat, and bears expected that this would become an increasing pressure on the market. No export business was reported. No. 1 Northern Duluth was quoted $1.00¾ free on board, afloat, in the local market.

CORN.

In face of favorable crop and weather news, the corn market sold up ½c early and was sustained up to the last hour by commission house support, finally easing off under reports of larger country offerings from Iowa and profit taking. Final prices were unchanged to ⅛c net higher. Argentine shipments were about 300,000 bushels more than the previous week, and Liverpool closed partly ¼d net lower. Export corn in the local market was entirely nominal at 66¾c, free on board, afloat.

OATS.

With other markets, oats showed firmness after the opening, advancing ½c to ¾c on bull support and a continuation of unfavorable crop advices. Reactions occurred in the late afternoon, but final prices were still ⅛c to ⅜c net higher. The Ohio State report made the condition 89 against 95 a month ago. Locally cash oats were easy, as follows: Standard white, 46½c; No. 2 white, 47c; No. 3 white, 46c; No. 4 white, 45c; ordinary clipped white, 45c to 46½c; fancy clippepd white, 47c to 47½c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

There was a fair advance early in the session on smaller hog receipts than expected, and general firmness in the hog market. Packers bought pork and ribs; there was moderate covering, and some commission house buying. In the late afternoon prices eased off a little with grain, although at the close they were still substantially net higher. Total Western receipts of 73,000 hogs included 18,000 at Chicago, 4,000 at Kansas City, and 4,800 at Omaha. Chicago expected 10,000 hogs on Saturday.

COTTON.

The cotton market was very nervous again to-day, with near months showing continued strength owing to further shipments from the local stock, reports of a more active spot demand and continued straddle buying, or bull support, while the late months were held back by a favorable view of weather conditions and encouraging private crop advices. The close was steady at a net advance of 6 to 20 points on the old crop, while new crop positions were net 3 points higher to 3 points lower.

With the difference between July in New York and Liverpool narrowing to about 100 points, there was some realizing in July by Liverpool straddlers, but foreign houses were buyers of August. There was a good demand for July from people who were selling later months, and the market showed renewed strength later. July contracts sold up to 11.86, or fully 50 points above the low level of the week, and at the highest price touched since last April, while August sold 25 points net higher and new crop positions some 3 to 5 points above the closing figures of Thursday.

Forecasts for showers and lower temperatures in the South were considered favorable, and nearly all crop advices received during the day were of an encouraging character, but selling of the late months was restricted by the strength of near positions and apprehensions of a change in growing conditions after a considerable period of good weather. The weekly figures attracted little attention. Southern spot markets officially reported were unchanged to ⅛c higher.

The local market for spot cotton was quiet and 20 points higher at 12.10 for middling upland; sales nil; delivered on contract, 600 bales.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The oil market was rather narrow, and while firm early in the day on further buying of July by refiners, eased off in the last hour under realizing, absence of outside demand, and the late depression in lard. Final prices were 3 points lower to 1 net higher.

COFFEE.

Coffee was a little steadier, starting 4 to 10 points higher. This advance was soon lost, but after midday the market again rallied, and closed steady, at a net gain of 4 to 5 points. Total sales, 94,750 bags. Foreign markets were irregular, but with a steady undertone, and cost and freight offers from Brazil were at a slightly higher level.

Spot coffee quiet, unchanged, 10⅝c for Rio No. 7.

CLUB GIVES ROUTES FOR AUTO JOURNEYS

Suggests Roads to be Followed to Catskills and Berkshires.

For motorists who are thinking of spending the week-end on the road the touring department of the Automobile Club of America suggests two routes, one to the Catskills and the other to the Berkshires. Motorists seeking the Catskill uplands, the club suggests, will find it advisable to follow the route by way of Shadakin, Bushnelville, and Fresh Kill to Lexington. The Stony Clove road is under construction from Chichester to Lanesville and from the Greene County line to Kaaterskill Junction. The route by way of Wittenburg is the best to Mount Pleasant. This road is very narrow, but it is good with the exception of a few rough stretches. The country through which it passes is beautiful, with many fine views.

Between Saugerties and Catskill the roadway is under construction for a distance of about one and a half miles. It is open, but rough. This stretch will probably be completed by July 1. From Catskill to Athens the roadway is also under construction. Both the Kaaterskill Clove and the Platteskill Clove are steep and narrow, with poor dirt roadways, making driving dangerous.

The best route to the Berkshires, the club says, is at present by way of Poughkeepsie and Amenia to Millerton, then north through Copake and Chapinville to Great Barrington. On the route by way of Lakeville and Chapinville the under mountain road is under construction from the Connecticut State line north to South Egremont. A detour is necessary from Chapinville by way of Ashley Falls, Sheffield, and Great Barrington. This detour is over good dirt roads which give satisfactory going in dry weather. On the Hudson-Hillsdale route construction work is in progress between Claverack and Craryville. A dirt road, passable by careful driving, runs alongside the part which is torn up.

Motorists in some parts of New Jersey are much cheered by an unexpected drop in the price of gasoline. In the Asbury Park district they have been paying 20 cents a gallon at the garage, but a Standard Oil wagon is now making deliveries at 16½ cents retail. It is said that the price is now to be the same to the consumer and the middleman.

⁂

Arrangements have been made whereby the Chandler car, a newcomer to New York, will be handled in this territory by the Brady-Murray Motors Corporation, officers of which are A. C. Brady, A. T. Murray, and R. J. Lacier. "Automobile Row" also heard yesterday that I. W. Penniman had been appointed general sales manager of the Walpole Tire and Rubber Company and that the new service building of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company at Sixty-third Street and West End Avenue would be opened next month.

JUSTICE TRACING RUMORS.

But Hendrick Finds Evidence Insufficient in Charges Against Cully.

Supreme Court Justice Peter A. Hendrick conducted a judicial investigation yesterday into the alleged boast of a defendant in a case before him that his influence with the Justice would result in the suit being dismissed without a jury trial. The person reported by Edward J. Farrell to have made this statement was James S. Cully, defendant in a mortgage foreclosure suit brought by Joseph H. Avallone.

At the start of yesterday's investigation Justice Hendrick asked that Cully be pointed out to him, and when this was done he ordered him to the stand.

"Do you know me, Mr. Cully?" the Justice asked.

"I never saw you in my life until I entered the courtroom yesterday," Cully answered.

The informant, Edward J. Farrell, said that he had been a partner of Cully for ten years, and that when the suit of foreclosure was filed Cully had asked him to use his influence with Justice Gavegan to have the complaint dismissed. This Farrell had said was an impossibility for him, whereupon Cully retorted, according to the testimony, that it was a waste of time for a man like Farrell to engage in politics, since he could not gain power with a Justice.

"I'll see Pete Hendrick and fix the matter with him," Farrell testified Cully had said. "He's an old friend of mine. My wife knew him when he was up in Auburn. We take dinner with him often. I'll get the case before him and he will not even let it go to the jury. He'll throw it out of court."

Although Vincent Stuyvesant Lippe conducted the examination for Justice Hendrick, the Justice himself often questioned the witnesses on points where he thought he might hasten the proceedings, and to the objections raised to testimony by Cully's lawyer the Justice replied that the investigation warranted the stretching of the rules of evidence.

Mrs. Farrell and Joseph Avallone were called to corroborate Farrell's testimony.

Under cross-examination it was brought out that Farrell, the informant, had not been friendly to Cully for a number of years and that they were not on speaking terms. It was argued that Cully probably would not make such confidences to either his rival, Farrell, or to Avallone, who brought suit against him. Cully also denied the charge. Justice Hendrick decided that the rumors had not sufficient basis to warrant further investigation. He sent the foreclosure suit to another part of the court.

TRAVEL INFORMATION—
I gather information from a thousand different sources and through many channels, but much of it is obtained by personal investigation. During the year we visit nearly every important city and Summer and Winter resort in the United States, Canada, and the West Indies, and many out-of-the-way places of which but little is generally known.
The information is carefully classified and may be had at any of my offices—clear, definite, accurate, reliable. There are no fees. Read my Weekly Travel Talks in Sunday HERALD Resort Section.

Two weeks of JOY-O'-LIVING
Forest Lakes of MAINE
IT'S the vacation you're ACHING FOR. You go 'way down in Maine woods. You leave civilization far behind. By canoe and carry you come to one of those great that are scarcely known to the outside world.
BEAUTIFUL, LONELY LAKES
Or you set up your own camp with an Indian or white guide, sleep in a tent on hemlock boughs, eat campfire cooking with an appetite that's a joy, breathe air that makes your pulses tingle.
You will catch big fish, canoe, explore, watch the moose and deer, get back to Mother Nature.
In two weeks you will come out brown, hard, clear-eyed, steady-nerved—and with memories you wouldn't sell.

Excepting and reserving from the land above described, the land conveyed by the Dickson Manufacturing Company to the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company by deed dated July 5th, 1874; also by deed dated September 28th, 1900, recorded in the Recorder's office in Lackawanna County, in Deed Book No. 187, page 221, etc.

Excepting and reserving, however, the coal and minerals beneath the surface of the said above described lots, pieces or parcels of land, with the right to mine and remove the same in such manner and to the same extent as excepted and reserved in the original deeds from the Lackawanna Iron and Coal Company for said lands, to the Dickson Manufacturing Company, and its predecessors in title.

Together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances and franchises of the Company thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining, and the reversions, remainders, rents, issues and profits thereof, and all the estate, right, title, interest, property, possession, claim and demand whatsoever, as well at law as in equity, of the Company, of, in and to the same, and any and every part thereof, with the appurtenances.

There shall be included, as a part of the property to be sold, all machinery, tools, articles of a permanent character or appliances acquired by the Receiver of the Allis-Chalmers Company, up to the date of the said sale, which property shall during the said receivership have been attached to or used in connection with the operation of any of the manufacturing plants situate in the Middle District of Pennsylvania and directed to be sold by the terms of said decree, all of which property is adjudged to be and shall pass as appurtenant to the real estate and manufacturing plant to which it is attached or in connection with the operation of which it is used.

The Special Master Commissioner will offer the said property for sale as an entirety. The Special Master Commissioner will receive no bid for said property from any one offering to bid, who prior to said sale shall not have deposited with him, or delivered to him, as a pledge that such bidder will make good his bid, in the event of its acceptance, the sum of Fifty thousand ($50,000.00) Dollars, or One hundred thousand ($100,000.00) Dollars, in face amount of the bonds issued under and secured by the deed of trust of July 2, 1906, made by ALLIS-CHALMERS COMPANY to AMERICAN TRUST and SAVINGS BANK, Trustee.

Any deposit of money required to be made with the Special Master Commissioner may be made either in cash or in a certified check therefor on some bank or trust company, having a paid up capital of not less than one million dollars ($1,000,000.)

Upon the conditional acceptance of any bid the purchaser shall forthwith pay to the Special Master Commissioner, in addition to the money so deposited with said Special Master Commissioner, prior to making such bid, or in addition to the bonds so deposited with said Special Master Commissioner, a further additional sum equal to the amount so hereinbefore required to be deposited as a condition of making such bid.

Any bidder or purchaser, in lieu of delivering to the said Special Master Commissioner said bonds, either for the purpose of qualification as a bidder, or on account of the purchase price, in the event of the acceptance of his bid, may deliver to the said Special Master Commissioner a certificate or certificates of any bank or trust company in the City of New York, or in the City of Scranton, in the State of New York, or in the City of Scranton, in the State of Pennsylvania, which bank or trust company shall have a paid up capital of not less than one million dollars ($1,000,000), that such bank or trust company holds, subject to the order of said Special Master Commissioner, said bonds, to the amount aforesaid.

In case any bidder shall fail to make good his bid, upon its acceptance by said Special Master Commissioner, or shall fail after such acceptance to comply with any order of the Court relating to the payment thereof, or the consummation of the purchase, then the money or bonds deposited by such purchaser or purchasers as hereinabove provided shall be forfeited as a penalty for such failure and shall be applied to the payment of the expenses of the resale, and toward making good any deficiency or loss in case the property purchased by him shall be sold at a less price on such resale, or shall be applied to the payment of any deficiency remaining upon account of the bonds secured by said mortgage, in the event that any resale had under the terms of said decree shall not pay the full amount herein found to be due upon such bonds, together with all costs and expenses of this proceeding.

If such sale shall not be confirmed by the Court, such deposit shall be returned to the bidder. The purchaser, on confirmation of the sale by the Court, shall make such payment or payments in cash on account of the purchase price as Court may at the time of the confirmation of such sale or from time to time thereafter direct, and shall pay the entire balance of the purchase price so bid at such time or times and in such manner as the Court shall direct.

Any purchaser who shall purchase the property herein directed to be sold shall be bound by the terms of any contract which Otto H. Falk, as Receiver of the Allis-Chalmers Company, shall have entered into, at the time of such sale, for the sale and delivery of machinery or merchandise from such manufacturing plants, where the completion of such contract shall require the use of the manufacturing plant so purchased; and any such purchaser, at the time of the confirmation of such bid, shall enter into such written agreement with the said Receiver, upon such conditions as the Court shall hereafter direct, providing for the completion and carrying out of such contract, upon such reasonable terms as may be fixed by the Court; provided, however, that any such purchaser may apply to the Court, at the time of the confirmation of such bid, or at any time subsequent thereto, to be relieved from the obligation of any specific contract covered by the terms of this decree, upon such terms as may be deemed proper by this Court; this provision in said decree being intended for the protection of the Receiver heretofore appointed by the District Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Wisconsin, and this provision shall not be construed as vesting any right of action in any person not a party to this suit as against such purchaser, and the Court in said decree reserves the right to require of any such purchaser or purchasers security in such amount and of such form and character as the Court may require, for the fulfillment of any contracts which the Court shall direct that the said purchaser shall assume, under the terms hereof.

Any purchaser, at the sale, may satisfy and make good the balance of his bid above the amount of the amount required to be paid in cash, by the terms of said decree, or by any decree or order of said court, entered in accordance with the provisions of said decree, by delivering to the undersigned Special Master Commissioner bonds duly certified and issued and outstanding under the terms of said mortgage or deed of trust, dated July 2, 1906, made by Allis-Chalmers Company to the American Trust and Savings Bank, trustee, with all unpaid coupons, with interest thereunto belonging, which bonds, if registered, shall be duly assigned or endorsed by the registered holder thereof. Such bonds, whether delivered to the Special Master Commissioner at the time of the sale or subsequently, shall be received at such price or value as shall be equal to the sum which would be payable out of the net proceeds of said sale, if made for money, to the holder or holders of such bonds for his or their just share and proportion in such character, upon a due accounting and apportionment of such net proceeds; provided, however, if it shall appear that any bond or bonds so presented to the Special Master Commissioner have been theretofore presented to the Special Master Commissioner making sale under the order of the District Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Wisconsin or in and for the Northern District of Illinois, and that any such bond or bonds have been used in the purchase of any properties situate in the Eastern District of Wisconsin or in the Northern District of Illinois, then such bonds, when presented to the Special Master Commissioner, shall be received at such price or value as shall be equivalent to the sum which will be payable out of the net proceeds of such sale, if made for money, to the holder or holders of said bonds, or his or their just share and proportion in such character of such net proceeds, after the amount applied upon such bonds, in connection with the purchase of any property sold under the decree of the District Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Wisconsin or for the Northern District of Illinois, or applicable thereto, out of the proceeds of such sale, shall have been endorsed upon said bonds or charged as the pro rata payment thereof against the amount due upon the said bonds by the terms of the said decree.

For a more particular description of the property to be sold and the terms and conditions of the sale reference is hereby made to the decree entered by the District Court of the United States for the Middle District of Pennsylvania, in the above-entitled cause, on the 28th day of May, 1913.

GERRY W. HAZELTON,
Special Master Commissioner.

The portions of said Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway sold hereunder are known as the Northern and Southern Divisions; that portion of the said Railway which extends from Delray (Detroit) to Lima, containing 137.6 miles, being known as the Northern Division, and that portion of the said Railway which extends from Bloom Junction to Ironton, including the Dean branch, containing 36.12 miles, being known as the Southern Division, and there being operated in conjunction with the said Northern and Southern Divisions forty-three miles of leased lines of railroad, making an aggregate of owned and leased lines in the Northern and Southern Divisions of 216.72 miles.

The properties now remaining covered by said General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage will be sold as follows: The Special Master Commissioner will put up for sale the parts of the property known as the Northern Division and the Southern Division, generally described as aforesaid.

With the Northern and Southern Divisions there will be included and sold as part thereof one-half in value and as nearly as may be one-half in kind and description of the supplies and materials in the possession of the receiver at the time of sale (supplies and materials, if any previously turned over by the Receiver to the purchaser of the Ohio Southern Division under Foreclosure Decree in favor of Central Trust Company of New York, to be taken into account in ascertaining the supplies and materials in possession of the receiver at the time of the sale hereunder), division to be made by the Receiver subject to the supervisory order of the Court; and with the property sold hereunder there will be included and sold as part thereof the cars and equipment generally belonging thereto, to wit: the cars and equipment included in the General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage to The New York Trust Company, hereinbefore described, and the five hundred cars purchased by the Receiver from the Central Car and Locomotive Works under order of this Court, entered November 8, 1912, subject, however, to the terms of the Receiver's contract therefor; and also one-half of the locomotives, cars, and equipment purchased under authority of the Court during the receivership; cars, locomotives and equipment, if any, turned over or to be turned over by the Receiver to said purchaser of the Ohio Southern Division to be taken into the account.

The identity of the equipment will in all cases be determined by the Receiver, in accordance with the records in his possession, and subject to the supervisory order of the Court. In any event, the purchaser of any equipment which at the time of the sale shall be held under Equipment Trust Agreement or Agreement for Repairs or for Purchase shall take the same subject to all the terms and conditions of such Trust Agreement or Agreement for Repairs or Purchase, including all provisions for deferred payments; and such purchaser shall by such purchase be held to have assumed and to have agreed to carry out and fulfill the terms and conditions of the said agreements affecting the equipment so purchased by him.

The equipment, or parts thereof, is subject to the following equipment trust agreements or agreements for repairs or purchase:

Agreement with American Locomotive Company, dated September 15, 1909, for purchase of eight locomotives, numbered 100 to 107, inclusive, requiring periodical payments to September 15, 1913; amount due after December 1st, 1912, $27,911.25.

Agreement with American Locomotive Company, dated December 1, 1910, for purchase of twelve locomotives, numbered 108 to 119, inclusive, requiring periodical payments to January 14, 1916; amount due after December 1st, 1912, $77,400.

Agreement accepted November 1, 1911, with Crawford Locomotive & Car Company, for repairing two hundred gondola coal cars and two hundred box cars, requiring semi-monthly payments on the basis of "per diem" rates until full payment; amount due after December 1st, 1912, $56,655.15.

Agreement accepted November 9, 1912, with Central Locomotive & Car Works for repair of one thousand gondola coal cars and one thousand box cars, payments to be semi-monthly on basis of forty-five cents per day per car until full payment; amount due after December 1st, 1912, approximately $500,000.

Agreement accepted November 19, 1912, with Norfolk & Western Railway Company, for repairs to five locomotives, payment to be made in receiver's certificates; amount due after December 1st, 1912, approximately, $15,000.

Agreement accepted November 9, 1912, with Central Locomotive and Car Works for purchase of five hundred second hand coal cars, payments to be made semi-monthly on the basis of forty-five cents per day per car until full payment; amount due after December 1st, 1912, $157,395.60.

All receiver's obligations and indebtedness incurred after September 1, 1912, and any indebtedness which, pursuant to the provisions of the said amended decrees or the further order of the said court, shall have priority over the said Ohio Southern Division Mortgage and said General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage, or either of them, shall be divided between and charged upon the Ohio Southern Division on the one part and the Northern and Southern Divisions on the other part in accordance with the principles established by the report of the Master filed in the said Court in the Eastern District of Michigan, Southern Division, December 9, 1912, subject to the further supervisory order of the said Court.

The said Master Commissioner will accept no bid of less than $1,650,000 upon the Northern and Southern Divisions upon a sale thereof. The said minimum sum was fixed by the Court in the said decrees in order to prevent a sacrifice and to protect the interests of all concerned as the least sum for which the said property should be sold. The Master will not accept any bid unless the bidder shall place in his hands at the time of the bid, as a part of his bid and a pledge to make the same good if accepted and the sale confirmed the sum of $100,000. Such sum may be placed with the Special Master Commissioner by certified cheque or certificate of deposit approved by the Master. The sum deposited shall be forfeited in case the bidder, if successful, shall fail to make good his bid and comply with the terms of the said decrees and any orders hereafter made as to future payments or otherwise; but said deposited sum shall be applied on the purchase price of the property in respect of which the deposit is made in case of such compliance by the purchaser or returned in case the bid in question is not successful or the sale in question shall not be confirmed by the Court.

The Court reserves the right to reject any bid and to resell the property in respect of which the bid shall have been made or any part thereof upon failure of the purchaser to comply with any order of the Court as to payment of the remainder of the purchase price or any part thereof.

There shall be paid in cash of the price at which the said property shall be sold, in addition to the amounts paid at the time of the sale, such further portions of the purchase money as the Court shall direct. The remainder of the purchase money may be paid as follows:

Wholly or partly in cash and in claims payable under article 3 of said amended decree, or in receiver's certificates payable under article 3 of said amended decree, to the extent and proportion that such claims and receiver's certificates are by said amended decree charged upon the Northern and Southern Divisions; and also in said General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage Bonds, with overdue coupons thereon, or in said Consolidated Bonds, with overdue coupons thereon, at such proportion of value as the holders thereof would be entitled to receive thereon on distribution of the proceeds of such sale in case such price were wholly paid in cash.

All taxes and assessments upon the property sold and all said receiver's certificates and all claims payable under article 3 of said amended decree, will be allowed out of the purchase money where the purchaser produces proofs of such liens and claims and receipts for the payment thereof or surrenders such certificates. The Special Master will in his discretion accept temporarily instead of the actual delivery of the said bonds and coupons and receiver's certificates, the certificate of any trust company satisfactory to him that it holds the said bonds and coupons or receiver's certificates subject to the order of said Master, and will deliver them to him on demand for cancellation or other disposition.

Included in the upset price of the Northern and Southern Divisions is the sum of $105,059.20, with interest accrued thereon, being items set forth in subdivision 2, in Schedule A, of a certain Master's report filed in said cause December 9, 1912, and the purchaser or purchasers in lieu of depositing in the Registry of the Court said sum with interest, may, as part of the purchase price, give a bond therefor as provided in said decree.

The said Special Master, in pursuance and by virtue of the second amended decrees of foreclosure and sale in favor of Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant, made and entered by the said District Courts of the United States in this advertisement of sale first mentioned, dated and entered on the same days and in the same places as the said decrees in favor of The New York Trust Company, complainant, will also at the same time and place offer for sale and in separate parcels all other lines of railway and additional mileage of the defendant Railway Company and other property of any kind and nature which has been constructed or acquired in whole or in part by means of said Consolidated Bonds or with the proceeds of the sale or disposition thereof; subject only to purchase money liens thereon as in said Consolidated Mortgage set forth, not including in said property, however, any property which is subject to the prior lien thereon of the said General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage (all of which said property subject to said General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage, is to be sold under and pursuant to the preceding provisions of this notice); one hundred shares of the stock of the Toledo Southern Railway Company and ten hundred and fourteen shares of preferred stock of the Ann Arbor Railroad Company, being certain property of the said Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railway Company included in the mortgage or deed of trust from that company to Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant herein, dated May 2, 1905, to secure certain bonds designated as Consolidated Bonds. The Master will accept no bid for the said shares of stock from any bidder who shall not place in his hands or deposit with him at the time of making the bid, as a pledge that the bidder will make good his bid if accepted by the Court, the sum of twenty-five dollars per share in cash, certified cheque, or certificate of deposit approved by the Master, which sum shall be forfeited in case the bidder if successful shall fail to make good his bid and comply with the terms of the said decrees, and any orders thereafter made as to future payments or otherwise, but which said sum shall be applied on the purchase price of the said stock in case of such compliance, or will be returned in case the said bid is not successful or the sale shall not be confirmed by the Court. The right of the Court is reserved to reject any bid and to resell the said stock or any part thereof, upon the failure of the purchaser to comply with any order of the Court as to the payment of the purchase price or any part thereof, in cash or otherwise, as may be directed. If either the said properties, not, as aforesaid, subject to the General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage or the said shares of stock, shall be purchased by or on behalf of the holders of the said Consolidated Bonds, the remainder of the purchase price over and above the amount in cash required to be paid at the time of sale, may be paid either in cash or in receivers' certificates, or in claims payable under Article 3 of the aforesaid decree of The New York Trust Company, or in said Consolidated Bonds and overdue coupons thereon, at such proportionate value as the holders thereof will be entitled to receive thereon, respectively, on distribution of the proceeds of such sale, in case such purchase price were wholly paid in cash.

FORECLOSURE SALES.

Any person proposing to purchase at the said sale either the said railway properties or the said stock, is referred to the said second amended decrees in this notice specifically mentioned, for a more full and complete description of the property, rights, and franchises therein directed to be sold, which it is proposed to sell in accordance with the foregoing notice, and also for the terms and conditions upon which the sale of the said properties, rights, and franchises shall be made.

The said three second amended decrees in favor of The New York Trust Company, complainant, are exact duplicates of each other, and the said three second amended decrees in favor of Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant, are exact duplicates of each other, and all of the said decrees may be found filed and recorded in the offices of the Clerks of the United States District Courts at Detroit, Michigan; Toledo, Ohio, and Columbus, Ohio, respectively, and are subject to the inspection of the public generally. Certified copies of the said amended decrees will be in the possession of the said Special Master at the time and place of sale, and may be inspected by interested persons or bidders.

Bankruptcy Notices

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States, Southern District of New York.—In the matter of UNITED STATES HAIR COMPANY, Bankrupt.—In Bankruptcy.—No. 17,945.

Upon the annexed petition of Benjamin W. B. Brown, Trustee, herein, and upon all the proceedings had herein, and on motion of Parker & Aaron, attorneys for the Trustee Petitioner, it is Ordered that all creditors of the above-named bankrupt, and all other persons claiming specific chattels, securities, sums of money or other assets or the proceeds thereof, or asserting any alleged preferential claim against special or general assets of the estate herein which are in the possession of the Trustee, be and they hereby are required to show cause before this Court at a Stated Term thereof, to be held in Room 66 of the Post Office Building, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, State of New York, on the 23d day of June, 1913, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, why an order should not be made directing said creditors and persons to file within such time as the Court may direct verified statements of claims which they may have against specific chattels, securities, sums of money, or other assets or the proceeds thereof, and of all preferential claims which they may have against special or general assets of the estate in the possession of the trustee, such claims to be filed with Peter B. Olney, Esquire, the Referee in Bankruptcy, at his office, No. 68 William Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, and why the said claims so filed, if any, should not be referred to said Peter B. Olney, Esquire, as Special Master for hearing, testimony, and report, and why, in default of filing and proving such claims at the time and place and in the manner in which this Court may direct, said creditors and persons should not be forever barred from making or asserting any such claim.

And sufficient reasons appearing therefor, it is Ordered that service of this order with the petition upon which it is granted be made upon all the creditors and other persons interested herein, whether such persons have appeared herein by attorney or have filed claims with the Referee or Trustee, or have instituted reclamation or other proceedings against the Trustee herein, by mailing a copy thereof to such of them as have filed claims or appeared herein to the address given in the claim or appearance, and to others by mailing a copy thereof to each of them at their respective addresses as the same may appear upon the list of creditors and persons interested in the estate filed herein on or before the 9th day of June, 1913, and by publishing a copy thereof in The New York Times once a week for two successive weeks, the last publication to be not later than the 16th day of June, 1913, which mailing and publication shall be deemed sufficient service of this order, and it is

Further ordered that all persons who have commenced proceedings in the nature of reclamation or otherwise against any specific chattels, securities, moneys, or other assets in possession of the Trustee, and which proceedings are now pending before the Court or the Referee herein, and all persons who may hereafter commence such proceedings, be and they are hereby stayed from further proceeding therein until further order of the Court.

Dated New York, May 28th, 1913.
GEO. C. HOLT,
Judge of the U. S. District Court.

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States, Southern District of New York.—In the matter of UNITED STATES HAIR COMPANY, Bankrupt.—In Bankruptcy.—No. 17,945.

In the matter of the determination of claims to all chattels, securities, sums of money, and other assets now in the possession of the Trustee herein:

To the honorable, the Judges of the District Court of the United States, for the Southern District of New York:

The petition of Benjamin W. B. Brown respectfully shows and alleges:

First—That the above-named bankrupt was, on or about the 4th day of April, 1913, duly adjudicated bankrupt by the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York, and the proceedings duly referred to Honorable Peter B. Olney as Referee, and that on the 8th day of May, 1913, your petitioner was duly elected Trustee of said bankrupt; his bond fixed at $25,000, and he thereupon duly caused his bond to be approved and filed, and qualified as Trustee herein, and is now acting as such Trustee.

Second—That immediately upon qualification as Trustee herein, there came into the hands of your petitioner, various chattels, securities, sums of money, choses in action and other assets belonging to the above-named bankrupt or in its possession at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy herein.

Third—That your petitioner is informed that many persons allege to have claims against certain of said chattels, securities, sums of money or other assets or proceeds thereof now in his hands, and that other persons claim to have preferential rights against the general funds now in his possession; that your petitioner believes it necessary for the proper administration of the estate, and before the distribution of the proceeds thereof, that the rights in, and claims to the same, of all such persons shall be ascertained and determined.

Fourth—That your petitioner is unable to determine the nature or validity of said alleged claims, and it is necessary in order that a just, equitable and complete determination of such claims may be made that all of such claimants be cited into court in one proceeding.

Fifth—That of said claimants who have filed claims with the Referee herein, or with your petitioner, some have brought proceedings in this court to compel your petitioner to deliver securities or other specific assets to them.

Sixth—That the said bankrupt herein has not filed his schedules in bankruptcy in this court, and that criminal proceedings are pending against certain of the officers of the said bankrupt, and it has not been practicable hitherto to procure the filing of proper schedules, but that there has been prepared and filed herein a list of the names and addresses of all the known creditors of the said bankrupt, which has been prepared from the books and papers of the said bankrupt, on which list appear the names of thirty-eight creditors, the addresses of most of whom are also given, but as to a number of them the addresses are stated to be unknown.

Seventh—That the reason an order to show cause is asked for is that it is desired to have the court specify a time within which all claims against chattels, securities, sums of money, choses in action or any other assets or proceeds thereof and all alleged preferential claims against either special or general assets of the estate herein shall be presented, and that it determine the nature, extent and validity of all such claims when the same are presented.

To the end that this court shall determine the method of the service of said order to show cause, your petitioner respectfully suggests that service thereof be made by publication for the following reasons:

(a) That the bankrupt herein has creditors or persons interested in his estate who may be creditors, or may have claims against the estate as appears by the list filed herein in excess of thirty-eight in number, and probably there are a considerable number of persons not appearing on this list who may assert claims;

(b) The business of the bankrupt has been international in scope and covered large territories, and its creditors are distributed naturally in such way that service other than by publication, except as to those whose addresses are specified, is impracticable.

(c) In order that the purposes of said order to show cause may be fully carried out, and all of the creditors of the bankrupt and persons who might have claims against the estate herein receive notice thereof, whether or not they have as yet appeared herein by attorney or have filed claims with the Referee herein, or have instituted reclamation or other proceedings against your petitioner.

Eighth.—That no previous application for an order to show cause for the relief herein sought has been made to the Court or any Judge thereof.

Wherefore, your petitioner prays for an order to show cause directing all creditors of the above-named bankrupt, and all persons interested herein, to show cause before this Court at a time therein stated why an order should not be made herein:

(1) Directing said creditors and all persons to file any claims they may assert herein against any specific chattels, securities, sums of money or other assets or the proceeds thereof, or any preferential claims that they may have against special or general assets of the estate herein, and why such claims should not be filed at such time and place as the Court may direct;

(2) Directing that said claims, if any, be referred to Peter B. Olney, Esquire, Referee herein as Special Master for hearing, testimony and report;

(3) Directing that any and all creditors and persons having or asserting any such claims, who have not filed the same at such time and place as the Court may direct, be forever barred from making any such claims;

(4) Directing that all creditors and persons who have brought proceedings before the Court, or before the Referee in the nature of reclamation or to enforce their claims against any specific chattels, securities, sums of money or other assets or proceeds thereof in this bankruptcy be stayed from further proceeding or from bringing any further action or proceeding until further order of the Court.

(5) Granting the petitioner herein such other and further relief in the premises as to the Court may seem just and proper.

B. W. B. BROWN,
Trustee Petitioner.
PARKER & AARON, Attorneys for Trustee, No. 52 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.

Benjamin W. B. Brown, being duly sworn, says:

That he is the Trustee Petitioner above named. That he has read the foregoing petition and knows the contents thereof, and that the same is true to the best of his knowledge, information and belief.

Morris Park Race Track Auction Sale

To the Public:

Do You Realize

That Lots Valued at $1,500 Are Selling for $700 to $800
" " " $2,000 " " $1,000 to $1,200
" " " $3,500 " " $1,750

Then Think of Their Value in the future, with the growth of population and new subways within two years, in addition to their present unusual transit facilities.

If you have just plain, ordinary common sense you must appreciate this opportunity to make money!

Many have taken advantage of it, and we know of a number of buyers who have made profits and many more who have refused to take profits offered to them!

TO SPECULATORS:

This is your chance if ever there was one!

You who know the value of the property know that it is selling at a lower price to-day, after thousands have been spent on it, than it sold for as a whole acreage tract, ten years ago.

This is due to the fact that so many lots have to be marketed at one sale, to help pay the creditors of the failed Banks.

"Well bought is half sold." You can go in here and buy with safety and resell quickly at a profit.

You know that with rapid transit coming, with the ridiculous prices the lots are selling for, and with the tremendous advertising the district has had, hundreds will want to buy after the sale is over who have not taken advantage and bought at the sale.

That always is the way, always will be the way, and that is your chance for quick profits.

What risk do you take? You know from past experience that the minute the Subway is opened the values will double and triple.

The terms are certainly easy enough. The lots are going to be developed almost immediately. A contract has already been made to dig cellars on lots purchased. Get busy!

Some of the choicest lots are going to be offered Today, including the Club House and four dwellings.

10:30 A. M. Sale Commences. | 8:00 P. M. Eve'g Session Begins.

The Subway (Bronx Park Trains) to 177th Street or 180th Street station. At 177th Street, take the Morris Park trolley car direct to the property. At 180th Street go to 180th Street station of the New York, Westchester and Boston Railroad, and thence to the property.

The Second or Third Avenue Elevated Railroad to 129th Street, thence by New York, Westchester and Boston Railroad or Morris Park trolley car to the property. Or via New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

All crosstown Bronx cars connect with all Elevated and Subway lines, either at 129th, 135th or 145th Street and transfer to Morris Park cars.

SURROGATE IS IN DISFAVOR

Connolly Gives Documents to Counsel for Bar Association to Support His Charges Against the Justice.

Alfred B. Cruikshank, the lawyer who acted for John A. Connolly in his dealings with Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, which have given rise to the charges against the Justice which are now the subject of investigation by the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association, returned yesterday to his office from his Western trip. When he was asked to discuss the latest developments in the matter, and particularly the alleged change in Connolly's affidavit of estoppel, to which his own initials are said to have been affixed, he declined to talk.

He had a statement prepared in which he pointed out that as the charges had now come before the Complaint Committee of the Bar Association, and as he was himself a member of the association, and was certain to be asked to give his account of what had happened, it would be better for all concerned if at this time he refrained from saying anything for publication. Pressed directly on the affidavit matter, Mr. Cruikshank said that he would say nothing about it except in the presence of Connolly and Justice Cohalan.

In political circles, where ever since Justice Cohalan explained that he, a man of moderate means, returned to Connolly in 1909 $3,940.55 simply for the sake of the party, it has been a cause of wonder that neither Charles F. Murphy nor any other Tammany leader had come out in support of the Justice, a new tdist was given yesterday to surmise by the consideration of the relations of Surrogate J. P. Cohalan, brother of the Justice, to the present situation. Justice Cohalan has said that he knew who was behind the atack which had been made upon him, but that for sufficient reasons he was not ready to talk aout it.

It was suggested yesterday that he thought that if he talked too freely he might cause an attack on his brother. It has been known for some time that the Surrogate was in disfavor at Tammany Hall. Mr. Murphy has considered that the Surrogate owed his elevation to the bench to Tammany and that the Surrogate was absolutely neglectful of the fact. It was the Surrogate who refused at first to apppove the appraisal of the Pulitzer estate, of which by a coincidence William B. Hornblower, President of the Bar Association, is an executor. The legislation regarding the appraisals of all estates, which has been backed by the Surrogates, has been very unpopular in Fourteenth Street.

Mr. Murphy is said to have expressed in the strongest terms his dislike of the Surrogate, and to have criticised his decision in the Pulitzer matter to his face in the strongest language. At the Baltimore Convention Daniel F. Cohalan and Mr. Murphy appeared outwardly to be on friendly terms, but there is also the warmest friendship between the two brothers. Hence, when this matter came up, it seemed to the Justice that he must move carefully or it might do something which would seem to affect the attitude of his brother, the Surrogate. One reaso ntherefore for his reticence is said to be that he has feared that he might say something which would give basis for a charge of prejudice against John P. Cohalan.

In response to the letter of the Citizens' Union to William B. Hornblower, requesting the Bar Association, of which he is President, to take up the charges for investigation, Mr. Hornblower informed the union by telegram that he had asked the Grievance Committee to investigate the Cohalan charges.

While it is expected that before the Grievance Committee reports it will give Justice Cohalan an opportunity to make whatever explanation he may think fit of the accusations made against him, and that Mr. Cruikshank also will be invited to give his version of the transactions in which he acted as Connolly's counsel, it is not likely that that stage in the proceedings will be reached immediately. It is the cstom of the Grievance Committee to submit all comulaints at first to Einer Chrystie, its counsel, before it looks into them itself, and although there is no doubt that the Cohalan charges are sufficiently grave to force the Grievance Committee to consider them itself, the same procedure will be followed as in any other case. Mr. Chrystie has already had one long talk with Connolly and will probably have one or two other conferences before he informs the Grievance Committee of his estimate of the charges.

Connolly has given many documents to Mr. Chystie to support his charges, and the Grievance Committee will have these before it when it sends word to the Justice that it will be glad to hear from him. This may not be for two or three weeks, and, according to its rules, the committee will in the meantime not say anytning of the progress it is making. Justice Cohalan himself has thus far reserved the same policy of silence with regard to the charge founded on the alleged alteration of Connolly's affidavit.

Miss M. Irene Dougal of 36 South Seventh Street, Newark, has begun a suit for $10,000 dambages for breach of promise against Stanley B. Van Iderstine, Assistant Postmaster of South Orange, N. J. The complaint was filed yesterday in the County Clerk's office in Newark by John P. Manning, counsel for Miss Dougal. In her complaint Miss Dougal asked that Van Iderstine should be held in bail to await the trial of the action. He appeared before Herbert W. Knight, a Supreme Court Commissioner, and gave a bond for $1,000.

Miss Dougal alleged that she met Van Iderstine on Feb. 1, 1910, and that thereafter he showed her marked attention. She said that on Oct. 23, 1912, Van Iderstine named May 28, 1913, as the date for their marriage, and that up to the night preceding that date he contined to express a desire to wed her.

On the evening of May 27, the complaint sets forth, Van Iderstine called on Miss Dougal and her parents and tolm that all arrangements were completed for the wedding the next day. But when the time for the ceremony arrived Van Iderstine failed to appear. A letter was received by Miss Dougal's father, the complaint alleged, in which Van Iderstine said he had changed his mind and did not intend to marry Miss Dougal.

DOUBT BULGAR'S GOOD FAITH

LONDON, June 6.—The resignation of the Bulgarian Cabinet is now officially acknowledger. According to The Mir, a newspaper published at Sofia, and which is usually well-informed, the resignation took place as long ago as May 30, as soon as the news of the signing in London of the draft peace treaty was received.

Confirmation of the report of the resignation has caused anxiety at Belgrade and Athens, where the feeling is growing that Bulgaria is temporizing until her forces can be brought up against Greece and Servia. If the resignation of the Ministry took place before the interview at Tzaribrod, on the Bulgarian frontier, between the Bulgarian and Servian Premiers, the agreement between them would be without authority, and the proposed meeting between the four Balkan Premiers, said to have been set for next Sunday, probably will not take place.

The Greek delegates attended the Peace Confrnc to-day, but the Turks remained stubborn and refused to agree to the terms of the protocol. The delegates, however, reached an agreement on the following points: To grant full amnesty to all combatants in the late war for a period of three years; to allow Ottomans living in annexed territories to arrange to emigrate if they desire to retain their Turkish nationality, and to resume postal and telegraphic communication between Turkey and Bulgaria.

SOFIA, June 6.—King Ferdinand has already received the leaders of the Opposition Party and will soon summon Dr. Daneff, who is likely to head the new Bulgarian Cabinet.

TELLS OF ANTI-GOMEZ PLOT.

Gen. Corao Says He Was Shot at for Revealing It.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, June 6.—The details of the recent plot against the life of President Juan Vicente Gomez of Venezuela were discovered by Gen. Manuel Corao, a Venezuelan capitalist, who is said to have flatly refused a proposition to join in it. Later, while Corao was going on a visit to President Gomez to communicate to the Executive his discovery of the conspiracy, an attempt was made to shoot him.

The flight from Venezuela of Dr. Leopold Baptista, former Secretary General to President Gomez, was effected in broad daylight. He was taken from Valencia to Puerto Cabello in the custody of friends who were disguised as policemen, and the people believed that he was being conveyed to prison. From Puerto Cabello he sailed in a small vessel for Willemstad.

The position of President Gomez is considered in Caracas to be exceedingly strong, and it is believed there that only through a coup d'état can he be overthrown.

PULLS THE PASTOR'S BEARD

Woman Renews Church Row After Court Reconcilement.

The affairs of the German Lutheran Christian Church at 552 West Fiftieth Street came up before the West Side Court yesterday afternoon on a hearing adjourned from last Saturday, when it was made evident that there was a serious split in the church over the appointment of a pastor. Magistrate Appleton applied himself yesterday to pouring oil on the troubled waters and, believing that his appeal for the rule of brotherly love and prayer had had its effect, adjourned the hearing once more.

But the retiring members of the congregation had got no further than the door of the courtroom before they broke loose again. A woman pulled the beard of the Rev. Hermann Vonhollen, for years the pastor of the church, and a struggle in the corridor then took place between the pastor and his assailant, Mrs. Elizabeth Wolmar of 561 West Sixtieth Street. Cries resounded through the building and the courtroom was thrown into high excitement.

Court officers, led by Capt. Becker, forced their way into the excited mass of men and women outside and restored order, and then Mrs. Wolmar was led before the Magistrate. The almost frenzied woman received a stern talk from the court and was finally let go after promising that she would make no more trouble. The difficulty arose over the appointment of a new pastor, part of the congregation remaining loyal to the old incumbent and the other part declaring that a new pastor, the Rev. H. J. Freyer of 441 West Fiftieth Street, was the head of the flock. Both clergymen were represented in court by attorneys.

ADELE RITCHIE TO MARRY.

GREENWICH, Conn., June 6.—Miss Adele Ritchie, the actress, who leased the J. K. Berry farm here a year ago, will be married in Greenwich on Friday, June 13, to Charles Nelson Bell of New York. Mr. Bell has interested himself in Miss Ritchie's farming, and has helped her with advice. The couple now propose to buy the farm.

Miss Marian King, Miss Ritchie's adopted daughter, will be the maid of honor, and William Allcox of Newark the best man. The parents of the bride and bridegroom are expected.

The news of the wedding came out through a gardener who had been discharged for insubordination.

Miss Ritchie made her first public appearance in a light opera, "The Algerian," in 1893. The following year she succeeded Miss Marie Tempest as the prima donna in that opera. She played leading rôles in De Koven's "Mandarin," in Victor Herbert's "Wizard of the Nile," and in "The Runaway Girl," a Daly production. Miss Ritchie then starred in vaudeville for a few seasons, but later return to muscal comedy. Among her successes were "The Socal Whirl," and "Fascinating Flora." She recently appeared in "All for the Ladies."

MILLER SAYS CITIES CAN AID CONSUMERS

STUDY OF FOOD SOURCES

BINGHAMTON, June 6.—A breakfast session was the morning feature of the Mayors' Conference to-day. Following the breakfast at 9 o'clock, Mayor Frank J. Baker of Utica called the conference to order in the dining room and every Mayor was invited to tell of his city's greatest need. Mayor Thomas H. O'Neill of Auburn elicited loud applause when he came out emphatically for Sunday baseball for the workingman, saying his city's greatest need was non-interference with the rights of the people.

The Mayors were unanimous that there was a pressing need for more nearly equal local assessments.

Cyrus C. Miller, Chairman of the New York City Market Commission and President of the Borough of the Bronx, addresed the conference on "What the City Can Do to Reduce the Cost of Living." He asserted that the problem mainly was distribution.

"The city can help to cut the cost of the necessaries of life," he said, "by providing terminal markets; by supervising and inspecting the marketing so that the interests of all are safeguarded; by giving publicity to market conditions so that the people can market more intelligently; by educating our youth to the dignity and importance of agriculture, and by aiding near-by farmers to improve productions and to market their goods advantageously.

"As far as retail distribution is concerned, the greatest service the city can perform is to give the retailer adequate wholesale markets where he can buy his food cheaply and to give him the benefit of its studies into profitable methods of retailing in other cities. Retailing is the most expensive link in the chain of distribution. The retailer adds 15 per cent. to the cost of food for delivery alone. Consumers must be made to realize how high they pay for this service.

"It seems to me that it would pay every city to make, through some designated official or board, a careful study of the sources and distribution of its food supply. On the basis of such a study practical improvements could be worked out.

"The consumers, as a class, are the least intelligent in their efforts to bring about better conditions, because they are necessarily unorganized and are slow to check extravagant habits."

An addres was made on "Sewage Disposal—What Can the City Do to Solve the Problem?" by Prof. George C. Whipple of the Chair of Sanitary Engineering, Harvard University.

PACIFIC HEARING THURSDAY.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Attorney General McReynolds announced at the regular Cabinet meeting to-day that he would appear in court when the plan for the final dissolution of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger was presented for approval. The plan will be submitted to Judges Sanborn, Hook, and Smith, sitting as the District Court for the District of Utah, next Thursday.

The Attorney General is not fully persuaded of the wisdom of the plan that has been agreed on tentatively by counsel, to offer the Central Pacific stock for public subscription. But that plan will be presented to the court alternatively with a plan to place the stock in the hands of a receiver, who may issue certificates of ownership capable of being exchanged for stock when proof is presented that buyers are not holders of Union Pacific stock. Those certificates would carry no voting rights.

Tries New Tuberculosis Serum.

CONCORD, N. H., June 6.—Dr. William J. Beattie of Littleton, N. H., who has gained the attention of the medical world through his claims for a new turtle serum for tuberculosis, to-day inoculated nine patients at Pembroke Senitarium for Consumptives, near this city. Four of the subjects were young women in the early stages of the disease. Nearly a score of New York and Boston physicians witnessed the inoculations. Dr. Beattie was one of the first American physicians to discredit the treatment of Dr. Friedmann.

MILL MANAGER BEATEN.

PASSAIC, N. J., June 6.—Dragged to a field adjoining his father's mill and beaten by three strike pickets, Henry Doherty, Jr., Superintendent of the Henry Doherty Silk Mill at Lakeview, and son of the proprietor, was rescued by workmen just as one of the pickets was about to shoot him.

When riding on a Main Avenue trolley to the factory, Doherty saw three pickets forcibly preventing workers from entering the mill. He jumped from the car and pushed the strikers aside. In the fight that ensued Doherty knocked one man down and then started to run, but three pickets were on top of him. Although he fought hard, they carried Doherty to the field and punched and kicked him severely.

Workmen in the window of the mill rescued him just as one of the pickets was about to fire. August Germanetti, who tried to shoot, dropped his gun and ran, but he was caught near the Passaic River. Justice James F. Sutton, who had seen the chase, gave him the choice of $100 fine or a year in jail. He has not yet paid.

LEG NOT WORTH $15,000.

TRENTON, N. J., June 6.—The Supreme Court held to-day that a verdict of $15,000 damages for the loss of a leg was grossly excessive.

George F. Bender was a chauffeur employed by P. Sanford Ross of Newark, and was injured when an explosion occurred in the garage. His leg was amputated as a result, and he brought suit, being awarded the $15,000. As he is a machinist by trade, the court held that the loss of the leg did not keep him from making a livelihood.

LABORER BEATEN AND SHOT.

PASSAIC, N. J., June 6.—Beaten and shot in the back by four unidentified men in a lonely part of Garfield early to-day, Louis DeLava of Lake Avenue, Clifton, was found lying in the road by workmen this morning.

He said he was on his way to work in the Forstmann-Huffman mill, when the men attacked him. One hit him with a club, while another shot him. He was carried to St. Mary's Hospital here, where it was said that his wounds were serious.

Weyburn in Bankruptcy Again.

Edward C. Weyburn, theatrical producer, of 2,465 Broadway has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $18,171 and assets of $130. His liabilities now are for loans, advertising, rent, printing, and personal expenses. There are eight creditors.

Davis as Principal of the High School at Ridgefield Park, I shall be compelled to recommend that Overpeck Township's share of State school money be withheld," was the substance of a communication received by the Board of Education of Ridgefield Park from County Superintendent of Schools B. C. Wocster, and in accordance therewith at a special meeting Mr. Davis was reinstated.
